Making A Nation The United States And Its People:

Making a Nation Jeanne Boydston, Jan Ellen Lewis, James Oakes, 2003 Contemporary Nutrition is designed for students with little or no background in college level biology chemistry or physiology. It provides the ideal balance of reliable nutrition information and practical consumer oriented knowledge. With a friendly writing style the authors act as the student's personal guide to dispelling common misconceptions and to gaining a solid foundation for making informed nutrition choices. Contemporary Nutrition emphasizes that a population consists of individuals with varying genetic and cultural backgrounds and these individuals will have varying responses to diet. The knowledge gained from this text will allow students to personalize nutrition information and make smart choices.

Building the Nation Heather S. Gregg, 2018-12 Building the Nation draws from foreign policy reports and interviews with U.S. military officers to investigate recent U.S. led efforts to nation build in Iraq and Afghanistan. Heather Selma Gregg argues that efforts to nation build in both countries focused more on what should be called state building or how to establish a government, rule of law, security forces and a viable economy. Considerably less attention was paid to what might truly be called nation building, the process of developing a sense of shared identity, purpose and destiny among a population within a state's borders and popular support for the state and its government. According to Gregg, efforts to stabilize states in the modern world require two key factors largely overlooked in Iraq and Afghanistan: popular involvement in the process of rebuilding the state that gives the population ownership of the process and its results, and efforts to foster and strengthen national unity. Gregg offers a hypothetical look at how the United States and its allies could have used a population centric approach to build viable states in Iraq and Afghanistan, focusing on initiatives that would have given the population buy in and agency. Moving forward, Gregg proposes a six step program for state and nation building in the twenty first century, stressing that these efforts are as much about how state building is done as they are about specific goals or programs.

The Nation and Its Peoples John Park, Shannon Gleeson, 2014-02-03 With this volume The University of California Center for New Racial Studies inaugurates a new book series with Routledge. Focusing on the shifting and contradictory meaning of race, The Nation and Its Peoples underscores the persistence of structural discrimination and the ways in which race has formally disappeared in the law and yet remains one of the most powerful underlying unacknowledged and often unspoken aspects of debates about citizenship, about membership and national belonging within immigration politics and policy. This collection of original essays also emphasizes the need for race scholars to be more attentive to the processes and consequences of migration across multiple boundaries, as surely there is no place that can stay fixed racially or otherwise when so many people have been moving. This book is ideal as required reading in courses as well as a vital new resource for researchers throughout the social sciences.
