Magic, Monsters, and Make-Believe Heroes Douglas E. Cowan, 2019-02-26 Magic Monsters and Make Believe Heroes looks at fantasy film television and participative culture as evidence of our ongoing need for a mythic vision for stories larger than ourselves into which we write ourselves and through which we can become the heroes of our own story Why do we tell and retell the same stories over and over when we know they can t possibly be true Contrary to popular belief it s not because pop culture has run out of good ideas Rather it is precisely because these stories are so fantastic some resonating so deeply that we elevate them to the status of religion Illuminating everything from Buffy the Vampire Slayer to Dungeons and Dragons and from Drunken Master to Mad Max

Douglas E Cowan offers a modern manifesto for why and how mythology remains a vital force today      After the Last Post
Benjamin Zachariah, 2019-07-22 This book is about the production and consumption of history themes that have gained in importance since the discipline s attempts to disavow its own authority with the ascendancy of postmodern and postcolonial perspectives Several parallel themes crosscut the book s central focus on the discipline of history its intellectual history its historiography and its connection to memory particularly in relation to the need to establish the collective identity of nation community or state through a memorialisation process that has much to do with history or at least with claiming a historicity for collective memory None of this can be undertaken without an understanding of the roles that history writing and history reading have been made to perform in public debates or perhaps more accurately in public disputes The book addresses a discomfort with postcolonial theories in and as history Following are essays that examine the state of the discipline the art of reading and using archives practices of tracking the history of ideas and the themes of history memory and identity      The Contemporary Review ,1901      The Literary Digest ,1914      Literary Digest ,1914
