Reflection High-Energy Electron Diffraction and Reflection Electron Imaging of Surfaces P.K. Larsen, P.J. Dobson, 2012-12-06 This volume contains the papers presented at the NATO Advanced Research Workshop in Reflection High Energy Electron Diffraction and Reflection Electron Imaging of Surfaces held at the Koningshof conference center Veldhoven the Netherlands June 15 19 1987 The main topics of the workshop Reflection High Energy Electron Diffraction RHEED and Reflection Electron Microscopy REM have a common basis in the diffraction processes which high energy electrons undergo when they interact with solid surfaces at grazing angles However while REM is a new technique developed on the basis of recent advances in transmission electron microscopy RHEED is an old method in surface crystallography going back to the discovery of electron diffraction in 1927 by Davisson and Germer Until the development of ultra high vacuum techniques in the 1960 s made instruments using slow electrons more accessible RHEED was the dominating electron diffraction technique Since then and until recently the method of Low Energy Electron Diffraction LEED largely surpassed RHEED in popularity in surface studies The two methods are closely related of course each with its own specific advantages The grazing angle geometry of RHEED has now become a very useful feature because this makes it ideally suited for combination with the thin growth technique of Molecular Beam Epitaxy MBE This combination allows in situ studies of freshly grown and even growing surfaces opening up new areas of research of both fundamental and technological importance Incorporating Engaged Research in Social Development Wassie Kebede,Alice K. Butterfield,2021-04-26 In a wide ranging presentation derived from teaching experiences and research projects seasoned professors Wassie Kebede and Alice Buttereld examine engaged research that links social work human services and social development with the intent of instigating action for social change Drs Kebede and Buttereld begin by introducing others to an overview of engaged research and models of social change and then examine development issues in Ethiopia in view of engaged research After offering their context of engaged research as a prototype for extrapolating development policies that can be studied compared and contrasted with those in other countries Kebede and Buttereld present the results from the engaged research of former PhD students now faculty at various universities in Ethiopia The book provides a glimpse into the professors own experiences and an emphasis on the importance of involving faculty and students in engaged research through coursework Incorporating Engaged Research in Social Development is a comprehensive study that offers academic insight and research results in order to promote social development and change Readers are encouraged to use this book for teaching and implementing engaged research in higher education Guidelines for teaching undergraduate and graduate courses are included EBOOK: Adult Literacy, Numeracy and Language:
