Making A Television Play:

Making Plays D. Wu, 2019-06-12 Making Plays explores great drama of the last two decades through the eyes of those who write it and those who direct it. It is at once a masterclass on theatrical technique and a unique insight into the ways in which great dramatists of our time have reacted to a rapidly changing world. In this book Duncan Wu talks to Michael Attenborough, Alan Bennett, Michael Blakemore, Howard Brenton, David Edgar, Sir Richard Eyre, Michael Frayn, Sir David Hare, Nicholas Hytner, and Max Stafford Clark. Wigs and Make-up for Theatre, TV and Film Patricia Baker, 2012-10-02 This book teaches the basic skills of theatrical and media make up and wigmaking. It is ideal for students aiming at a career in the world of entertainment, whether it be theatre, television or film, or those hoping to become make up artists within these fields.

While America Watches : Televising the Holocaust Skirball Department of Hebrew and Judaic Studies, New York University, Jeffrey Shandler, Dorot Teaching Fellow, 1999-02-04 The Holocaust holds a unique place in American public culture, and as Jeffrey Shandler argues in While America Watches, it is television more than any other medium that has brought the Holocaust into our homes, our hearts, and our minds. Much has been written about Holocaust film and literature, and yet the medium that brings the subject to most people, television, has been largely neglected. Now Shandler provides the first account of how television has familiarized the American people with the Holocaust. He starts with wartime newsreels of liberated concentration camps, showing how they set the moral tone for viewing scenes of genocide, and then moves to television to explain how the Holocaust and the Holocaust survivor have gained stature as moral symbols in American culture. From early teleplays to coverage of the Eichmann trial and the Holocaust miniseries, as well as documentaries, popular series such as All in the Family and Star Trek, and news reports of recent interethnic violence in Bosnia, Shandler offers an enlightening tour of television history. Shandler also examines the many controversies that televised presentations of the Holocaust have sparked, demonstrating how their impact extends well beyond the broadcasts themselves. While America Watches is sure to continue this discussion and possibly the controversies among many readers. So You Want to Work in Sports K. Mathematical Graphics: Beginnings in Play Elizabeth Carruthers, Maulfry Worthington, 2011-04-16 This book challenges traditional beliefs and practices of teaching written mathematics in early childhood. It gives theoretical underpinnings and offers exciting insights and context to children's early mathematical thinking and in particular into children's mathematical graphics showing how this supports their understanding of the abstract symbolic language of mathematics. Drawing on a wide range of examples it illustrates and explains how children explore and communicate their mathematical thinking through their mathematical graphics and how this begins in play. The book looks at the power of children's own marks, symbols and other graphical representations to convey meanings exploring how they support complex thinking. The authors explore the relationship between children's play and meaning making. Rather than viewing mathematics as a separate subject or as a set of basic skills to be transmitted, they demonstrate that in supportive learning cultures children develop their own mathematical thinking to solve problems. Key features include: Numerous new examples and case studies of children from birth to 8 years highlighting the complexity and richness of children's thinking; Explanation of pedagogical issues showing how they can support rich play and mathematics; Draws on the authors' latest research. This book is valuable reading for students, teachers, primary mathematics coordinators and all early years professionals working in the Early Years Foundation Stage and Key Stage One. Warriors and Worriers Joyce F. Benenson, 2014-01-08 The question of exactly what sex differences exist and whether they have a biological foundation has been one of our culture's favorite enduring discussions It should After a baby is born a parent's first concern is for its physical health The next concern is its sex Only in the most modern societies does sex not virtually guarantee the type of future life a new human being will have Even in modern societies one's sex usually plays a large role in the path a life follows Scientists have published thousands of papers on the subject with the general conclusion being that men and women are mostly the same whatever differences exist have been socialized and what differences exist have to do with women bearing children and men being physically stronger In Warriors and Worriers psychologist Joyce Benenson presents a new theory of sex differences based on thirty years of research with young children and primates around the world Her innovative theory focuses on how men and women stay alive Benenson draws on a fascinating array of studies and stories that explore the ways boys and men deter their enemies while girls and women find assistants to aid them in coping with vulnerable children and elders This produces two social worlds for each sex which sets humans apart from most other primate species Human males form cooperative groups that compete against out groups while human females exclude other females in their quest to find mates female family members to invest in their children and keep their own hearts ticking In the process Benenson turns upside down the familiar wisdom that women are more sociable than men and that men are more competitive than women The Women Who Made Television Funny David C. TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel,2022-04-08 In TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel explores snapshots of people posing in front of their television sets in the 1950s through the early 1970s Like today's selfies TV snapshots were a popular photographic practice through which people visualized their lives in an increasingly mediated culture Drawing on her collection of over 5 000 TV snapshots Spigel shows that people did not just watch TV women used the TV set as a backdrop for fashion and glamour poses people dressed in drag in front of the screen and in pinup poses people even turned the TV setting into a space for erotic display While the television industry promoted on screen images of white nuclear families in suburban homes the snapshots depict a broad range of people across racial ethnic and class backgrounds that do not always conform to the reigning middle class nuclear family ideal Showing how the television set became a central presence in the home that exceeded its mass entertainment function Spigel highlights how TV snapshots complicate understandings of the significance of television in everyday life
