Making Movies with Orson Welles Gary Graver, 2011-10-18 In 1958, Gary Graver moved from his hometown of Portland, Oregon, to Los Angeles, California, with dreams of an acting career in Hollywood. Soon after his arrival, he caught a double bill in a small theater on Hollywood Boulevard, the lower half of which was the recently released Touch of Evil. Upon viewing the B-classic, Graver decided he wanted to be a director and spent many years honing his craft as both a cinematographer and a director, not to mention writer, actor, and producer, much like his idol Orson Welles. In 1970, when Graver learned that Welles was in town, he impulsively called up the director and offered him his services as a cameraman. It was only the second time in Welles's career that he had received such an offer from a cinematographer, the other being from Gregg Toland, who worked on one of the greatest films ever, Citizen Kane. In Making Movies with Orson Welles, Graver recounts the highs and lows of the moviemaking business as he and one of the most important and influential directors of all time struggled to get films produced. The two men collaborated on more than a dozen projects, including F for Fake, Filming Othello, and the still-unreleased The Other Side of the Wind. Their close friendship and creative filmmaking partnership would endure for 15 years until Welles's death in 1985. Also including a filmography of works and 20 photos from Graver's personal collection, this fascinating memoir recalls what it was like to work with the legendary Welles and offers advice and tales of caution for future filmmakers.

Make Movies That Make Money! Philip R. Cable, 2009-06-08 The term low budget can refer to anything from a 10 million indie flick to a student film produced on borrowed equipment with little or no money. Low budget filmmakers can range from seasoned auteurs attempting to shed the shackles of major studio control to novice talents trying to break into the industry. Designed for would-be filmmakers of all experience levels, this book explains how to make a good, commercially successful low budget movie in the current multi-million-dollar Hollywood climate. The purpose is not only to show how to get movies made and distributed but also how to maximize a film's potential for significant profit. Written in practical, understandable terms, the book covers everything from commercially viable genres to the most efficient film and video formats, along with tips on hiring stars, pursuing investors, distributing, and marketing a film, and keeping track of expenses.

The Guerilla Film Makers Handbook Chris Jones, Genevieve Jolliffe, 2006-01-01 This third edition of the UK's best-selling filmmaker's bible builds upon the most successful features of the previous books. Including illustrations, diagrams, and box-outs, this book comes with a DVD packed with further interviews with filmmakers, as well as theatrical trailers.

Make Your Story a Movie John Robert Marlow, 2012-12-11 50 Billion of Advice in One Book. Have you ever wondered why some books and stories are adapted into movies and others aren't? Or wished you could sit down and pick the brains of the people whose stories have been adapted or the screenwriters, producers, and directors who adapted them? Author John Robert Marlow has done it for you. He spoke to book authors, playwrights, comic book creators, and publishers, as well as Hollywood screenwriters, producers, and directors responsible for adapting fictional and true stories into Emmy-winning TV shows, Oscar-winning films, billion-dollar megahits, and smaller independents. Then he talked to the entertainment attorneys who made the deals. He came away with a unique understanding of adaptations, an understanding he shares in this book: which stories make good source material and why, what Hollywood wants and doesn't want, what you can and can't get in a movie deal, how to write and pitch your story to maximize the chances of a Hollywood adaptation, and how much and when you can expect to be paid. This book contains the distilled experience of creators, storytellers, and others whose works have earned over $50 billion worldwide. Whether you're looking to sell film rights, adapt your own story alone or with help, or option and adapt someone else's property, this book is for you.

Maximum PC, 2007. Maximum PC is the magazine that every computer fanatic, PC gamer, or content creator must read. Each and every issue is packed with punishing product reviews, insightful and innovative how-to stories, and the illuminating technical articles that enthusiasts crave.

Why We Make Movies, George Alexander, 2007-12-18. A sparkling collection of interviews with African American directors and producers. Bringing together more than thirty candid conversations with filmmakers and producers such as Spike Lee, Gordon Parks, Julie Dash, Charles Burnett, and Robert Townsend, Why We Make Movies delivers a cultural celebration with the tips of a film school master class. With journalist George Alexander, these revolutionary men and women discuss not only how they got their big breaks but more importantly, they explore the creative process and what making movies means to them. Why We Make Movies also addresses the business of Hollywood and its turning tide in a nation where African Americans comprise a sizable portion of the film-going public and go to the movies more frequently than whites. In addition, Alexander's cast of directors and producers considers the lead roles they now play in everything from documentaries and films for television to broad-based blockbusters. In fact, the highest-grossing film in Miramax history was Scary Movie, directed by Keenen Ivory Wayans. For film buffs and aspiring filmmakers alike, Why We Make Movies puts a long-overdue spotlight on one of the most exciting and cutting-edge segments of today's silver screen.
