Eating Identities Wenying Xu, 2018-03-31 The French epicure and gastronome Brillat Savarin declared Tell me what you eat and I will tell you who you are Wenying Xu infuses this notion with cultural political energy by extending it to an ethnic group known for its cuisines Asian Americans She begins with the general argument that eating is a means of becoming not simply in the sense of nourishment but more importantly of what we choose to eat what we can afford to eat what we secretly crave but are ashamed to eat in front of others and how we eat Food as the most significant medium of traffic between the inside and outside of our bodies organizes signifies and legitimates our sense of self and distinguishes us from others who practice different foodways Narrowing her scope Xu reveals how cooking eating and food fashion Asian American identities in terms of race ethnicity gender class diaspora and sexuality She provides lucid and informed interpretations of seven Asian American writers John Okada Joy Kogawa Frank Chin Li Young Lee David Wong Louie Mei Ng and Monique Truong and places these identity issues in the fascinating spaces of food hunger consumption appetite desire and orality Asian American literature abounds in culinary metaphors and references but few scholars have made sense of them in a meaningful way Most literary critics perceive alimentary references as narrative strategies or part of the background Xu takes food as the central site of cultural and political struggles waged in the seemingly private domain of desire in the lives of Asian Americans Eating Identities is the first book to link food to a wide range of Asian American concerns such as race and sexuality Unlike most sociological studies which center on empirical analyses of the relationship between food and society it focuses on how food practices influence psychological and ontological formations and thus contributes significantly to the growing field of food studies For students of literature this tantalizing work offers an illuminating lesson on how to read the multivalent meanings of food and eating in literary texts The Lost Art of Real Cooking Ken Albala, Rosanna Nafziger Henderson, 2010-07-06 It's time to take back the kitchen It's time to unlock the pantry and break free from the shackles of ready made industrial food It's time to cook supper The Lost Art of Real Cooking heralds a new old fashioned approach to food laborious and inconvenient yet extraordinarily rewarding and worth bragging about From jam yogurt and fresh pasta to salami smoked meat and strudel Ken Albala and Rosanna Nafziger arm you with the knowledge and skills that let you connect on a deeper level with what goes into your body Ken and Rosanna celebrate the patience it takes to make your own sauerkraut and pickles They divulge the mysteries of capturing wild sourdoughs and culturing butter the beauty of rendering lard making cheese and brewing beer all without the fancy toys that take away from the adventure of truly experiencing your food These foods were once made by the family in the home rather than a factory And they can still be made in the smallest kitchens without expensive equipment capturing flavors that speak of place and personality What you won't find here is a collection of rigid rules for the perfect meal Ken and Rosanna offer a wealth of recipes history and techniques that start with the basics and evolve into dishes that are entirely your own
