Make Your Own Museum Andrea P. A. Belloli,1994-06 Including everything necessary to create a model museum free standing galleries reusable stickers representing works of art punch out figures of workers and visitors and geometric shapes for original art an innovative kit also features a guidebook and instructions Ultimate Guide to Collecting Frances A. Karnes,Kristen R. Stephens,2005-06 Provides tips on how to start organize maintain and display a collection and includes advice from young people who are currently maintaining collections Counting Your Way Through 1-2-3 Cathie Hilterbran Cooper,1997 A comprehensive annotated guide to 663 counting books divided into ten subject areas Each section includes a description of the subject area an annotated bibliography of related books and a number of activities that can be used in connection with counting and math books Reproducible activity pages are included in each section DIY Programming and Book Displays Amanda Catherine Struckmeyer,Svetha Hetzler,2010-09-13 This manual guides librarians in creating simple affordable ready to use activities for children tweens teens and families with enough material for a full year of programs Do it yourself programming is an emerging model in which the librarian does the preparation then lets patrons take over DIY Programming and Book Displays How to Stretch Your Programming without Stretching Your Budget and Staff makes it easy for librarians to institute such programs in their own facilities Organized around 12 thematic chapters the book explains how to set up and maintain a do it yourself station and offers instructions for a variety of year activities Reproducible materials and booklists are included as well Librarians may use the activities as starting points for generating their own ideas or they may simply photocopy materials in the book for ready to use monthly DIY programming Once set up the DIY station is available to patrons anytime they are in the library Best of all because DIY programs do not rely on staff space or special materials they allow libraries to make the most of their resources without sacrificing patron service The Educational Role of the Museum Eilean Hooper-Greenhill,1999 Grounded in the strengths of its first edition this book has been restructured to include new papers and recent articles and presents front running theory and practice as it addresses the relationships of museums and galleries to their audiences Necessary Spaces Sandra Murray Nettles,2013-08-01 In Necessary Spaces Exploring the Richness of African American Childhood in the South Sandra Murray Nettles takes the reader on a journey into neighborhood networks of learning at different times and places Using autobiographical accounts Nettles discusses the informal instructional practices of community coaches from the perspective of African American adults who look back on their childhood learning experiences in homes libraries city blocks schools churches places of business and nature These eyewitness accounts reveal necessary spaces the metaphor Nettles uses to describe seven recurring experiences that converge with contemporary notions of optimal black child development connection exploration design empowerment resistance renewal and practice Nettles weaves the personal stories with social scientific theory and research and practical accounts of community based initiatives to illuminate how local communities contributed human built and natural resources to support children's achievement in schools. The inquiry offers a timely and accessible perspective on how community involvement for children can be developed utilizing the grassroots efforts of parents, children, and other neighborhood residents; expertise from personnel in schools; informal institutions such as libraries and museums; and other sectors interested in disparities in education, health, and the quality of physical settings. Grounded in the environmental memories of African American childhood, Necessary Spaces offers a culturally relevant view of civic participation and sustainable community development at the local level. Educational researchers and policy makers, pre-service and in-service teachers, and people who plan for and work with children and youth in neighborhoods will find this book an engaging look at possibilities for the social organization of educational resources. Qualitative researchers will find a model for writing personal scholarly essays that use the personal to inform larger issues of policy and practice. In Necessary Spaces, local citizens in neighborhoods across the United States will find stories that resonate with their own experiences, stimulate their recollections, and inform and inspire their continuing efforts to create brighter futures for children and communities.

Natural Family Living Peggy O'Mara, Jane L. McConnell, 2000-03 From preconception to adolescence to creating a healthy family lifestyle, this guide covers health during pregnancy and natural childbirth, healthful eating for the whole family, uses and abuses of TV, computers, and video games, discipline issues, and more. Kiplinger's Personal Finance, 2002-04 The most trustworthy source of information available today on savings and investments, taxes, money management, home ownership, and many other personal finance topics. Kiplinger's Personal Finance, 2002-04 The most trustworthy source of information available today on savings and investments, taxes, money management, home ownership, and many other personal finance topics. The Working Parents Handbook June Solnit Sale, Kit Kollenberg, 1996-03-14 Written primarily for first-time parents, although it features helpful advice that even veteran parents will find helpful, this book provides real-life solutions to the issues working parents face, from informing a boss about a pregnancy to dealing with vacation time for school-age children. Museums and the Challenge of Change Graham Black, 2020-12-29 Museums and the Challenge of Change explores the profound challenges facing museums and charts ways forward that are grounded in partnership with audiences and communities, on-site, online, and in wider society. Facing new generations with growing needs and desires, growing population diversity, and a digital revolution, the museum sector knows it must change, but it has been slow to respond. Drawing on the expertise and voices of practitioners from within and beyond the sector, Black calls for a change of mind set and radical evolution, transformation over time, learning from the process rather than a big bang approach. Internally, a participative environment supports social interaction through active engagement with collections and content, and Black includes an initial typology of participative exhibits, both traditional and digital. Externally, the museum works in partnership with local communities and other agencies to make a real difference in response to societal challenges. Black considers what this means for the management and structure of the museum, emphasising that it is not possible to separate the development of a participative experience from the ways in which the museum is organised Museums and the Challenge of Change is highly practical and focused on initiatives that museums can implement swiftly and cheaply making a real impact on user engagement The book will thus be essential reading for museum practitioners and students of museum studies around the globe

Pinning Down the Past Mike Corbishley,2014-04-17 In a relatively short period of time the pursuit of archaeology has evolved from an antiquarian interest to a specialised scientific activity Part of this evolution has always included the interest of the public and archaeologists efforts to educate them As each new method and technique is developed and each new specialism is created the challenge of making archaeology available as a learning resource grows with it Today for example the issues which surround archaeology and heritage such as the pressures of tourism on sites now form part of many formal educational curricula This book the first to deal with the subject in such depth examines the place of education and outreach within the wider archaeological community Written by one of Britain s leading archaeological educationalists it charts the sometimes difficult and painful growth and development of education and archaeology Packed full of informative and enlightening case studies from the circus at Colchester to Sutton Hoo and Hadrian s Wall this work examines exactly how we have reached the point we are at where that place is and suggests areas for future development By drawing upon many decades of experience at the front line of archaeological education the author has produced a key text that will play a major role in the on going development of the heritage industry Publisher s website
