Wenke, 1980 Patterns in Prehistory Robert J. Wenke, Deborah Olszewski, 2007 This is a comprehensive survey of world prehistory designed for introductory world prehistory courses in anthropology departments The text brings together theories archaeological examples to pose questions about who we are the means by which humanity evolved It reveals how archaeologists decipher the past Maps of Time David Christian, 2011-09 Introducing a novel perspective on the study of history David Christian views the interaction of the natural world with the more recent arrivals in flora fauna including human beings Where Do We Come From? Jan Klein, Naoyuki Takahata, 2013-03-09 From the moment it first began to contemplate the world three questions have occupied the human mind Where do we come from What are we Where are we going Artists notably Paul Gauguin religious thinkers philosophers and most recently scientists have all searched for answers Here the authors describe how scientists decipher human origin from the record encrypted in the DNA and protein molecules After explaining the nature of descent and the methods available for studying genealogical relationships they summarize the information revealed by the molecular archives about the Tree of Life and our location on one of its branches The knowledge thus gleaned allows them to draw conclusions about our identity our place in the living world our future and the ethical implications of the changed perspective Ancient Near Eastern History and Culture William H. Stiebing Jr., Susan N. Helft, 2017-09-07 Organized by the periods kingdoms and empires generally used in ancient Near Eastern political history Ancient Near Eastern History and Culture interlaces social and cultural history with a political narrative Charts figures maps and historical documents introduce the reader to the material world of the ancient Near East including Egypt The emphasis on historical debates and areas of uncertainty helps students understand how historians use evidence to create interpretations and that several different interpretations of history are possible New features in this edition include Reorganization of the chapters on the early periods with discussions incorporating the latest archaeological finds New Debating the Evidence sections discussing current controversial issues in Near Eastern history These sections make it easy for students and teachers to find and use the portions of the text devoted to scholarly arguments about various aspects of ancient Near Eastern history A new chapter Ancient Israel and Judah has been added to cover more completely the crucial issues of ancient Israelite history and religion More emphasis has been placed on the role and contributions of women in the ancient Near East The most important change is the addition of co author Susan N Helft a specialist in the art and archaeology of the ancient Near East who has applied her considerable knowledge insight research and editing skills throughout the book This new edition of Ancient Near Eastern History and Culture will remain a crucial text for students beginning to learn about the fascinating civilizations of the Near East Ride of the Second Horseman Robert L. O'Connell, 1997-10-23 Accurst be he that first invented war wrote Christopher Marlowe a declaration that most of us would take as a literary not literal construction But in this sweeping overview of the rise of civilization Robert O Connell finds that war is indeed an invention an institution that arose due to very specific historical circumstances an institution that now verges on extinction In Ride of the Second Horseman O Connell probes the distant human past to show how and why war arose He begins with a definition that distinguishes between war and mere feuding war involves group rather than individual issues political or economic goals and direction by some governmental structure carried out with the intention of lasting results With this definition he finds that ants are the only other creatures that conduct it battling other colonies for territory and slaves But ants unlike humans are driven by their genes in humans changes in our culture and subsistence patterns not our genetic hardware brought the rise of organized warfare O Connell draws on anthropology and archeology to locate the rise of war sometime after the human transition from nomadic hunting and gathering to agriculture when society split between farmers and pastoralists Around 5500 BC these pastoralists initiated the birth of war with raids on Middle Eastern agricultural settlements The farmers responded by ringing their villages with walls setting off a process of further social development intensified combat and ultimately the rise of complex urban societies dependent upon warfare to help stabilize what amounted to highly volatile population structures beset by frequent bouts of famine and epidemic disease In times of overpopulation the armies either conquered new lands or self destructed leaving fewer mouths to feed In times of underpopulation slaves were taken to provide labor O Connell explores the histories of the civilizations of ancient Sumeria Egypt Assyria China and the New World showing how war came to each and how it adapted to varying circumstances On the other hand societies based on trade employed war much more selectively and pragmatically Thus Minoan Crete long protected from marauding pastoralists developed a wealthy mercantile society marked by unmilitaristic attitudes equality between men and women and a relative absence of class distinctions In Assyria by contrast war came to be an end in itself in a culture dominated by male warriors Despite the violence in the world today O Connell finds reason for hope The industrial revolution broke the old patterns of subsistence war no longer serves the demographic purpose it once did Fascinating and provocative Ride of the Second Horseman offers a far reaching tour of human history that suggests the age old cycle of war may now be near its end Earth Sciences and Archaeology Paul Goldberg, Vance T. Holliday, C. Reid Ferring, 2013-11-11 Earth Sciences and Archaeology brings together contributions from an experienced group of archaeologists and geologists whose common objective is to present thorough and current reviews of the diverse ways in which methods from the earth sciences can contribute to archaeological research Many areas of research are addressed here including artifact analysis and sourcing landscape reconstruction and site formation analysis soil micromorphology and geophysical exploration of buried sites Archaeology has benefited from geological methods in many ways in recent decades However in the past ten to twenty years this informal collaboration between geologists and archaeologists has grown into a formal integration of earth science and archaeology on a significant scale This book allows the contributors to assess where we are in terms of interdisciplinary research which approaches work best in specific situations and where this collaborative approach should progress to in the future
