Regional Economic Integration:

Regional Economic Integration in East Asia Jane Drake-Brockman, Peter Drysdale, 2002 There has been a proliferation of proposals for bilateral free trade areas in East Asia in recent times These initiatives fly in the face of the long standing support of key players in the region such as Japan for the MFN based non discriminatory trading system and the commitment to non discriminatory trade liberalisation and reform within APEC As China establishes its role in the WTO its interests are very much in an open global trading system The paper argues that the core interests of East Asian economies remain in non discriminatory global trading arrangements and prosecuting those interests within the Doha Round of trade negotiations It suggests that a way forward in sorting out the trade distorting and protectionist effects of free trade agreements would be for East Asian economies to take a lead in negotiations on strengthening WTO rules on preferential trade arrangements In terms of global economic welfare the only good preferential arrangement is one that disappears in time The paper makes specific recommendations for re vamping the rule on preferential trade arrangements with that objective in mind P 1

Multilateral Vs. Regional Economic Integration? - The Middle East and North African Region Benjamin Hätinger, 2010-09 Diploma Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject Business economics Economic Policy grade 2.3 University of Hohenheim language English abstract In this study it is intended to investigate today's actual economic interdependence of what we would call the Middle East and North African MENA region and to analyze its economic interweaving both among its member countries and into the global trading system Being aware of the complexity and breadth of this topic the author has chosen only three subset economic integration agreements both between the countries of the MENA region intraregional also comprising a subregional agreement and between the MENA region and other regions interregional for closer analysis Concerning the efforts made towards interregional economic integration this thesis concentrates mainly on the so called EU MED Partnership which was initiated at the Barcelona Conference in 1995 and aims to establish an EU Med Free Trade Area EMFTA by the year 2010 including the EU and the 12 so called Mediterranean countries which apart from Malta Cyprus and Turkey all belong to the MENA region In contrast on the intraregional level the latest initiative in 1997 will be examined where 17 out of 22 Arab League member states all of which also belong to the MENA region apart from Sudan joined to constitute a Greater Arab Free Trade Area GAFTA mainly to get rid of traditional trade barriers for goods On the smaller subregional level the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC consisting of 6 Gulf countries which plans the establishment of a common currency by 2010 will be examined more closely With GAFTA GCC and the EU MED Partnership all being in a different depth of integration and each representing one of the three different levels of integration subregional intraregional interregional the author holds the view that this choice reflects the actual state of integration in the region best In a nutshell this study tests the Regional Integration in the Global South Sebastian Krapohl, 2016-11-23 This book presents a theory of economic integration in developing regions where the level of intraregional economic interdependence is low and the dependence on extra regional economic relations is high It argues that the success or failure of regional integration in the Global South is to a large degree dependent on the reaction of extra regional actors in Europe North America and Northeast Asia In doing so it demonstrates that longstanding European integration theories cannot be successfully applied to other world regions where economic conditions are fundamentally different By providing detailed empirical analyses that are systematic in their use of a common theoretical and methodological framework the authors fill a significant lacuna in our understanding of these issues This edited volume will appeal to students and scholars of comparative regionalism area studies and global governance Regionalism and Global Economic Integration William Donald Coleman, Geoffrey R. D. Underhill, 1998 Lucid and broad ranging in its scope this interdisciplinary volume sheds light on the relationship between national policies regional integration patterns and the wider global setting A vital and much needed study Regional Integration, Economic Development and Global Governance Ulrich Volz, 2011 This book explores a central issue of the world economy today the role of regional integration for economic development and global governance The importance of this issue comes from the fact that the globalisation process that we have been experiencing in recent decades is also a process of open regionalism To what extent does this process contribute to development The reader will find many interesting answers to this question in the book which is an outstanding contribution to this debate I welcome its publication and look forward to its influence on global debates on the relations between regional integration development and global governance From the foreword by Jos Antonio Ocampo Columbia University US The contributors expertly provide a comparative perspective on regional integration in different regions of the world while at the same time analysing the various facets of integration relating to trade FDI finance and monetary policies They provide a comprehensive treatment of the subject and offer new perspectives on the potential developmental effects of regional integration and the implications of regional integration for global economic governance Whilst highlighting and illustrating the potential benefits deriving from regional economic integration the book also stresses the problems and challenges regional integration processes are usually confronted with

