Magyar Bekeilluziok 1945-1947:

Magyar békeillúziók, 1945-1947 Stephen Denis Kertesz, 1995 Agents of Moscow Martin Mevius, 2005-01-13 After 1945 state patriotism of the communist regimes in Eastern Europe was characterized by the widespread use of national symbols In communist Hungary the party MKP widely celebrated national holidays national heroes erected national statues and employed national street names This socialist patriotism had its origin in the national line of the Comintern established on Soviet instructions following the German invasion of the Soviet Union At that time Stalin called the parties of the Comintern to oppose the Germans by issuing the call for national liberation This policy continued after 1945 when as an aid in the struggle for power the MKP presented itself as both the heir to the traditions of the nations and the only true representative of the interest of the Hungarian people Paradoxically however the Soviet origins of the national line were also one of the main obstacles to its success as the MKP could not put forward national demands if these conflicted with Soviet interests Martin Mevius pioneering study reveals that what had started as a tactical measure in 1941 had become the self image of party and state in 1953 and that the ultimate loyalty to the Soviet Union worked to the detriment of the national party the MKP never rid itself of the label agents of Moscow

Geopolitics in the Danube Region Ignác Romsics, Béla K. Király, 1999 Central and Eastern Europe has a long history of on the one hand ethnic conflicts and on the other of a revolutionary tradition against expansionism Both have their roots in the geographical situation and ethnic composition of the region All these problems have surfaced at times when the political status quo has been upset for some reason such as after the two world wars and after the collapse of the Soviet Union Both great powers bordering the Danube region Germany and Russia have strived to develop their own versions of confederations Mitteleuropa and Pan Slavic movements Also politicians and intellectuals of the countries affected have proposed various theories and made initiatives for different forms of closer or looser confederative formations This book examines the reasons for the failure of these initiatives these reasons including such factors as ethnically motivated political antagonism and the lack of economic complementarity Contributing valuable information on the problems of political and economic integration which should not be forgotten in a period when the countries of the region are looking towards the European Union expecting realistically or not the solution of their various conflicts Hungarians in the Voivodina, 1918-1947 Enikő A.
