Arabic and the Media, 2010-03-02 This volume is the first of its kind to deal with a variety of topics by leading scholars related to the use of Arabic in the media The contributors examine patterns of language use in traditional as well as new media types in order to further our understanding of the mechanism at work in the development of modern Arabic both in its standard and colloquial varieties. The first part of this volume is devoted to a close analysis of various aspects of media Arabic: code switching, language variation, orthography and constructions of identity. The second part builds on the first as it asks to what extent does the Arabic used in the media reflect social and linguistic realities of Arabic speaking audiences: which dialects? code switching and sociolects. How can our knowledge of the linguistic reality of the media in the Arab world contribute to teaching the media to foreign students learning Arabic.

Arabic Language and Islam: Oxford Bibliographies Online Research Guide
Mustafa Shah, 2010-05. This ebook is a selective guide designed to help scholars and students of Islamic studies find reliable sources of information by directing them to the best available scholarly materials in whatever form or format they appear from books, chapters and journal articles to online archives, electronic data sets and blogs. Written by a leading international authority on the subject, the ebook provides bibliographic information supported by direct recommendations about which sources to consult and editorial commentary to make it clear how the cited sources are interrelated. A reader will discover for instance the most reliable introductions and overviews to the topic and the most important publications on various areas of scholarly interest within this topic. In Islamic studies as in other disciplines, researchers at all levels are drowning in potentially useful scholarly information and this guide has been created as a tool for cutting through that material to find the exact source you need. This ebook is a static version of an article from Oxford Bibliographies Online: Islamic Studies, a dynamic, continuously updated online resource designed to provide authoritative guidance through scholarship and other materials relevant to the study of the Islamic religion and Muslim cultures. Oxford Bibliographies Online covers most subject disciplines within the social science and humanities; for more information, visit www.oxfordjournals.org/obo.

Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics XXVIII Youssef A. Haddad, Eric Potsdam, 2016-05-25. This volume makes important contributions to the growing body of descriptive and theoretical studies in Arabic linguistics. It focuses on the rich linguistic work being done on Arabic dialects. The papers on individual dialects draw attention to the micro variation that exists, emphasize that they do not comprise a uniform group and reveal the implications of dialectal variation for linguistic theory. The chapters are distributed over three parts: phonetics and phonology, syntax and sociolinguistics. They address first and second language acquisition, historical linguistics, phonetics, aspects of negation, light verb constructions, raising verbs and sociolinguistic variation. The book is indispensable reading for those working in dialect description, the analysis of Arabic and the Semitic languages and linguistic theory more generally.

Interlanguage Error Analysis: an Appropriate and Effective Pedagogy for EFL Learners in the Arab World Muhammad Khan Abdul Malik, 2020-05-31. First of all, the author wants to make it crystal clear that the present work is of a great benefit both for the English and Arab learners of the target language, either Arabic or English. This edition of the book pinpoints previous researchers' findings regarding English and

Arabic phonological morphological and syntactic similarities and differences and how all these differences result in mistakes and errors by the Arab learners of English in their learning process These mistakes or errors are unconsciously or involuntarily made by Arab learners of English due to the differences between the system and sub systems of the two languages The present attempt is the result of my realization as an English language teacher as to how a teacher can minimize students difficulties in learning of English and maximize their knowledge skills and competency of English as a foreign or second language This is the first edition The work is pedagogically oriented and primarily intended to make teaching learning of English as a foreign second language a bit easy especially for the first year university students of English language in the Arab world Gulf area such as KSA UAE Kuwait and the Middle East Area such as Jordan Syria Lebanon and so on The focus is on phonetic and morpho syntactic variations in Arabic and English languages This area of research becomes more interesting through the assumptions i information about the differences and similarities between Arabic and English language is to be supplied at an early stage since this facilitates the students learning task ii the differences are to be presented in pedagogically suitable format iii it is useful to separate and present phonetics morphological and syntactic categories as they function in suitable contexts and not merely abstract notions iv before students may tackle contrastive analysis they should have basic knowledge of Arabic and English languages similarities and differences and v pre modification and post modification of lexical and syntactic structures are to be explained appropriately
