Kuh,Jillian Kinzie,Jennifer A. Buckley,Brian K. Bridges,John C. Hayek,2011-10-13 Creating the conditions that foster student success in college has never been more important As many as four fifths of high school graduates need some form of postsecondary education to be economically self sufficient and manage the increasingly complex social political and cultural issues of the 21st century But about 40 percent of those who start college fail to earn a degree within 6 or 8 years an unacceptably low number This report examines the complicated array of social economic cultural and educational factors related to student success in college defined as academic achievement engagement in educationally purposeful activities satisfaction acquisition of desired knowledge skills and competencies persistence and attainment of educational objectives Although the trajectory for academic success in college is established long before students matriculate most institutions can do more than they are at present to shape how students prepared for college and they they engage in productive activities after they arrive This is the 5th issue of the 32nd volume of the Jossey Bass series ASHE Higher Education Report Each monograph is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education problem based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences Topics are identified by a national survey Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication Ensuring the Success of Latino Males in Higher Education Victor B. Sáenz,Luis Ponjuán,Julie L. Figueroa,2023-07-03 Latino males are effectively vanishing from the American higher education pipeline Even as the number of Latinas/os attending college has actually increased steadily over the last few decades the proportional representation of Latino males continues to slide relative to their Latina female counterparts The question of why Latino males are losing ground in accessing higher education relative to their peers is an important and complex one and it lies at the heart of this book There are several broad themes highlighted catalogued along with the four dimensions of policy theory research and practice The contributors to this book present new research on factors that inhibit or promote Latino success in both four year institutions and community colleges in order to inform both policy and practice They explore the social cultural factors peer dynamics and labor force demands that may be perpetuating the growing gender gap and consider what lessons can be learned from research on the success of Latinas This book also closely examines key practices that enable first generation Latino male undergraduates to succeed which may seem counterintuitive to institutional expectations and preconceived notions of student behavior Using narrative data the book also explores the role of family in persistence outlines how Latino men conceptualize fulfilling expectations negotiate the emasculation of the educational process and how they confront racialization in the pursuit of a higher education uncovers attitudes to help seeking that are detrimental to their success and analyzes how those who succeed and progress in college apply their social capital whether aspirational navigational social linguistic familial or resistant While uncovering the lack of awareness at all levels of our colleges and universities about the depth and severity of the challenges facing Latino males this book provides the foundation for rethinking policy challenges leaders to institutionalize male focused programs and services and presents data to inform needed changes in practice for outreach and retention
