Mainstreaming Men Into Gender And Development Debates Reflections And Experiences:

Mainstreaming Men Into Gender and Development Sylvia H. Chant, Matthew C. Gutmann, 2000 Based on research commissioned by the World Bank this book's primary focus is on incorporating men in gender and development interventions at the grass roots level. It draws attention to some of the key problems that have arisen from male exclusion as well as to the potential benefits of and obstacles to men's inclusion.

Mainstreaming Gender in Development Fenella Porter, Caroline Sweetman, 2005 Articles discuss how gender mainstreaming has been understood in different organisations provide examples of good work which supports the empowerment of women and look beyond gender mainstreaming to what new possibilities exist for transformation.

Advancing Population and Development in Uganda and Beyond John Mushomi Atwebembeire, Hannah Muzee, 2025-06-18 This book offers a comprehensive exploration of Uganda's demographic landscape drawing on perspectives and analytics from selected African countries. It meticulously examines demographic transitions trends and the potential for a demographic dividend to foster development. Beginning with Africa's Road to Demographic Transformation the book underscores the critical importance of African population dynamics and the policies and programmes shaping them within the continent. Its unique contribution lies in its reliance on primary data sources including interviews which provide fresh insights viewpoints and reflections. This makes the book an invaluable resource for researchers policymakers and practitioners engaged with population issues. A central argument of this work is the profound influence of population dynamics on economic social and environmental outcomes. It highlights the significant benefits of investing in population delving into the interconnectedness of population growth migration social protection and urbanisation. Ultimately the book advocates for advancing population and development in Africa through a deep understanding of demographic trends challenges and opportunities coupled with a commitment to implementing policies and programmes that prioritise the well being of African populations. The book is structured into three parts. Part One delves into chapters exploring sexual and reproductive health issues across Africa. Part Two focuses specifically on Uganda's context concerning population aging and older persons and Part Three sheds light on demographic data and service delivery.

Masculinities and Femininities in Latin America's Uneven Development Susan Paulson, 2015-08-20 This book forges a new approach to historical and geographical change by asking how gender arrangements and dynamics influence the evolution of institutions and environments. This new theoretical approach is applied via mixed methods and a multi scale framework to bring together unusually diverse phenomena. Regional trends demonstrated with quantitative data include the massive incorporation of women into paid work demographic masculinization of the countryside and feminization of cities rapidly increasing gaps that favor women over men in education and life expectancy and extraordinarily high levels of violence against men. Case studies in Mexico Chile and Bolivia explore changes influenced by gender practices and expectations that involve men in different ways than women they also highlight dissimilarities and power relations between differently positioned masculine groups Ethnographic studies of culturally diverse arrangements together with particular attention to subordinate versus dominant masculinities complicate the gender binaries that circumscribe so much research and policy Drawing attention to imbalances and conflicts generated by inappropriate models and uneven developments the book points to opportunities for experimenting with and adapting the sociocultural institutions that govern relations among humans and between humans and their environment Women and Gender Equity in Development Theory and Practice Jane S. Jaquette, Gale Summerfield, 2006-03-27 DIVCollection of essays on issues of women and development attempting to bridge theory and practice in the post 9 11 era to reflect debates in various realms from the environment land rights and identity to information technology employment and poverty div

Kimmel, Jeff Hearn, Raewyn Connell, 2005 In the past research in the field of gender has mainly addressed issues about women and has for the most part been developed by women Recently the study of gender has rapidly expanded and there has been a growing interest in men s and boys identities conduct and problems The Handbook of Studies on Men and Masculinities is an interdisciplinary and international culmination of the growth of men's studies that also offers insight about future directions for the field. The Handbook provides a broad view of masculinities primarily across the social sciences with the inclusion of important debates in some areas of the humanities and natural sciences. The various approaches presented in this Handbook range across different disciplines, theoretical perspectives, methodologies and conceptualizations in relation to the topic of men. Editors Michael S. Kimmel, Jeff Hearn and Robert W. Connell have assembled an esteemed group of contributors who are among the best known experts in their particular fields. The Handbook of Studies on Men and Masculinities examines the construction of masculinities in four different frames: the social organization of masculinities in their global and regional iterations; the institutional reproduction and articulation of masculinities; the ways in which masculinities are organized and practiced within a context of gender relations; and the ways in which individual men express and understand their gendered identities. The Handbook is organized in a way that moves from the larger global and institutional articulations of masculinities to the more intimate and personal expressions. The Handbook of Studies on Men and Masculinities provides scholars, researchers and students with the most current incisive scholarship available for the men's studies area of gender studies. It is a vital resource for those interested in the practical or cultural issues about men, boys and gender as well as an excellent addition to any academic library.

