When I wrote a book on how to learn quilting in our learning series I noticed that many of the traditional works which were seen in the museums were made up of patches of cloth In fact excavations in ancient Egypt have shown clothes made out of patchwork So it should not be surprising that mankind has been using his ingenuity to use his habit of thrift as well as creativity in order to make useful things for his family And that is why we should not find it surprising that patchwork has been around for centuries and the people before us being frugal and ready to utilize every bit of material in their houses to their utmost knew exactly how to take care of stray bits of cloth Firstly they made clothes out of them These clothes were handed down from child to child and stitched to fit the youngsters Only the very rich could afford to buy new clothes for all their children and down the ages many families learned how to make do Children took it for granted that they would be wearing clothes which may have belonged to somebody else In fact I have some 75 year old photographs of my father wearing a pair of trousers which were about 3 inches short As he was the first son of his large family which was comparatively prosperous I asked him whether he had been wearing new shorts and if so why didn't they fit him He said that it is possible that they belonged to one of his numerous uncles who had outgrown them These also included blankets quilts and rugs especially those rugs made of thick and absorbent material which were made by hand and placed under a baby These rugs used to be washed and sunned every second day to get rid of any potential germs especially if the baby wet it So it was taken for granted that nothing was waste in poor as well as rich families Only royalty wore clothes just once and then gave those clothes to the people around them
