Handbook of the Clinical Treatment of

Infidelity Katherine Milewski Hertlein, Fred P Piercy, Joseph L. Wetchler, 2013-03-07 Help your clients' relationships survive infidelity. In the Handbook of the Clinical Treatment of Infidelity, a panel of seasoned experts reflects on issues central to affairs and on how to help couples heal and learn from them. First editors Fred P Piercy, Katherine M Hertlein and Joseph L Wetchler provide an essential overview of infidelity theory, research and treatment. They discuss the effect of infidelity on couples and delineate three types of infidelity: emotional, physical and Internet infidelity, including aspects of both. They review the relatively new role of the Internet in infidelity and explore infidelity within the context of comarital relationships. Finally, they discuss the overarching theories and common models used in infidelity treatment. Also in the Handbook of the Clinical Treatment of Infidelity, Susan M Johnson, the co-developer of Emotionally Focused Therapy (EFT), discusses affairs through the lens of attachment theory and shows how EFT provides a way to acknowledge and express pain, remorse and regret and to repair this attachment bond. David Moultrup takes a Bowenian approach to infidelity, focusing attention on the underlying dynamics of the emotional system. Frank Pittman and Tina Pittman Wagers outline cultural myths about affairs and do their share of debunking. Adrian Blow discusses how to help couples directly address their pain and the challenges of the healing process. Brian Case highlights the role of apology and forgiveness in the healing process. Frank Stalfa and Catherine Hastings focus on the treatment of accusatory suffering: a spouse's obsessive holding onto and retaliating for an affair long after it has ended and despite the offending partner's repeated apologies and attempts at restitution. Don David Lusterman discusses individuals who have suppressed or denied traumatic stress reactions to their partner's affair and how to help them. Scott Johnson discusses myths about affairs: from who is cheating on whom to whether men really have more affairs than women to the blame-filled language of affairs, betrayal and infidelity, asking us to think more systematically about affairs and to see the dynamics of extra-dyadic relationships as more complex and nuanced than they are typically portrayed in the literature. Joan Atwood provides an overview of Internet infidelity: the factors influencing one's involvement in this type of infidelity and some considerations for therapists. Tim Nelson, Fred Piercy and Doug Sprenkle report on the results of a multi-phase Delphi study that explored what infidelity experts say are the critical issues, interventions and gender differences in the treatment of Internet infidelity. Monica Whitty and Adrian Carr draw upon Klein's object relations theory and discuss how this might influence the way people rationalize their Internet infidelity Emily Brown outlines the concept of the Split Self Affair discussing its origins characteristics and implications for individuals and couples and providing detailed information on how to work with these couples in therapy Michael Bettinger presents extra dyadic relationship as a fact rather than a problem within many gay male relationships a discussion that shows how gay male polyamory can work as an alternative to the heterosexual model of emotional and sexual exclusivity in romantic dyadic relationships Katherine Hertlein and Gary Skaggs report on the results of a study that assessed the level of differentiation and one's engagement in extra dyadic relationships The Handbook of the Clinical Treatment of Infidelity is essential reading for today's and tomorrow's clinicians who work with couples Make it a p

Handbook of Interpersonal Commitment and Relationship Stability Jeffrey M. Adams, Warren H. Jones, 2012-12-06 A fundamental assumption underlying the formation of our most important relationships is that they will persist indefinitely into the future As an acquaintanceship turns into a friendship for example both members of this newly formed interpersonal bond are likely to expect that their interactions will become increasingly frequent diverse and intimate over time This expectation is perhaps most apparent in romantically involved couples who through a variety of verbal and symbolic means make explicit pledges to a long lasting relationship In either case it is clear that these relationships represent something valuable to the individuals involved and are pursued with great enthusiasm Virtually all close relationships are formed within the context of mutually rewarding interactions and or strong physical attraction between partners Friends and romantically involved couples alike are drawn to one another because of similarity of attitudes interests and personality and quite simply because they enjoy one another's company This enjoyment coupled with the novelty that characterizes new relationships almost makes the continuation of the relationship a foregone conclusion As relationships progress however their novelty fades conflicts may arise between partners negative life events may occur and the satisfaction that previously characterized the relationships may diminish
