Abstract

A case-control study was conducted to test the hypothesis that exposure to magnetic fields of the type generated by high-voltage power lines increases cancer incidence in children. The study base consisted of everyone under age 16 years who had lived on a property located within 300 meters of any of the 220 and 400 kV power lines in Sweden during the period 1960–1985. Subjects were followed from their entry into the study base through 1985. A total of 142 cancer cases were identified through a record linkage to the Swedish Cancer Registry. There were 39 leukemia and 33 central nervous system tumor cases. A total of 558 controls were selected at random from the study base. Exposure was

Magnetic Fields and Cancer in People Residing Near Swedish High Voltage Power Lines Maria Feychting, Anders Ahlbom, 1994-05-01 A study aimed at testing the hypothesis that exposure to magnetic fields of the type generated by high voltage power lines increases cancer incidence This case control study was based on the population comprised of everyone who lived on property located within 300 meters from any of the 220 and 400 kv power lines in Sweden during the period from 1960 through 1985 90 charts and tables Assessment of Health Effects from Exposure to Power-line

Frequency Electric and Magnetic Fields, 1998 Electric and magnetic fields: invisible risks? Sagan, 1996-05-01 The book determines that risks of EMF exposure are small compared to the already existing incidence of cancer in the population Five international studies completed since 1992 are excerpted and summarized The consensus of these reviews appears to be a general skepticism regarding the relationship of EMFs to human health effects particularly cancer but This treatise on electromagnetic fields EMF attempts to unravel the complex problem of how these fields affect humans and animals a challenge which has recently come under intense public scrutiny This book provides the reader with the knowledge to make an informed rational decision about the possible dangers inherent in our everyday contact with electric power Handbook of Biological Effects of Electromagnetic Fields, Third Edition - 2 Volume Set Charles Polk, Elliot Postow, 1995-12-21 The first edition of this book has been recognized as the standard reference on biological effects of electric and magnetic fields from DC to microwaves But much has changed in this science since the book's original publication in 1986 With contributions from eighteen leading researchers this latest edition includes authoritative discussions of many new developments and will quickly become the new must have resource handbook Dielectric properties of biological tissue are thoroughly examined followed by chapters on physical mechanisms and biological effects of static and extremely low frequency magnetic fields New chapters on topics that were treated very briefly in the first edition now receive extensive treatment These topics include electric and magnetic fields for bone and soft tissue repair electroporation and epidemiology of ELF health effects The chapter on computer methods for predicting field intensity has been substantially revised to describe new numerical techniques developed within the last few years and includes calculations of power absorbed in the human head from cellular telephones The chapter discussing experimental results on RF interaction with living matter now contains information on effects of very high power very short duration pulses A new appendix on safety standards is based on the latest publications of governmental as well as quasi governmental organizations such as the U S Council on Radiation Protection in the United States Europe and Australia With all its revisions this updated version of the CRC Handbook of Biological Effects of Electromagnetic Fields provides the most comprehensive overview available of this rapidly changing science Niehs Report on Health Effects from Exposure to Power-Line Frequency Electric and Magnetic Fields Kenneth Olden, 1999-11 Describes the analysis and conclusions of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences NIEHS regarding possible health effects from ELF EMF magnetic field exposures The NIEHS carried out a hazard evaluation of ELF EMF exposure that examined both historical and novel scientific evidence on possible health and biological effects at a series of open scientific meetings The scientific evidence suggesting that ELF EMF exposures pose any health risk is weak and there is a lack of connection between the human data and the experimental data animal and mechanistic