Regional Economic Integration and Globalization Michael Cora, Alan Castle, 2016-04 The GATT WTO system has been founded on the fundamental principle of non discrimination However the system has also allowed exceptional cases to this principle through several arrangements The leading examples of these cases are Regional Integration Agreements RIAs The concept of regionalization is associated with the development of the institutional conditions for the shift of goods and production between countries In the center of the regionalization process there is a function of integration groups which currently are of great importance in the world economy The number size and degree of relationships between countries which participate in integration agreements make it an important phenomenon and unique feature of the current phase of globalization There are also many different attitudes on the relationship between globalization and regionalism integration Some join them other contradict Regionalism and globalization mutually support themselves in the sense that regionalism is often the stage of globalization Regionalization may indeed be stimulating the local markets and by creating a competitive environment in the region enhance microeconomic forces necessary for responding to the needs of globalization However there are important integration features for the defense against globalization as a process of differentiating and marginalizing some societies In the case of integration we can count on a better protection against volatility of financial markets and against monetary crisis

Carayannis, George M. Korres, 2012-12-06 Economic integration is one of the most noteworthy issues in international economic policy at the end of the twentieth century The recent examples of the European Union EU and the North American Free Trade Association NAFTA have raised important questions about the economic integration process and the possible establishment of economic unions in other parts of the world Against the backdrop of the financial crisis in Europe and prospects of increasing integration in Asia this volume showcases research from an international array of researchers to provide a basic understanding of the current issues problems challenges and opportunities for achieving integration addressing both empirical and theoretical aspects of such topics as monetary union social policy reform and social union public finance and technology policy The chapters in Part 1 are focused primarily on economic issues while Part 2 covers on social policy the welfare state and political reforms with a particular emphasis on the European Union Among the questions addressed What are the main determinants and implications for socio economic integration How can economic policy influence the growth and integration process Why is innovation important for regional economic development What has been the policy response so far and what lessons have we learned from it And finally what are our action lines for the future Globalization and Regional Economic Integration Ali Nazmi Cora, 2017-04-23 The GATT WTO system has been founded on the fundamental principle of non discrimination However the system has also allowed exceptional cases to this principle through several arrangements The leading examples of these cases are Regional Integration Agreements RIAs The concept of regionalization is associated with the development of the institutional conditions for the shift of goods and production between countries In the center of the regionalization process there is a function of integration groups which currently are of great importance in the world economy The number size and degree of relationships between countries which participate in integration agreements make it an important phenomenon and unique feature of the current phase of globalization There are also many different attitudes on the relationship between globalization and regionalism integration Some join them other contradict Firstly regionalism and globalization mutually support themselves in the sense that regionalism is often the stage of globalization Regionalization may indeed be stimulating the local markets and by creating a competitive environment in the region enhance microeconomic forces necessary for responding to the needs of globalization However there are important integration features for the defense against globalization as a process of differentiating and marginalizing some societies In the case of integration we can count on a better protection against volatility of financial markets and against monetary crisis Better Neighbors Chad P. Bown, Daniel Lederman, Samuel Pienknagura, Raymond Robertson, 2017-03-15 This book proposes a renewal of Open Regionalism in Latin America and the Caribbean LAC aimed at achieving the region's goals of high growth with stability The LAC region experienced a growth spurt with equity during the first decade of the 21st Century It is well understood that an unsustainable demand boom fueled by terms of trade improvements drove this growth acceleration episode especially in South America Unfortunately terms of trade are no longer fueling growth and the region's policymakers are in search of new sources of growth with stability With the experience of East Asia and the Pacific in mind many policymakers in LAC are looking to international economic ties as a potential source of stable growth The challenge highlighted in this book lies in designing an integration agenda comprising trade and factor market integration that is conducive to region wide efficiency gains which can help LAC enhance its global competitiveness The forces of geography imply that pro growth global integration cannot be achieved without building a strong neighborhood Thus this volume argues that LAC's regional economic integration agenda needs to go well beyond the current spaghetti bowl of preferential trading arrangements
