Making Movies into Art Kaveh Askari, 2014-12-12 Focusing on early cinema's relationship with the pictorial arts this pioneering study explores how cinema's emergence was grounded in theories of picture composition craft and arts education from magic lantern experiments in 1890s New York through to early Hollywood feature films in the 1920s Challenging received notions that the advent of cinema was a celebration of mechanisation and a radical rejection of nineteenth century traditions of representation Kaveh Askari instead emphasises the overlap between craft traditions and modernity in early film Opening up valuable new perspectives on the history of film as art Askari links American silent cinema with the practice of teaching the public how to appreciate fine art charts its entrance into arts education via art schools and university film courses shows how concepts of artistic production entered films through a material interest in the studio and examines the way in which Maurice Tourneur and Rex Ingram made early art films by shaping an image of the film director around the idea of the fine artist

The Films of Jess Franco Antonio Lázaro-Reboll, Ian Olney, 2018-08-20 The Films of Jess Franco seeks to address the scholarly neglect of this legendary cult director and to broaden the conversation around the director's work in ways that will be of interest to fans and academics alike

Making Movies with Orson Welles Gary Graver, 2011-10-18 In 1958 Gary Graver moved from his hometown of Portland Oregon to Los Angeles California with dreams of an acting career in Hollywood Soon after his arrival he caught a double bill in a small theater on Hollywood Boulevard the lower half of which was the recently released Touch of Evil Upon viewing the B classic Graver decided he wanted to be a director and spent many years honing his craft as both a cinematographer and a director not to mention writer actor and producer much like his idol Orson Welles In 1970 when Graver learned that Welles was in town he impulsively called up the director and offered him his services as a cameraman. It was only the second time in Welles's career that he had received such an offer from a cinematographer, the other being from Gregg Toland who worked on one of the greatest films ever, Citizen Kane. In Making Movies with Orson Welles, Graver recounts the highs and lows of the moviemaking business as he and one of the most important and influential directors of all time struggled to get films produced. The two men collaborated on more than a dozen projects, including F for Fake, Filming Othello, and the still unreleased The Other Side of the Wind. Their close friendship and creative filmmaking partnership would endure for 15 years until Welles' death in 1985. Also including a filmography of works and 20 photos from Graver's personal collection, this fascinating memoir recalls what it was like to work with the legendary Welles and offers advice and tales of caution for future filmmakers.

Reel Spirituality (Engaging Culture) Robert K. Johnston, 2006-12-01

Increasingly, thinking Christians are examining the influential role that movies play in our cultural dialogue. Reel Spirituality successfully heightens readers' sensitivity to the theological truths and statements about the human condition expressed through modern cinema. This second edition cites 200 new movies and encourages readers to ponder movie themes that permeate our culture, as well as motion pictures that have demonstrated power to shape our perceptions of everything from relationships and careers to good and evil. Reel Spirituality is the perfect catalyst for dialogue and discipleship among moviegoers, church-based study groups, and religious film and arts groups. The second edition cites an additional 200 movies and includes new film photos.
