

Post Collision Line design status

A study was started on the possible "low consumption" alternative design for the big dipoles of the PCL.

Key aspects:

- To provide a "low consumption" design solution
- RELIABILITY is a key word for these magnets: they will be placed in a dumping tunnel, area very radioactive and interventions must be MINIMIZED.
- The magnets could be subjected to high doses of radiation (new simulation on-going)
- Assumptions are the following:
 - The most simple (and economic) cryogenic solution seems to take advantage of the cryo coolants available at the IP (Detector Solenoid). They will be at 4.5 K (LHe to the solenoid) or at 40-60 K (thermal shields). Distance from the PCL magnets: 35-100m (depending by the PCL versions considered).
 - In these condition the cost of the cryogenic system will consist in the cryogenic transfer line and the valve box for the distribution to the magnets. Other solution are also considered.
 - For the magnet COILS, several possibility are evaluated:
 - "Classic SC" solution (i.e. NbTi)
 - HTS (High Temperature Superconductor) (i.e. MgB₂, YBCO, etc.)

Each solution has advantages and disadvantages, trying to identify them to provide some first evaluations..

"Active" coil cross-section comparison for some different solutions.

Other aspect to be considered:

- Complexity/cost of the coil winding
- Complexity/cost of cryostats
- Operation
- Stability and radiation resistance

School Matters RoSusan D. Bartee,M. Christopher Brown,2007 There are four types of capital economic human cultural and social The distribution of capital in home and school settings affects the types of educational outcomes and the quality of lifelong opportunities that individuals are able to enjoy Resource availability and accessibility influence the success levels at which teaching and learning is experienced Capital possession or acquisition impacts the ability to navigate the academic pipeline and to recognize the appropriate tools by which to do so Minimal attempts have been taken to address different perspectives related to economic human cultural and social capital This book identifies the various tenets of capital as having shared similarities and or differences as well as reveals how the distribution of capital impacts educational settings More specifically this book reveals that given the increases in the parental education or the cultural capital of African Americans no significant changes have occurred in the number of years that African American children attend schools This finding remains consistent in terms of the sort of cultural capital that they are able to gain In sum the research concludes that cultural capital does assume a significant role in the transfer of advantages that stem from middle and upper level socioeconomic backgrounds

Learning from the Federal Market?Based

Reforms William J. Mathis, Tina M. Trujillo, 2016-06-01 Over the past twenty years educational policy has been characterized by top down market focused policies combined with a push toward privatization and school choice The new Every Student Succeeds Act continues along this path though with decision making authority now shifted toward the states These market based reforms have often been touted as the most promising response to the challenges of poverty and educational disenfranchisement But has this approach been successful Has learning improved Have historically low scoring schools turned around or have the reforms had little effect Have these narrow conceptions of schooling harmed the civic and social purposes of education in a democracy This book presents the evidence Drawing on the work of the nation s most prominent researchers the book explores the major elements of these reforms as well as the social political and educational contexts in which they take place It examines the evidence supporting the most common school improvement strategies school choice reconstitutions or massive personnel changes and school closures From there it presents the research findings cutting across these strategies by addressing the evidence on test score trends teacher evaluation miracle schools the Common Core State Standards school choice the newly emerging school improvement industry and re segregation among others The weight of the evidence indisputably shows little success and no promise for these reforms Thus the authors counsel strongly against continuing these failed policies The book concludes with a review of more promising avenues for educational reform including the necessity of broader societal investments for combatting poverty and adverse social conditions While schools cannot single handedly overcome societal inequalities important work can take place within the public school system with evidence based interventions such as early childhood education detracking adequate funding and full service community schools all intended to renew our nation s commitment to democracy and equal educational opportunity
