Region Nationality And Religion:

Ethnicity and Religion Joseph Ruane, Jennifer Todd, 2014-06-11 Religion has regained political prominence in the twenty first century and not least for the manner in which it intersects with ethnicity Many ethnic conflicts have a strong religious dimension and religion appears as a powerful force for mobilisation solidarity and violence Religion and ethnicity can each act as a powerful base of identity group formation and communal conflict They can also overlap with ethnic and religious boundaries coinciding partially or completely internally nested or intersecting This volume maps the different forms of intersection cases where religion is prioritised in private life and ethnicity in public where each coexists in tension in political life and where the distinctions reinforce each other with dynamic effects It maps the different patterns with case studies and comparisons from Ireland Northern Ireland France Zimbabwe Ghana and Malaysia It shows how ordinary people construct their solidarities and identities using both ethnic and religious resources This opens up analysis of the socially transformative as well as politically antagonistic potential of religion in situations of ethnic division This book was published as a special issue of Ethnopolitics

The Handbook of Cross-Border Ethnic and Religious Affinities Charity Butcher, 2019-04-16 Increasingly ethnic and religious variables are taken into account to explain conflict and relations between nations However ethnic and religious groups exist beyond the confines of frontiers In Africa for example hundreds of ethnic groups were divided by colonial borders and many retained kinship connections to their brethren in other countries thus creating cross border ethnic religious affinity Such cross border connections affect a variety of foreign policy from diplomacy to the use of force An internal problem can spread to other states or external actors can become involved in domestic disputes due to such factors Therefore data on cross border connections are essential to measure and assess their actual or potential effects on foreign policy or conflict This unique resource serves both qualitative and quantitative researchers For ease of use it is divided in sections for each region of world with the entries organized by pairs of contiguous countries Each entry for a pair of countries briefly discusses the ethnic and religious groups that are common to both countries and the historical and current connections between these groups The entries are organized based on the Correlates of War country codes which are widely used by researchers and allow for country pairs to be organized geographically within each section to facilitate easy use of the data

The Logic of Ethnic and Religious Conflict in Africa John F. McCauley, 2017-04-27 This book explains why conflicts in Africa are sometimes ethnic and sometimes religious and why a conflict might change from ethnic to religious even as the opponents remain fixed Conflicts in the region are often viewed as either tribal or Muslim Christian seemingly rooted in deep seated ethnic or religious hatreds Yet as this book explains those labels emerge as a function of political mobilization It argues that ethnicity and religion inspire distinct passions among individuals and that political leaders exploit those passions to achieve their own strategic goals when the institutions of the state break down To support this argument the book relies on a novel experiment conducted in Cote d'Ivoire and Ghana to demonstrate that individual preferences change in ethnic and religious contexts It then uses case illustrations from Côte d'Ivoire, Nigeria and Sudan to highlight the strategic choices of leaders that ultimately shape the frames of conflict

Affect, Interest and Political Entrepreneurs in Ethnic and Religious Conflicts Arthur A. Stein, Ayelet Harel-Shalev, 2019-10-23

In the current environment most political violence occurs between internal communities such as ethnic and religious groups rather than between states Such intercommunal conflict threatens both internal political stability and interstate relations In this edited volume a multidisciplinary and multinational group of scholars analyze the bases of intercommunal conflict and its domestic and international consequences The authors focus on intercommunal conflict through the lenses of political struggles in the Middle East and Asia which provide fertile grounds for assessing the viability of new social constructions and the continuing impact of ancestral ties

Containing theoretical regional and country studies the chapters tackle such issues as the implications of changes in the institutional rules for political competition how explanatory narratives for conflict are selected when multiple attributions are possible the bases of ideological conflict that have arisen within Islam the problems of ethnic competition that remain unresolved in powersharing arrangements the consequences for international relations when national boundaries do not circumscribe ethnic and religious communities and the subordination of women's interests to religious conflict and its resolution Since identities are shaped by multiple qualities the contributions examine the role of ideologies institutions and politicians in shaping political cleavages communities and conflicts This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies

Bernd-Christian Otto, Susanne Rau, Jörg Rüpke, 2015-08-31

History is one of the most important cultural tools to make sense of one's situation to establish identity define otherness and explain change This is the first systematic scholarly study that analyses the complex relationship between history and religion taking into account religious groups both as producers of historical narratives as well as distinct topics of historiography Coming from different disciplines the authors of this volume ask under which conditions and with what consequences religions are historicised How do religious groups employ historical narratives in the construction of their identities What are the biases and elisions of current analytical and descriptive frames in the History of Religion The volume aims at initiating a comparative historiography of religion and combines disciplinary competences of Religious Studies and the History of Religion Confessional Theologies History History of Science and Literary Studies By applying literary comparison and historical contextualization to those texts that have been used as central documents for histories of individual religions their historiographic themes tools and strategies are analysed The comparative approach addresses circum Mediterranean and European as well as Asian religious traditions from the first millennium BCE to the present and deals with topics such as the origins of religious historiography the practices of writing and the transformation of narratives

