Rethinking ADHD Sami Timimi,Jonathan Leo,2017-09-16 This book brings together for the first time a selection of international critiques on the role of ADHD in our society today looking at how diagnoses have increased in recent years and the reasons behind this Topics range from genetics to social culture offering a comprehensive overview of this area Child Perspectives and Children's Perspectives in Theory and Practice Dion Sommer,Ingrid Pramling Samuelsson,Karsten Hundeide,2009-12-24 Recent decades have seen a growing emphasis in a number of professional contexts on acknowledging and acting on the views of children This trend was given added weight by the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child ratified in 1990 Today seeking the perspective of the child has become an essential process in all sorts of tasks from framing new legislation to regulating professions This book answers the fundamental question of what it is that constitutes a child perspective and how this might differ from the perspectives of children themselves The answers to such questions have important implications for building progressive and developmental adult child relationships However theoretical and empirical treatments of child perspectives and children s perspectives are very diverse and idiosyncratic and the standard reference work has yet to be written Thus this work is an attempt to fill the gap in the literature by searching for and defining key formulations of potential child perspectives within parts of the so called new child paradigm This has been derived from childhood sociology contextual relational developmental psychology interpretative humanistic psychology and developmental pedagogy The highly experienced authors develop a comprehensive professional child perspective paradigm that integrates recent theory and empirical child research With its clear presentation of underlying theories and suggested applications this book illustrates a child oriented understanding of specific relevance to both child care and preschool educational practice Racism in Children's Lives Barry Troyna,Richard Hatcher,2018-10-03 Originally published in 1992 Both teachers and the general public have traditionally been unwilling to acknowledge that concepts of race might play a part in the lives of primary school children For this book the authors spent a term in each of three mainly white primary schools They talked to black and white pupils individually and in small groups about issues not necessarily of race which the children themselves saw as important From these conversations they present a fascinating study of how race emerges for young children as a plausible explanatory framework for incidents in their everyday lives The final picture is both disturbing in its demonstration of how significant racism is and hopeful in showing how frequently anti racist attitudes exist even in the thinking of children who engage in racist behaviour A final chapter looks at how school policy can combat racism and build on these positive elements Teaching Critical Psychology Craig Newnes,Laura Golding,2017-11-10 This edited volume may be the definitive text on methods and content in teaching psychology from an international and critical perspective Chapters from internationally renowned contributors working clinically educationally and in the community with a range of client groups outline critical teaching by and for professionals and service recipients This timely book offers a unique research based and philosophically coherent approach to teaching psychology including teaching methods the lecture content of radical approaches to modern psychology and debates as to whether the aim of teaching is to liberate or control Themes include the nature of pedagogy the importance of teaching and learning style the relevance of context and content and the ways in which traditional teaching forms a part of the disciplinary rather than critical project Teaching Critical Psychology offers guidance in teaching pupils students peers and those on academic programmes at under graduate and post graduate level
