Proving ground: an account of the radiobiological studies in the Pacific, 1946-1961 Neal O. Hines, A History of Radioecology Patrick C. Kangas, 2022-12-26 This book presents a history of radioecology from World War II through to the critical years of the Cold War finishing with a discussion of recent developments and future implications for the field Drawing on a vast array of primary sources the book reviews synthesizes and discusses the implications of the ecological research supported by the Atomic Energy Commission AEC of the United States government from World War II to the early 1970s This was a critical period in the history of ecology characterized by a transition from the older largely descriptive studies of communities of plants and animals to the modern form of the science involving functional studies of energy flow and mineral cycling in ecosystems This transition was in large part due to the development of radioecology which was a by product of the Cold War and the need to understand and predict the consequences of a nuclear war that was planned but has never occurred The book draws on important case studies such as the Pacific Proving Grounds the Nevada Test Site El Verde in Puerto Rico the Brookhaven National Laboratory and recent events such as the nuclear disasters at Chernobyl and Fukushima By revisiting studies and archived information from the Cold War era this book offers lessons from the history of radioecology to provide background and perspective for understanding possible present day impacts from issues of radiation risks associated with nuclear power generation and waste disposal Post Cold War developments in radioecology will be also reviewed and contrasted with the AEC supported ecology research for further perspectives This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of radioecology environmental pollution environmental technology bioscience and environmental history

Food and War in Mid-Twentieth-Century East Asia Katarzyna J. Cwiertka, 2016-04-15 War has been both an agent of destruction and a catalyst for innovation These two at first sight contradictory yet mutually constitutive outcomes of war waging are particularly pronounced in twentieth century Asia While 1945 marked the beginning of peaceful recovery for Europe military conflicts continued to play a critical role in the historical development of this part of the world In essence all wars in twentieth century Asia stemmed from the political vacuum that developed after the fall of the Japanese Wartime Empire intricately connecting one region with another Yet they have had often very diverse consequences shattering the homes of some and bringing about affluence to others Disarray of war may halt economic activities and render many aspects of life insignificant The need for food however cannot be ignored and the social action that it requires continues in all circumstances This book documents the effects of war on the lives of ordinary people through the investigation of a variety of connections that developed between war waging and the production distribution preparation and consumption of food throughout Asia since the 1930s The topics addressed range from issues at stake at the time of the conflicts such as provisioning the troops and food rationing and food relief for civilians to long term often surprising consequences of war waging and wartime mobilization of resources on the food systems diets and tastes of the societies involved The main argument of this volume is that war has not been a mere disruption but rather a central force in the social and cultural trajectories of twentieth century Asia Due to its close connection with human nourishment and comfort food stands central in the life of the individual On the other hand owing to its connection with profit and power food plays a critical role in the social and economic organization of a society What happens to food and eating is therefore an important index of change a privileged basis for the exploration of historical processes TID. ,1963 Ecological Knowledge and Environmental Problem-Solving National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Commission on Life Sciences,Committee on the Applications of Ecological Theory to Environmental Problems,1986-02-01 This volume explores how the scientific tools of ecology can be used more effectively in dealing with a variety of complex environmental problems Part I discusses the usefulness of such ecological knowledge as population dynamics and interactions community ecology life histories and the impact of various materials and energy sources on the environment Part II contains 13 original and instructive case studies pertaining to the biological side of environmental problems which Nature described as carefully chosen and extremely interesting Anthropology in Use John Van Willigen,1980 First Published in 1980 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Made in Hanford Hill Williams,2021-06-22 On the eve of World War II news of an astonishing breakthrough filtered out of Germany Scientists there had split uranium atoms Researchers in the United States scrambled to verify results and further investigate this new science Ominously they soon recognized its potential to fuel the ultimate weapon one able to release the energy of an uncontrolled chain reaction By 1941 experiments led to the identification of plutonium but laboratory work generated the new element in amounts far too small to be useful Fearing the Nazis were on the verge of harnessing nuclear power President Franklin D Roosevelt gambled on an ambitious project to research and manufacture uranium and plutonium for military use As research continued engineers began to construct massive buildings in an isolated eastern Washington farming community Within two years Hanford became the world's first plutonium factory The incredibly complex operation was accomplished with a speed and secrecy unheard of today few involved knew what they were building But on August 9 1945 when the Fat Man fell on Nagasaki the workers understood their part in changing the world Hanford's role did not end there The facility produced plutonium throughout the Cold War Some was used in tests conducted halfway around the world Nuclear bombs were dropped on the Bikini and Eniwetok Atolls profoundly impacting the Marshall Islands people and forever altering their way of life Through clear scientific explanations and personal reminiscences Hill Williams traces Hanford's role in the amazing and tragic story of the plutonium bomb Eniwetok Marine Biological Laboratory Contributions, 1955-1974 Eniwetok Marine Biological Laboratory,1976 Nuclear Dawn James P. Delgado,2011-12-20 The obliteration of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in August 1945 brought the world to a stand still This unimaginable shock confirmed to the world that the race to develop a working atomic weapon during World War II had been won by the American led international effort Horrific and controversial even today these first uses of the atomic bomb had intense ramifications not only on the continued development of the bomb but also on politics and popular culture As well as the technological development historian James Delgado also examines how the US Army Air Force had to develop the capacity to deliver the weapons and examines the sites where development and testing took place in order to give a comprehensive history of the dawning of the nuclear age Biology and Geology of Coral Reefs V3 O.A.