Dislocating Masculinity Andrea Cornwall, Nancy Lindisfarne, 2016-12-16
 Language space and masculinities Fifty Key Thinkers on Development David Simon, 2006-05-02
 The essential guide to the world's most influential development thinkers, this authoritative text presents a unique guide to the lives and ideas of leading contributors to the contested terrain of development studies. Reflecting the diverse interdisciplinary nature of the area, the book includes entries on modernisers like Hirschman, Kindleberger and Rostow; dependencistas such as Frank Cardoso and Amin; progressives like Prebisch, Helleiner and Streeten; political leaders enunciating radical alternative visions of development such as Mao Nkrumah and Nyerere; progenitors of religiously or spiritually inspired development such as Gandhi and Ariyaratne; development environment thinkers like Blaikie, Brookfield and Shiva. This is a fascinating and readable introduction to the major figures that have shaped the field, ideal for anyone studying or working in the area. A

Gender, Development and Disasters Sarah Bradshaw, 2013-04-01 Disaster research owes a lot to development studies and yet the debt is often not acknowledged In this scholarly but accessible book by Sarah Bradshaw we see a very effective linking of gender disaster and development that will be of value to academics and practitioners working in and across all these domains Maureen Fordham University of Northumbria UK Bringing gender into the foreground in both development and disaster discourse the author challenges received wisdom and offers cautionary notes about reinforcing inequalities through feminized disaster interventions The book is an outstanding platform for fundamental change in how we think about and act toward gender in disaster contexts leaving readers cautiously optimistic This is one for the top shelf a book we have been waiting for and must put to use Elaine Enarson founder Gender and Disaster Resilience Alliance Once in a while a book is published which offers an empirically and theoretically informed analysis of an under studied topic which helps to carve out a new field of enquiry Such is the case with Dr Sarah Bradshaw s breathtakingly detailed richly first hand informed and incisive account of the frequently paradoxical co option of women into the analysis and practice of disaster in developing economies Bradshaw's eminently comprehensive well substantiated perceptive and sensitive treatment of the A to Z of gender and disaster in developing country contexts constitutes a 21st century volume which will be a definitive benchmark for scholars policymakers practitioners and feminist activists at a world scale Sylvia Chant London School of Economics UK

The need to disaster proof development is increasingly recognised by development agencies as is the need to engender both development and disaster response This unique book explores what these processes mean for development and disasters in practice Sarah Bradshaw critically examines key notions such as gender vulnerability risk and humanitarianism underpinning development and disaster discourse Case studies are used to demonstrate how disasters are experienced individually and collectively as gendered events Through consideration of processes to engender development it problematizes women's inclusion in disaster response and reconstruction The study highlights that while women are now central to both disaster response and development tackling gender inequality is not By critically reflecting on gendered disaster response and the gendered impact of disasters on processes of development it exposes some important lessons for future policy This timely book examines international development and disaster policy which will prove invaluable to gender and disaster academics students and practitioners

Mainstreaming Politics Carol Lee Bacchi, Joan Eveline, 2010 This book offers an innovative rethinking of policy approaches to gender equality and of the process of social change It brings several new chapters together with a series of previously published articles to reflect on these topics A particular focus is gender mainstreaming a relatively recent development in equality policy in many industrialised and some industrialising countries as well as in large international organisations such as the World Bank the International Monetary Fund and the International Labour Organization The book draws upon poststructuralist organisation and policy theory to argue that it is impossible to script reform initiatives such as gender mainstreaming As an alternative it recommends thinking about such policy developments as fields of contestation shaped by on the ground political deliberations and practices including the discursive practices that produce specific ways of understanding the problem of gender inequality In addition to the new chapters the editors Bacchi and Eveline produce brief introductions for each chapter tracing the development of their ideas over four years Through these commentaries the book provides exciting insights into the complex processes of collaboration and theory generation Mainstreaming Politics is a rich resource for both practitioners in the field and for theorists In particular it will appeal to those interested in public policy public administration organisation studies sociology comparative politics and international studies

Violence at the Urban Margins Javier Auyero,Philippe I. Bourgois,Nancy Scheper-Hughes,2015 In the Americas debates around issues of citizen s public safety from debates that erupt after highly publicized events such as the shootings of Jordan Davis and Trayvon Martin to those that recurrently dominate the airwaves in Latin America are dominated by members of the middle and upper middle classes However a cursory count of the victims of urban violence in the Americas reveals that the people suffering the most from violence live and die at the lowest of the socio symbolic order at the margins of urban societies The inhabitants of the urban margins are hardly ever heard in discussions about public safety They live in danger but the discourse about violence and risk belongs to is manufactured and manipulated by others others who are prone to view violence at the urban margins as evidence of a cultural or racial defect rather than question violence s relationship to economic and political marginalization As a result the experience of interpersonal violence among the urban poor becomes something unspeakable and the everyday fear and trauma lived in relegated territories is constantly muted and denied This edited volume seeks to counteract this pernicious tendency by putting under the ethnographic microscope and making public the way in which violence is lived and acted upon in the urban peripheries It features cutting edge ethnographic research on the role of violence in the lives of the urban poor in South Central and North America and sheds light on the suffering that violence produces and perpetuates as well as the individual and collective responses that violence generates among those living at the urban margins of the Americas

Did the Millennium Development Goals Work? Manmohan Agarwal,Hany Besada,Leah McMillan Polonenko,2017-09-20 The Millennium Development Goals set by the United Nations were deliberately ambitious and they ve been the subject of much debate Now with the 2015 target date for many of the goals having passed it s time to assess the goals and attempt to determine whether they were effective Gathering leading scholars from a range of backgrounds and regions this book offers an in depth exploration of that question with the aim of better understanding the effects of the Millennium Development
