Woodroffe,2002 Coasts are some of the most rapidly changing places on earth Understanding the natural adjustments that occur between coastal landforms and the processes that influence them is essential for the better management of coastal resources Coasts provides a necessary background in geomorphology for those studying coastal systems It describes the landforms that occur on the coast their responses to the processes that shape them and the pattern of evolution that can be determined for different types of coast over thousands of years Numerous examples from around the world are used to illustrate the variety of environments Particular attention is paid to coastal morphodynamics the co adjustment of process and form on rocky reef sandy deltaic estuarine and muddy coasts This valuable text for advanced undergraduate and graduate students is well illustrated and contains an extensive reference section It will also be of great interest to environmental scientists geologists coastal managers and planners The South and the North in American Religion Samuel S. Hill,2007-12-01 In this comparative history of religious life in the South and the North Samuel Hill considers the religions of America from a unique angle Tracing the religious history of both areas this study dramatically shows how a common religion was altered by hostilities and then continued to develop as separate entities until recently Coming almost full circle both North and South now find their religions again to be highly similar Two factors Hill believes were major influences in the diversification of the regional religions the presence of Afro Americans as an underclass of people with a distinctive role to play in the development of southern religious life and the presence or absence of a large immigrant population Hill s overall purpose is to answer the questions How did there come to be a South without which there would not have been a North Why is the South the heartland of Evangelical Protestantism and a kind of Bible belt What historical developments dispatched the two regions on distinctive courses religiously and otherwise How much interaction has there been between the religious institutions of the two regions How similar and divergent have the cultural patterns styles and values been in the South and the North