Hacker,1994-01-01 Unforgettable congressional hearings in 1978 revealed that fallout from American nuclear weapons testing in the 1950s had overexposed hundreds of soldiers and other citizens to radiation Faith in governmental integrity was shaken and many people have assumed that such overexposure caused great damage Yet important questions remain the most controversial being did the radiation overexposure in fact cause the cancers and birth defects for which it has been blamed Elements of Controversy is the result of a decade of exhaustive research in AEC documentary records and the full clinical and epidemiological literature on radiation effects More concerned with uncovering the historical story than with assigning blame Barton Hacker concludes that every precaution was taken by the AEC to avoid harming test participants or bystanders And he points out the biomedical literature suggests that these precautions worked Yet top officials in Washington for whom the success of nuclear weapons was of overriding importance had asserted that testing involved no risks at all Discrepancies between unverifiable government claims and the revelations that some actual risk was present explain the origins and angry persistence of the controversies Hacker argues The Department of Energy delayed publication of Hacker s study for five years and while his controversial book is sure to draw objections from both

Bebee,1986 Nuclear Playground Stewart Firth,2020-11-19 In the late 1980s it was felt that World War III could start in the Pacific Long regarded by the USA as an American lake the Pacific was now a focus of competition between the superpowers The USSR whose nuclear arms navy was limited to their north Pacific ports now had a major new naval base at Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam In response to this new threat the Americans were planning more urgently for nuclear war in the Pacific adding to their own mighty arsenal in the region and taunting the Soviets with aggressive surveillance and military exercises The Soviets did the same For 40 years Pacific Islanders have had cause to resent the use of their ocean as a nuclear playground of the five nuclear powers three the USA USSR and China launched missiles into the Pacific for test purposes two the USA and Britain exploded nuclear devices there but had stopped and one France continued to test nuclear bombs in one of its colonies Pacific Islanders now have cause to fear that the ocean is becoming a nuclear battleground Originally published in 1987 this book tells the story of the nuclear men in the Pacific and of those people they displaced and irradiated It is also about what these people and their governments had begun to do in response The nuclear issue had transformed the political landscape of Micronesia and the South Pacific in the 1980s loosening the US grip and making the French increasingly unpopular The people of these remote communities largely forgotten or considered dispensable had a nuclear past made for them Now they want to make their own future
