Regional Disparities In Small Countries:

Regional Disparities in Small Countries Daniel Felsenstein, Boris A. Portnov, 2005-12-28 1 2 Daniel Felsenstein and Boris A Portnov 1 Department of Geography Hebrew University of Jerusalem Israel 2 Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Management University of Haifa Israel During the Candiot War of 1645 1669 the Ottoman Sultan Ibrahim I ordered his chief admiral to attack Malta Fearing imminent defeat by the superior Venetian forces stationed on the island the admiral decided to trick the sultan out of the idea As the story goes he placed a candle on his naval map allowing the wax to drip on the tiny island until it was completely covered Then he exclaimed in false surprise Malta Yok There is no Malta and convinced the sultan to sail his fleet to the Island of Crete instead Although Malta is not featured in this volume most of the countries it covers are of wax drip size Intuitively it may be expected that everything in small countries is diminutive distances population economies and even regional inequalities Thus at a symposium on The Challenge of Development convened in Israel in 1957 to mark the inauguration of a new building for the Department of Economics at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem the eminent US economist Simon Kuznets stated that developed small states seem to have succeeded in spreading the fruits of economic growth more widely among their populations than the larger states at comparable levels of income per capita

Regional Disparities in Small Countries Daniel Felsenstein, 2005-05-09 This book challenges the common perception that significant regional disparities do not exist in small countries As small developed countries become increasingly competitive and their economic structures resemble those of the large a re assessment of the regional consequences of these changes is of timely importance Regional Disparities in Small Countries presents a systematic discussion of the unique theoretical methodological and measurement challenges in analyzing regional inequalities in small countries and a series of empirical analyses addressing the issue of regional convergence and divergence in these countries With contributions from leading regional scientists and economists this book also examines the policy experience of small countries in closing regional gaps and the effectiveness of public interventions in this field see Reviews Regional Disparities in Small Countries, Edited by Daniel Felsenstein and Boris A. Portnov Jens Suedekum, 2006 Regional Disparities in a Small Country? Wouter Vermeulen, 2006 Innovation Systems in Small Catching-Up Economies Elias G. Carayannis, Urmas Varblane, Tonu Roolah, 2011-12-14 In several parts of the world countries are undergoing economic social and political transitions enhanced and accelerated by the forces of globalization These transition economies can serve as laboratories for understanding the innovation process This volume features original theoretical and empirical research It offers the first comprehensive view of innovation system development in the context of small catching up economies Smallness path dependency and latecomer status of such economies create some inherent limitations for their innovation systems but these special characteristics can offer advantages as well For example smallness is often related with increased flexibility and shorter reaction times while latecomers can benefit from earlier experiences of their more advanced neighbors

Path dependency highlights the fact that the innovation system development processes are considerably influenced by the past experience of a particular country or region. By incorporating these features into an integrated analysis, the authors address such questions as: What special features characterize the innovation system development in small catching up economies? What are the causes for innovation success or failure? How do organizational capabilities and internationalization tendencies relate to company level innovations? What is the role of human capital and social factors in the innovation process? How can various policies support innovation in an integrated manner? Drawing from research about Europe, Asia, and Latin America, the authors provide readers with a systemic view of the innovation system development in small catching up economies. They discuss the unique features of this development and contribute to an in-depth understanding of various determinants and their impacts on the innovation process. The policy implications will offer a set of normative guidelines for enhancing innovation system development.

The Politics of Place and the Limits of Redistribution
Melissa Ziegler Rogers, 2015-10-14
Numerous scholars have noticed that certain political institutions including federalism, majoritarian electoral systems, and presidentialism are linked to lower levels of income redistribution. This book offers a political geography explanation for those observed patterns. Each of these institutions is strongly shaped by geography and provides incentives for politicians to target their appeals and government resources to localities. Territorialized institutions also shape citizens' preferences in ways that can undermine the national coalition in favor of redistribution. Moreover, territorial institutions increase the number of veto points in which anti-redistributive actors can constrain reform efforts. These theoretical connections between the politics of place and redistributive outcomes are explored in theory, empirical analysis, and case studies of the USA, Germany, and Argentina.

