

THE MAKING OF ENGLISH TOWNS

2000 years of evolution

An aerial photograph of a historic English town. In the foreground, a large, light-colored, multi-story building complex with many windows is prominent. Below it, a busy market square is filled with numerous stalls, some covered with blue and white tarps, and many people. To the right, a long, dark brick building with many windows runs along the edge of the square. In the background, a hill rises with various buildings, including a large stone castle or fortress. A bridge with arches is visible on the left side of the image. The sky is blue with some clouds.

'The author seems to have every qualification and packs an immense amount of learning and useful data into a richly rewarding narrative . . . This is the book for everyone interested in the history, forms and customs of our towns.' House & Garden