Constructivist Theories of Ethnic Politics Kanchan Chandra, 2012-03-15 Constructivist Theories of Ethnic Politics rebuilds theories of the relationship between ethnicity politics and economics on a constructivist foundation according to which ethnic identities can change over time often in response to the very phenomena they are used to explain Taking the possibility of change in ethnic identity into account it shows dismantles the theoretical logics linking ethnic diversity to negative outcomes such as democratic destabilization or state collapse or secession Even more importantly this book defines new research agendas by changing the questions we can ask about the relationship between ethnicity politics and economics accommodating religious diversity Given its accessible language and further readings provided in each chapter the volume is ideally suited for undergraduate and graduate students It will also be a valuable resource for researchers working in the wider field of ethnic migration religion and citizenship studies Special Economic Zones in South Asia Aradhna Aggarwal, 2024-03-28 Growth enhancing structural change a relocation of labour from low to high productivity sectors is increasingly perceived as inextricably linked with the sustainable development agenda In the pursuit of structural change policymakers have pinned their hopes on targeted policy tools such as special economic zones SEZs These geographically demarcated spaces designed to attract investment with a wide set of advantages have become de rigueur however a systematic evaluation of evidence informed policymaking is scarce due to conceptual and practical challenges This book fills that gap and shows that SEZs are no shortcut to economic development their success in driving economic transformation depends on the complex interplay of sociopolitical economic and strategic factors This book contributes to the burgeoning literature on SEZs by providing the first systematic evaluation of the SEZ policy It adopts the policy cycle approach to organise policy evaluation into three hierarchical layers input evaluation agenda building output evaluation policy designs and outcome evaluation immediate effects of SEZs on firms behaviour and performance with special reference to South Asian countries The strategy is to bring together the findings of microeconomic evaluations to draw macro inferences on the contribution of SEZs to the broader objectives of structural transformation and competitiveness Part I of the book delves into development challenges facing the region lays out theoretical foundations underlying the relevance of SEZs in addressing them and examines the relevance of SEZs in the context of South Asia Part II evaluates the policy first at systemic level to gauge whether and how the policy is rooted in broader development goals and then at the design level to examine the fit between the policy goals and designs Part III presents a counterfactual evaluation of the impact of SEZs on investment climate export competitiveness of firms technology and innovation and knowledge linkages of SEZ firms with the wider economy The final chapter concludes by discussing the emerging challenges and the way forward This will be a useful reference for academics researchers policymakers and professionals in international trade and business public policy industrial economics and regional integration Knowledge Production, Area Studies and Global Cooperation Claudia Derichs, 2017-04-27 Whereas Area Studies and cross border cooperation research conventionally demarcates groups of people by geographical boundaries individuals might in fact feel more connected by shared values and principles than by conventional spatial dimensions Knowledge Production Area Studies and Global Cooperation asks what norms and principles lead to the creation of knowledge about cross border cooperation and connection It studies why theories methods and concepts originate in one place rather than another how they travel and what position the scholar adopts while doing research particularly in the field Taking case studies from Asia the Middle East and North Africa the book links the production of alternative epistemologies to the notion of global cooperation and reassesses the ways in which the concept of connectedness can be applied at the translocal and individual rather than the formal international and collective level Knowledge Production Area Studies and Global Cooperation provides an innovative and critical approach towards established means of producing knowledge about different areas of the world demonstrating that an understanding of pluri local connectivity should be integrated into the production of knowledge about different areas of the world and the behavioural dimension of global cooperation By shifting the view from the collective to the individual and from the formal to often invisible patterns of connectedness this book provides an important fresh perspective which will be of interest to scholars and students of Area Studies Politics International Relations and Development Studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY ND 4.0 license

Varieties of Secularism in Asia Nils Ole Bubandt, Martijn Van Beek, 2012-03-12

Varieties of Secularism is an ethnographically rich theoretically well informed and intellectually coherent volume which builds off the work of Talal Asad Charles Taylor and others who have engaged the issue of secularism s and in socio political life The volume seeks to examine theories of secularism secularity and examine concrete ethnographic cases in order to further the theoretical discussion Whereas Taylor s magisterial work draws up the conditions and problems of a belief in God in Western modernity it leaves unexplored the challenges posed by the spiritual in modernity outside of the North Atlantic rim This anthology seeks to begin that task It does so by suggesting that the kind of secularity described by Taylor is only one amongst others By attending to the shifting relationship between proper religion and bad faiths between politically valorised and embarrassing spiritual phenomena between the new visibilities and silences of magic ancestors and religion in democratic politics this book seeks to outline the particular formations of secularism that have become possible in Asia from China to Indonesia and from Bahrain to Timor Leste This book will appeal to students and scholars of Asian religion politics and anthropology