Regional Development Agencies Nicola Bellini, Mike Danson, Henrik Halkier, 2012
Across Europe, regional development agencies (RDAs) have become a central feature of regional policy, both as innovative policy makers and as the implementers of programmes and initiatives originating from the national or European level. Since the first generation of RDAs were established in the 1970s and 1980s, major changes have swept through the policy arena. Globalisation has increased competitive pressure and moved the position of regions in the international division of labour to the forefront of regional strategy, making the digital revolution and the EU Lisbon agenda have highlighted the importance of production and access to knowledge as key factors in regional competitiveness. Regional policy has become part of a wider system of multi-level governance so that their geographical horizon has expanded in terms of sponsors and collaborators. Issues of governance and accountability of RDAs have been one of the drivers to devolution of powers to governments and bodies below the level of the nation state, raising questions over their status and distance from political control. The aim of this book is to develop a profile of the next generation of RDAs that will identify key issues and trends regarding policy aims strategy making and the new role of knowledge the organisation of policy delivery with emphasis on interactive knowledge brokerage the organisational shift towards smaller and more flexible RDAs and the political governance of regional policy By drawing on a combination of conceptual reflection surveys comparative research and systematic use of critical case studies the book provides a new point of reference by identifying key features of the current and indeed next generation of regionally based economic development organisations Understanding Geographies of Polarization and Peripheralization Thilo Lang, Sebastian Henn, Kornelia Ehrlich, Wladimir Sgibnev, 2015-08-31 This book presents a multifaceted perspective on regional development and corresponding processes of adaptation and response focusing on the concepts of polarization and peripheralization It discusses theoretical and empirical foundations and presents several compelling case studies from Central and Eastern Europe and beyond Facets of Globalization Shahid Yusuf, Simon J. Evenett, Weiping Wu, 2001-01-01 Since 1985 national economies have become increasingly integrated into a global network At the same time both population and production in developing countries are becoming concentrated in urban regions This in turn has generated demands for more local autonomy shifting more decision making to sub national levels Globalization is expected to continue leading to greater openness and international mobility of capital and people There are few reasons to believe that these trends will abate if anything they are likely to intensify the focus on cities and sharpen competition among these for international and local resources This volume underscores the transformative role of globalization and urbanization and shows the interplay between the two forces Impacts of European Territorial Policies in the Baltic States Garri Raagmaa, Dominic Stead, 2017-10-02 Urban and regional development in the Baltic States and other Central and Eastern European countries has experienced rapid changes since their re independence at the beginning of the 1990s Meanwhile urban and regional planning institutions and organizational cultures in the Baltic States have only changed rather incrementally despite various national and European pressures for reform As a consequence the effects of European cohesion and structural policy measures have been quite modest and the ability of the planning systems in the Baltic states to manage contemporary trends in urban and regional development has become increasingly limited This book focuses on these issues and tensions of spatial planning and development in the Baltic States and their distinctiveness compared to other European countries It provides an overview of the historical and cultural context of spatial development a discussion of the processes of Europeanization of spatial planning in the specific context of the Baltic States and an analysis of whether these processes may be leading to policy convergence in the region This book was published as a special issue of European Planning Studies The Oxford Handbook of Local and Regional Democracy in Europe John Loughlin, Frank Hendriks, Anders Lidström, 2012-11-08 The Oxford Handbook of Local and Regional Democracy in Europe analyses the state of play of democracy at the subnational level in the 27 member states of the EU plus Norway and Switzerland It places subnational democracy in the context of the distinctive Anglo the French the German and Scandinavian state traditions in Europe asking to what extent these are still relevant today The Handbook adapts Lijphart's theory of democracy and applies it to the subnational levels in all the country chapters A key theoretical issue is whether subnational regional and local democracy is derived from national democracy or whether it is legitimate in its own right Besides these theoretical concerns it focuses on the practice of democracy the roles of political parties and interest groups and also how subnational political institutions relate to the ordinary citizen This can take the form of local referendums or other mechanisms of participation The Handbook reveals a wide variety of practices across Europe in this regard Local financial systems also reveal a great variety Finally each chapter examines the challenges facing subnational democracy but also the opportunities available to them to enhance their democratic systems Among the challenges identified are Europeanization globalization but also citizens disaffection and switch off from politics Some countries have confronted these challenges more successfully than others but all countries face them An important aspect of the Handbook is the inclusion of all the countries of East and Central Europe plus Cyprus and Malta who joined the EU in 2004 and 2007 This is the first time they have been examined alongside the countries of Western Europe from the angle of subnational democracy

European Integration, Regional Policy, and Growth Bernard Funck, Lodovico Pizzati, 2003 This publication contains a number of papers presented by leading academics policy makers and practitioners from existing and new EU member countries at a conference in Barcelona in October 2002 These papers discuss key issues regarding the effectiveness of attempts to reduce regional disparities with the EU and the implications of current enlargement including the trade offs between promoting national growth and reducing relative disparities the role of growth poles the investment climate and labour market flexibility the role of the EU and regional policy overall

Globalization and Regional Economic Modeling Russel Cooper, Kieran Donaghy, Geoffrey Hewings, 2007-09-23 Globalization is affecting regional economies in a broad spectrum of aspects from labor market conditions and development policies to climate change To understand better how this works we need both conceptual and methodological contributions We need new schemes to organize our thinking direct our attention and frame thought experiments on the basis of which guidance may be offered And we need methodological innovations that enable us to carry out studies and thought experiments at levels of spatial and temporal resolution and formal complexity adequate to capture and account for the phenomena that characterize globalization The chapters of this volume written by an international cast of eminent regional scientists represent contributions of both types in many cases introducing and demonstrating the use of new tools for analyzing and understanding enormous changes underway in regional economies around the world

The Labour Market Impact of the EU Enlargement Floro Ernesto Caroleo, Francesco Pastore, 2010-03-18 Floro Ernesto Caroleo and Francesco Pastore This book was conceived to collect selected essays presented at the session on The Labour Market Impact of the European Union Enlargements A New Regional Geography of Europe of the XXII Conference of the Italian Association of Labour Economics AIEL The session aimed to stimulate the debate on the continuity fracture of regional patterns of development and employment in old and new European Union EU regions In particular we asked whether and how different the causes of emergence and the evolution of regional imbalances in the new EU members of Central and Eastern Europe CEE are compared to those in the old EU members Several contributions in this book suggest that a factor common to all backward regions often neglected in the literature is to be found in their higher than average degree of structural change or more precisely in the hardship they experience in coping with the process of structural change typical of all advanced economies In the new EU members of CEE structural change is still a consequence of the continuing process of transition from central planning to a market economy but also of what Fabrizio et al 2009 call the second transition namely that related to the run up to and entry in the EU
