Redefining security in the Middle East Tami Jacoby, Brent Sasley, 2018-07-30 For over five decades the Cold War security agenda was distinguished by the principal strategic balance that of a structure of bipolarity between the United States US and the Soviet Union USSR This book seeks to draw from current developments in critical security studies in order to establish a new framework of inquiry for security in the Middle East It addresses the need to redefine security in the Middle East The focus is squarely on the Arab Israeli context in general and the Palestinian Israeli context in particular The character of Arab Israeli relations are measured by the Israeli foreign policy debate from the 1950s to the 1990s A dialogue between Islam and Islamism as a means to broaden the terrain on which conflict resolution and post bipolar security in the Middle East is to be understood is presented The Middle East peace process MEPP was an additional factor in problematizing the military strategic concept of security in the Middle East The shift in analysis from national security to human security reflects the transformations of the post Cold War era by combining military with non military concerns such as environmental damage social unrest economic mismanagement cultural conflict gender inequity and radical fundamentalism By way of contrast to realist international relations IR theory developing world theorists have proposed a different set of variables to explain the unique challenges facing developing states Finally the book examines the significance of ecopolitics in security agendas in the Middle East An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence

Emerging Security Threats in the Middle East Ashok Swain,Anders Jägerskog,2016-04-12 Increasingly the Middle East and its growing population face a highly complex and fragile security system The rich deposits of natural resources such as oil and gas suffer from a strained renewable resource base that includes water and arable land This leads to water scarcity desertification and land degradation Increasing population industrialization and urbanization put more and more demand on the food supply Energy insecurity may not be generally associated with the Middle East but the countries in the eastern Mediterranean part have been traditionally vulnerable to it as their fossil fuel endowments have been low Another issue is the large scale temporary labor migration and the large number of forced migrants refugees and internally displaced persons The book analyzes these emerging security challenges in a comprehensive and systematic manner It draws national and regional security issues into both the global security and human security perspectives
