The early Mamluk
Sultanate 1250-1382

A large, dark brown silhouette of a Mamluk tower, likely the Citadel of Cairo, dominates the right side of the cover. The tower has a rounded top and several balconies with railings. To the left of the tower, there is a smaller, jagged silhouette of a city wall or another building.

Middle East In The Middle Ages The Early Mamluk Sultanate 1250 138:

The New Cambridge History of Islam: Volume 4, Islamic Cultures and Societies to the End of the Eighteenth Century Robert Irwin, 2010-11-04 Robert Irwin's authoritative introduction to the fourth volume of The New Cambridge History of Islam offers a panoramic vision of Islamic culture from its origins to around 1800. The introductory chapter which highlights key developments and introduces some of Islam's most famous protagonists paves the way for an extraordinarily varied collection of essays. The themes treated include religion and law, conversion, Islam's relationship with the natural world, governance and politics, caliphs and kings, philosophy, science, medicine, language, art, architecture, literature, music, and even cookery. What emerges from this rich collection, written by an international team of experts, is the diversity and dynamism of the societies which created this flourishing civilization. Volume four of The New Cambridge History of Islam serves as a thematic companion to the three preceding politically oriented volumes and in coverage extends across the pre-modern Islamic world. Essays in Honor of J.M. Rogers Gülru Necipoğlu, Doris Behrens-Abouseif, Anna Contadini, 2004 Daily Life in the Medieval Islamic World James E. Lindsay, 2005-06-30 From the time of its birth in Mecca in the 7th century C.E., Islam and the Islamic world rapidly expanded outward, extending to Spain and West Africa in the west and to Central Asia and the Indian Subcontinent in the east. An examination of the daily life in these Islamic regions provides insight into a civilized, powerful, and economically stable culture where large metropolitan centers such as Damascus, Baghdad, and Cairo thrived in many areas, including intellectual and scientific inquiry. In contrast with medieval Europe, there is little common knowledge in the West of the culture and history of this vibrant world as different from our own in terms of the political, religious, and social values it possessed, as it is similar in terms of the underlying human situation that supports such values. This book provides an intimate look into the daily life of the medieval Islamic world and is thus an invaluable resource for students and general readers alike interested in understanding this world so different and yet so connected to our own. Chapters include discussions of the major themes of medieval Islamic history: Arabia, the world of Islamic origins, warfare and politics, the major cities of Damascus, Baghdad, and Cairo, religious rituals and worship, and a section on curious and entertaining information. Author James E. Lindsay further provides a focused look at the daily lives of urban Muslims during this time period and of their interactions with Jews, Christians, and other Muslims. Timelines, tables including a calendar conversion to align the Islamic lunar and the Christian solar dates, and a dynastic table highlighting the major genealogies of the ancient ruling families, a bibliography, and a glossary of important dates and technical terms are also provided to assist the reader. The Muslim World in Modern South Asia Francis Robinson, 2021-01-01 Over the past two hundred years, two great processes have shaped Muslim societies: Western domination and the industrial capitalism that came with it, and the Islamic revival that preceded the Western presence but came to interact significantly with it. In this book, Francis Robinson considers the challenges Western dominance has offered, key aspects of Muslim civilization, particularly in the context of

South Asia which in the nineteenth century moved from being a receiver of influences from the rest of the Muslim world to being a transmitter of influences to it Robinson also considers aspects of the Muslim revival and how they have come to shape in various ways Muslim responses to Western dominance The role of the transmission of knowledge both formal and spiritual in forming Muslim societies is explored and also the particular role of the transmitters in sustaining the Islamic dimensions of Muslim societies under Western dominance Attention too is paid to the imposition of the modern state and the restriction of cosmopolitan spaces

Orthodoxy and Islam in the Middle East
Constantine A. Panchenko, 2021-03-01 Panchenko has written a masterful exhaustive study of the life of Arab Orthodox Christians John Paul A. Ghobrial Department of History Balliol College University of Oxford Conflict or concord Histories of Islam from its early seventh century beginnings in Arabia often portray its explosive growth into the wider Middle East as a story of struggle and conquest of the Christian people of Greater Syria Palestine and Egypt Alternatively these histories suggest that as often as not the conquerors were welcomed by the conquered and their existing monotheistic faiths of Christianity and Judaism tolerated and even allowed to flourish In this short but in depth survey of the almost nine centuries that passed from the beginning of the spread of Islam up to the Ottoman Turkish conquest of Syria and Egypt beginning in 1516 Constantin Panchenko offers a more complex portrayal that opens up fresh vistas of understanding of these centuries focusing on the impact that the coming of Islam had on the Orthodox Christian communities of the Middle East and in particular the interplay of their Greek cultural heritage and experience of increasing Arabization This work is drawn from the author's much larger work Arab Orthodox Christians Under the Ottomans being an updated and expanded version of the first chapter of that book which set the historical context for the period after 1516 It will deepen the readers understanding both of the history of the Middle East in these centuries and of how the faith of Orthodox Christians in these lands is lived today
