Teaching Chemistry in Higher Education Michael Seery, Claire Mc Donnell, 2019-07-01 Teaching Chemistry in Higher Education celebrates the contributions of Professor Tina Overton to the scholarship and practice of teaching and learning in chemistry education. Leading educators in United Kingdom, Ireland, and Australia, three countries where Tina has had enormous impact and influence, have contributed chapters on innovative approaches that are well established in their own practice. Each chapter introduces the key education literature underpinning the approach being described. Rationales are discussed in the context of attributes and learning outcomes desirable in modern chemistry curricula. True to Tina's personal philosophy, chapters offer pragmatic and useful guidance on the implementation of innovative teaching approaches, drawing from the authors' experience of their own practice and evaluations of their implementation. Each chapter also offers key guidance points for implementation in readers' own settings so as to maximise their adaptability. Chapters are supplemented with further reading and supplementary materials on the book's website: overtonfestschrift.wordpress.com. Chapter topics include innovative approaches in facilitating group work, problem solving, context and problem based learning, embedding transferable skills, and laboratory education, all themes relating to the scholarly interests of Professor Tina Overton. About the Editors: Michael Seery is Professor of Chemistry Education at the University of Edinburgh and is Editor of Chemistry Education Research and Practice. Claire Mc Donnell is Assistant Head of School of Chemical and Pharmaceutical Sciences at Technological University Dublin. Cover Art: Christopher Armstrong, University of Hull.

The Psychology Student's Career Survival Guide Alex Forsythe, 2021-05-05 The Psychology Student's Career Survival Guide is designed to aid students in identifying their ideal career pathway and imbue them with the right tools and skills to not only achieve their desired job but to progress and thrive within the workplace. The first half of the book focuses on how to find and get a suitable job. The remaining chapters explore gaining success in the workplace in terms of personal growth, navigating criticism, workplace relations, and the critical job assignments that every graduate should pursue. Forsythe, an experienced organisational psychologist, helps students recognise and apply the acquired psychological skill set to develop a personal brand, increase personal visibility, and develop professional networks. This smooths the transition from university into the world of work by developing effective working practices that will support personal performance and that of the workplace. This book can also serve as a practical guide for academics looking to bridge the gap between the developing student at university and demands of their future employers. It explicitly calls for vocational elements such as communication, team working, goal setting, and planning within the curriculum. This engaging book comes with an abundance of resources to support students' individual development and to help academics run workshops. These resources include tool kits which include self-diagnostic tools and strengths finders, networking skill development, job search strategies, difficult interview questions, personal branding, and so on. This is an essential text for psychology students at all levels looking for employability guidance and for psychology academics who are seeking supportive resources and guidance on helping students achieve their career ambitions Which Degree Guide, 2004 Teaching In Lifelong Learning: A Guide To Theory And Practice Avis, James, Fisher, Roy, Thompson, Ron, 2014-09-01 This is a comprehensive book for trainee teachers and trainers in the lifelong learning sector EBOOK: Transforming Formative Assessment in Lifelong Learning Kathryn Ecclestone, 2010-10-16 Despite good intentions for formative assessment to enhance the quality of students learning and motivation it is widely misunderstood Throughout the education system it has become little more than a way of coaching students to meet the demands of summative assessment This unique book combines theory research and practical insights to demonstrate how teachers might enhance their understanding of formative assessment particularly in vocational and adult education settings that are under pressure to meet targets for inclusion retention and achievement Drawing on recent research the book includes six case studies that draw out the implications of the research findings to suggest ways in which teachers might change their assessment practice despite the pressures in their own contexts It considers What is formative assessment and what is it not What impact do political and social factors have on assessment practices Why do similar assessment practices have different effects in different learning cultures What role does subject knowledge play in educationally worthwhile formative assessment How can teachers lecturers and other education professionals improve formative assessment This book is essential reading for teachers trainee teachers staff development officers researchers and those running training courses throughout the lifelong learning sector It is ideal for those studying for PTLLS CTLLS and DTLBS qualifications and for Cert Ed and PGCE awards related to the Lifelong Learning Sector It is also relevant to various stakeholders involved in the design of qualifications including awarding bodies and to researchers interested in assessment and the impact of education policy on practice in all sectors of the education system and particularly in lifelong learning The book is authored with Jennie Davies Visiting Research Fellow University of Exeter UK Jay Derrick Adult Education Consultant Visiting Lecturer Institute of Education London UK and Judith Gawn Regional Programme Director LLN NIACE London UK
