Lu, Songmao Zhang, 2003-08-06 We are both fans of watching animated stories Every evening before or after dinner we always sit in front of the television and watch the animation program which is originally produced and shown for children We find ourselves becoming younger while immersed in the interesting plot of the animation how the princess is first killed and then rescued how the little rat defeats the big cat etc But what we have found in those animation programs are not only interesting plots but also a big chance for the application of computer science and artificial intelligence techniques As is well known the cost of producing animated movies is very high even with the use of computer graphics techniques Turning a story in text form into an animated movie is a long and complicated procedure We came to the conclusion that many parts of this process could be automated by using artificial intelligence techniques It is actually a challenge and test for machine intelligence So we decided to explore the possibility of a full life cycle automation of computer animation generation By full life cycle we mean the generation process of computer animation from a children's story in natural language text form to the final animated movie It is of course a task of immense difficulty However we decided to try our best and to see how far we could go

Magic as Metaphor in Anime Dani Cavallaro, 2010-03-08 Since its inception as an art form anime has engaged with themes symbols and narrative strategies drawn from the realm of magic In recent years the medium has increasingly turned to magic specifically as a metaphor for a wide range of cultural philosophical and psychological concerns This book first examines a range of Eastern and Western approaches to magic in anime addressing magical thinking as an overarching concept which unites numerous titles despite their generic and tonal diversity It then explores the collusion of anime and magic with reference to specific topics A close study of cardinal titles is complemented by allusions to ancillary productions in order to situate the medium's fascination with magic within an appropriately broad historical context He-Man and

Studio Ghibli Animation as Adaptations Dominic J. Nardi, Keli Fancher, 2025-05-15 This collection investigates how Hayao Miyazaki Isao Takahata and other Studio Ghibli storytellers have approached the process of reimagining literary sources for animation Studio Ghibli is renowned for its original storytelling in films like My Neighbor Totoro but many of its most famous films including Howl's Moving Castle and Ponyo have their origins in pre-existing novels manga or fairy tales Studio Ghibli's adaptations seldom directly translate source material to animation but instead transform the works to incorporate themes or imagery central to the studio's sensibilities Studio Ghibli Animation as Adaptations explores how these adaptations often blur genre boundaries and raise questions about what constitutes fidelity to source material The collection also shows how the studio reinterprets and recontextualizes stories across cultures for Japanese audiences and across mediums like manga
