Zemsky,2009-08-11 Making Reform Work is a practical narrative of ideas that begins by describing who is saying what about American higher education who s angry who s disappointed and why Most of the pleas for changing American colleges and universities that originate outside the academy are lamentations on a small number of too often repeated themes The critique from within the academy focuses on issues principally involving money and the power of the market to change colleges and universities Sandwiched between these perspectives is a public that still has faith in an enterprise that it really doesn t understand Robert Zemsky one of a select group of scholars who participated in Secretary of Education Margaret Spellings s 2005 Commission on the Future of Higher Education signed off on the commission s report with reluctance In Making Reform Work he presents the ideas he believes should have come from that group to forge a practical agenda for change Zemsky argues that improving higher education will require enlisting faculty leadership on the one hand and on the other a strategy for changing the higher education system writ large Directing his attention from what can t be done to what can be done Zemsky provides numerous suggestions These include a renewed effort to help students performance in high schools and a stronger focus on the science of active learning not just teaching methods He concludes by suggesting a series of dislodging events for example making a three year baccalaureate the standard undergraduate degree congressional rethinking of student aid in the wake of the loan scandal and a change in the rules governing endowments that could break the gridlock that today holds higher education reform captive Making Reform Work offers three rules for successful college and university transformation don t vilify don t play games and come to the table with a well thought out strategy rather than a sharply worded lamentation TAKING ACTION IN SCIENCE CLASSROOMS THROUGH COLLABORATIVE ACTION

Vincent A. Anfara,P. Gayle Andrews,2003 The Encyclopedia of Middle Grades Education Steven B. Mertens,Vincent A.

Anfara, Gayle Andrews, 2005-10-01 The Encyclopedia of Middle Grades Education provides a comprehensive overview of the field. This publication includes seven anchor essays, 5000 words that cover the following topics: the history of the middle school movement, academically excellent curriculum, instruction and assessment, developmental responsiveness in relation to young adolescents, social equity in middle grades schools, leadership in middle level schools, teacher and administrator preparation and professional development, and future directions in relation to the movement practices and policy. Leading scholars in the field of middle grades education were invited to author these essays. In addition to the seven anchor essays, the encyclopedia contains alphabetically organized entries, short entries approximately 500 words long, entries approximately 2000 words that address important concepts, ideas, terms, people, organizations, and seminal publications related to middle grades education. Contributors to the encyclopedia have provided sufficient information so that the reader can place the idea, concept, person, etc. into its proper context in the history of the middle school movement. Entries are meant to be introductory; after an overview of the essentials of the topic, the reader is guided to more extensive sources for further investigation. Where appropriate, the reader is also directed to electronic sources such as websites where additional information can be retrieved.

Entrustable Professional Activities and Entrustment Decision-Making in Health Professions Education Olle ten Cate, Vanessa C. Burch, H. Carrie Chen, Fremien Chihchen Chou, Marije P. Hennus, 2024-10-29 This book discusses the ins and outs of a new approach to competency based education in the education and training of health professionals including doctors and medical specialists but also nurses, dentists, pharmacists, veterinarians, physiotherapists, and others. Embedded in a conceptual discussion of what competence in health professionals means, the book discusses theoretical foundations of trust and entrustment of trainees with the practice of patient care tasks. It elaborates the implications for identifying the objectives of training, formulated as entrustable professional activities (EPAs) for the associated curriculum development, for assessment of trainees in the clinical workplace, for faculty development, and for the management of large scale change in health professions education. In the past decade, EPAs have been proposed, piloted, or implemented in all sectors of health professions education and in countries across all continents. Yet there is a widely felt desire for a better understanding of all related concepts. This text was written with teachers, educational managers, educational scholars, and health profession trainees in mind. The book is the result of a collaboration of fifty highly engaged authors, all actively involved in their own projects and studies around EPAs and workplace based assessment as teachers, developers, and managers. All chapters have been critically read and commented on by internal and external reviewers, making this work a state of the art document about the topic.

Designs for Science Literacy American Association for the Advancement of Science, 2001-03-22 The call for science curriculum reform has been made over and over again for much of the twentieth century Arguments have been made that the content of the curriculum is not appropriate for meeting the individual and social needs of people living in the modern world that the curriculum has become overstuffed with topics and does not serve students especially well and above all that the curriculum does not generate the student learning it is expected to produce The latest volume in a continuing series of publications from the AAAS designed to reform science education Designs for Science Literacy presupposes that curriculum reform must be considerably more extensive and fundamental than the tinkering with individual courses and subjects that has been going on for decades Designs deals with the critical issues involved in assembling sound instructional materials into a new coherent K 12 whole The book pays special attention to the need to link science oriented studies to the arts and humanities and also proposes how to align the curriculum with an established set of learning goals while preserving the American tradition of local responsibility for the curriculum itself If fundamental curriculum reform is ever to occur a new process for creating alternatives will have to be developed Designs for Science Literacy provides the groundwork for such a process
