Pattons GI Photographers:

Patton's GI Photographers Ralph Butterfield, 1992 Darkness Visible Charles Eugene Summers, 2010-06-28 The average GI in World War II carried a rifle had military support was committed to whatever action his unit was engaged in and often had time to rest and regroup before advancing Conversely the combat photographer had his camera a sidearm and a jeep was sent wherever there was fighting to document what was happening He often saw the worst of the war Charles Eugene Summers was a still photographer in the 166th Signal Photo Company and in Darkness Visible he offers his World War II memories some sad some happy many horrendous all life changing With the aid of many of his photographs reproduced in this book he remembers boot camp the trip overseas and events in France Germany Belgium and Luxembourg including the Battle of the Bulge while covering Patton's Third Army's field artillery infantrymen engineers the 10th Armored and the 6th Armored Other subjects include Hitler youth refugees labor camps POWs other combat photographers including his friend Russ Meyer and going back to Europe after the war The Home Fronts of Iowa, 1939-1945 Lisa L. Ossian, 2009-10-16 As Americans geared up for World War II each state responded according to its economy and circumstances as well as the disposition of its citizens This book considers the war years in Iowa by looking at activity on different home fronts and analyzing the resilience of Iowans in answering the call to support the war effort With its location in the center of the country far from potentially threatened coasts Iowa was also the center of American isolationism historically Republican and resistant to involvement in another European war Yet Iowans were quick to step up and Lisa Ossian draws on historical archives as well as on artifacts of popular culture to record the rhetoric and emotion of their support Ossian shows how Iowans quickly moved from skepticism to overwhelming enthusiasm for the war and answered the call on four fronts farms factories communities and kitchens Iowa's farmers faced labor and machinery shortages yet produced record amounts of crops and animals even at the expense of valuable topsoil Ordnance plants turned out bombs and machine gun bullets Meanwhile communities supported war bond and scrap drives while housewives coped with rationing raised Victory gardens and turned to home canning The Home Fronts of Iowa 1939-1945 depicts real people and their concerns showing the price paid in physical and mental exhaustion and notes the heavy toll exacted on Iowa's sons who fell in battle Ossian also considers the relevance of such issues as race class and gender particularly the role of women on the home front and the recruitment of both women and blacks for factory work taking into account a prevalent suspicion of ethnic groups by the state's largely homogeneous population The fact that Iowans could become loyal citizen soldiers forming an Industrial and Defense Commission even before Pearl Harbor speaks not only to the patriotism of these sturdy midwesterners but also to the overall resilience of Americans In unraveling how Iowans could so overwhelmingly support the war Ossian digs deep into history to show us the power of emotion and to help us better understand why World War II is consistently remembered as the Good War Army Reserve Magazine , A WWII Combat Photographer's Story Paula
