Making Time for Making Music Amy Nathan, 2018 Are you a former music maker who yearns to return to music but aren't sure where to begin Or are you a person who never played music as a child but you are now curious about trying You're not alone Many adults who used to play an instrument haven't touched it in years because either they can't find the time to practice are afraid their skills are too rusty or are unsure of what kind of group they could join Others are afraid to sing or start playing an instrument because they received negative feedback from childhood experiences Performing practicing and composing music may seem like unattainable goals with insurmountable obstacles for busy adults with non musical careers Making Time for Making Music can help adults find ways to make music part of their lives The first book of its kind it is filled with real life success stories from more than 350 adults who manage to fit music making into their jam packed schedules They polished rusty skills found musical groups to join and are having a great time Their testimonies prove that you are never too old to learn to make music and that there are numerous musical paths to explore Featuring advice from dozens of music educators health care professionals and music researchers who point out that making music can even be good for your health as well as an extensive resource list of websites organizations and summer programs this book offers inspiration and tried and true strategies for anyone who wishes to return to music making or begin as an adult

Making Music for Life Gayla M. Mills, 2019-08-14 Making Music for Life is the adult novice's friend

First it cheerleads for music's salutary benefits to the music maker's soul. Then it becomes a useful how-to handbook finding a teacher and learning how to practice once you have one. How do you hook up with like-minded enthusiasts and what are all the ways you can learn to make music together? How about performing for others? And maybe you will end up teaching others yourself. This useful book is a doorway into the endless joys of making music for everyone at any age. Bernard Holland, Music critic emeritus, The New York Times and author of Something I Heard. Do you hope to expand your musical circle? Need inspiration and practical ideas for overcoming setbacks? Love music and seek new ways to enjoy it? Roots musician Gayla Mills will help you take your next step whether you play jazz, roots, classical, or rock. You'll become a better musician learning the best ways to practice, improve your singing, enjoy playing with others, get gigs, and record and bring more music to your community. Most importantly, you'll discover how music can help you live and age well. A keen road map that supports musicians and the expansion of their craft. Gayla's done the work. All you have to do is step on the path and follow her lead. Greg Papania, music producer, mixer, composer. Making Music, Making Society. Josep Martí, Sara Revilla, 2018-01-23. A society is the result of interacting individuals and individuals are also the result of this interaction. This interaction happens through music among other factors. As such, music constitutes a powerful resource for symbolic interaction which constitutes the medium and substance of a culture. The importance of music in a society is clearly brought to light in the role that it plays in the three basic parameters of the social logics: identity, social order, and the need for exchange. If music is so important to us, it is because apart from its assigned aesthetic values, it fits closely with the dynamics of each of these three different parameters. These parameters, which are consubstantial to the social nature of the human being, constitute the core of the book as they manifest in musical practices. This publication addresses important issues such as the role of music in shaping identities, how music and social order are intertwined, and why music is so relevant in human interaction. The last part of the book explores issues related to the social application of musical research. The volume brings together specialists from different academic disciplines with the same powerful starting point: music is not merely something related to the social, but rather a social life itself, something capable of structuring the social experience. Making Music with Computers. Bill Manaris, Andrew R. Brown, 2014-05-19. Teach Your Students How to Use Computing to Explore Powerful and Creative Ideas. In the twenty-first century, computers have become indispensable in music making, distribution, performance, and consumption. Making Music with Computers: Creative Programming in Python introduces important concepts and skills necessary to generate music with computers. It interweaves computing pedagogy with musical concepts and creative activities, showing students how to integrate the creativity and design of the arts with the mathematical rigor and formality of computer science. The book provides an introduction to creative software development in the Python programming language. It uses innovative music creation activities to illustrate introductory computer programming concepts, including data types, algorithms, operators, iteration, lists, functions, and classes. The authors also cover GUIs, event-driven programming, big data, sonification,

MIDI programming client server programming recursion fractals and complex system dynamics Requiring minimal musical or programming experience the text is designed for courses in introductory computer science and computing in the arts It helps students learn computer programming in a creative context and understand how to build computer music applications Also suitable for self study the book shows musicians and digital music enthusiasts how to write music software and create algorithmic music compositions Web Resource A supplementary website <http://jythonMusic.org> provides a music library and other software resources used in the text The music library is an extension of the jMusic library and incorporates other cross platform programming tools The website also offers example course and associated media resources

Making Music in the Polish Tatras Timothy J. Cooley, 2005-04-14 Challenging myths that mountain isolation and ancient folk customs defined the music culture of the Polish Tatras Timothy J Cooley shows that intensive contact with tourists and their more academic kin ethnographers since the late 19th century helped shape both the ethnic group known as G rale highlanders and the music that they perform Making Music in the Polish Tatras reveals how the historically related practices of tourism and ethnography actually created the very objects of tourist and ethnographic interest in what has become the popular resort region of Zakopane This lively book introduces readers to G rale musicians their present day lives and music making and how they navigate a regional mountain defined identity while participating in global music culture Vivid descriptions of musical performances at weddings funerals and festivals and the collaboration of G rale fiddlers with the Jamaican reggae group Twinkle Brothers are framed by discussions of currently influential theories relating to identity and ethnicity and to anthropological and sociological studies of ritual tourism festivals globalism and globalization The book includes a 46 track CD illustrating the rich variety of G rale music including examples of its fusion with Jamaican reggae

Making Music for Modern Dance Katherine Teck, 2011-09-12 Making Music for Modern Dance traces the collaborative approaches working procedures and aesthetic views of the artists who forged a new and distinctly American art form during the first half of the 20th century The book offers riveting first hand accounts from innovative artists in the throes of their creative careers and provides a cross section of the challenges faced by modern choreographers and composers in America These articles are complemented by excerpts from astute observers of the music and dance scene as well as by retrospective evaluations of past collaborative practices Beginning with the careers of pioneers Isadora Duncan Ruth St Denis and Ted Shawn and continuing through the avant garde work of John Cage for Merce Cunningham the book offers insights into the development of modern dance in relation to its music Editor Katherine Teck s introductions and afterword offer historical context and tie the artists essays in with collaborative practices in our own time The substantive notes suggest further materials of interest to students practicing dance artists and musicians dance and music history scholars and to all who appreciate dance
