Night Fires:

Night Fires in the Distance Sarah Goodwin, 2016-10-13 Laura and her husband William Deene have come a long way from England to Ohio to Indian Territory With their farm failing and Laura expecting her fourth child their relationship begins to disintegrate and with another cruel winter coming on Will's mistrustful and violent nature becomes more apparent Laura finds relief in the arms of their new neighbour a young man of wealthy providence setting up as a lone homesteader James Clappe Attracted to Clappe's youth kindness and naivete Laura struggles to maintain her stoic tolerance of the hard prairie life she has endured for so long Clappe is not all he seems however Beneath worn clothes and layers of dirt is a young socialite fleeing her husband brought to the prairie by fear and grief The last thing on earth she expects is to fall for a lonely prairie wife almost double her age but it could be the thing that saves her

Night Fires George E. Stanley, 2009-06-23 An unflinching look at a painful chapter in America's past It's 1922 and Woodrow Harper has moved with his widowed mother to his father's hometown of Lawton Oklahoma Perhaps here he will find the closeness to his father that eluded him when his father was alive Instead in his new neighbor Senator Crawford Woodrow finds something that offers even more comfort a father figure who understands him in a way his father never did But there are ugly secrets beneath the surface in Lawton and Woodrow's desperate need for the senator's approval may force him to make difficult decisions he will live to regret

The Seasonal Nature of Fires, Disasters, Fires and Rescues Daniel Knowles, 2016-12-16 This Book has stories about Little Bobby and me along with numerous others and some of the calls that we went on during the period of time of about 13 years with the Squad and also away from it I first met the Mascot in June of 1955 to about 1963 when our lives took different paths and we drifted away from each other for the next 47 or so years except for special occasions when we met up at certain functions including many major calls of the later 60s and 70s the riots in 1967 when Martin Luther King was killed the 14th Street Bridge plane crash in the Potomac River

Night Fires Justine Davis, Rules and Meanings Mary Douglas, 2013-06-17 First published in 1973 Rules and Meanings is an anthology of works that form part of Mary Douglas's struggle to devise an anthropological modernism conducive to her opposition to reputedly modernizing trends in contemporary society The collection contains works by Wittgenstein Schutz Husserl Hertz and other continentals The underlying themes of the anthology are the construction of meaning the force of hidden background assumptions tacit conventions and the power of spatial organization to reinforce words The work serves to complement the philosophers work on everyday language with the anthropologists theory of everyday knowledge

Vacant Residential Building Fires Barry Leonard, 2011 This is a print on demand edition of a hard to find publication This report is based on 2006 to 2008 data from the National Fire Incident Reporting System NFIRS According to the report an estimated 28 000 vacant residential building fires occur annually in the U S resulting in an estimated average of 45 deaths 225 injuries and 900 million in property loss

Vacant residential fires are considered part of the residential fire problem as they comprise approximately 7 percent of residential building fires. In addition, intentional is the leading cause of vacant residential building fires which are more prevalent in July 9 percent due in part to an increase in intentional fires on July 4 and 5. Finally, almost all vacant residential building fires are non-confined and half spread to involve the entire building. Charts and tables

Van Nostrand's Engineering Magazine, 1883 Preparation for Initial Company Operations; PICO-Student Manual, 2012 I Have Seen the Fire Robert V. Hine, 2008 Pioneer Sarah Royce comes alive in this vividly imagined biographical novel Female Forester Forever Charlotte Schneider, 2013-03-29 This natural world I fell into off three inch high heels is a school of infinite learning. Sharing my knowledge and experience of forestry and arboriculture is very fulfilling. Having finally grown up in the Missouri forest, the desire to complete my adventure despite challenges with employers, doctors, and a chronic disabling disease has led me to writing and blogging under Female Forester Forever or Our Little Urban Arboretum. When forced to return to the city, I bought my family home and turned its less than a third of an acre lot into an arboretum. Volunteering as a master gardener, I learned that the Ozark foothills down to the St. Louis riverfront is more than just an oak hickory forest and a forest community is more than just trees or even just plants. This book can only paint a miniscule picture of the forest on the head of a needle and is as dull and boring as a broken discarded bit compared to ten minutes standing naked in a creek, staring up into a towering tree or down at a leaf. Tomorrow is already here, experience trees. As the venerable Professor Al Shigo has said, Touch trees.

Toward Camden Mercy Romero, 2021-08-30 In Toward Camden, Mercy Romero writes about the relationships that make and sustain the largely African American and Puerto Rican Cramer Hill neighborhood in New Jersey where she grew up. She walks the city and writes outdoors to think about the collapse and transformation of property. She revisits lost and empty houses, her family's house, the Walt Whitman House, and the landscape of a vacant lot. Throughout, Romero engages with the aesthetics of fragment and ruin, her writing juts against idioms of redevelopment. She resists narratives of the city that are inextricable from crime and decline and witnesses everyday lives lived at the intersection of spatial and Puerto Rican diasporic memory. Toward Camden travels between what official reports say and what the city's vacant lots withhold. Duke University Press Scholars of Color First Book Award recipient

The True Story of Our National Calamity of Flood, Fire and Tornado Logan Marshall, 2019-12-05 In The True Story of Our National Calamity of Flood, Fire and Tornado, Logan Marshall offers a poignant exploration of the natural disasters that have shaped America's landscape and psyche. Combining meticulous research with a compelling narrative style, Marshall weaves firsthand accounts with historical analysis, presenting a tapestry of human resilience in the face of catastrophe. The text is infused with vivid descriptions and a sense of immediacy that draws readers into the experiences of those affected by these calamities while also situating them within a wider socio-political context of early 20th century America. Logan Marshall, a notable journalist and chronicler of American life, draws from his extensive knowledge of disaster reporting and personal experiences with the devastation wrought by natural events His dedication to uncovering the underlying narratives of survival and community solidarity provides a unique lens through which we can understand the impact of calamities on American society Marshall's insights shaped by the tumultuous era he lived in push readers to reflect on the interplay between man and nature This book is highly recommended for those interested in American history environmental studies and sociology as it not only documents the occurrence of natural disasters but also resonates with current concerns about climate change With its blend of empathy and scholarly rigor Marshall's work serves as a vital reminder of humanity's enduring spirit when faced with the forces of nature

Restoring America's Neighborhoods Michael R. Greenberg, 1999 What does it take to mobilize a grass roots force dedicated to bringing new life into a decaying neighborhood Can any one person or group successfully halt physical deterioration drug related crime or the encroachment of clusters of factories highways and other noxious land uses Michael Greenberg demonstrates in this book that it can and has been done against all odds Restoring America's Neighborhoods profiles twenty four such cases from across the United States It tells the story of people determined to make the blighted crime ridden urban enclaves in which they live and work a better place for everybody These are people from many different walks of life ministers working to bring jobs to their communities city planners and federal employees trying to relocate residents of potential disaster areas and locals taking matters into their own hands to create a healthier more pleasing living environment for their children Greenberg's is a heartening account of courage and unwavering resolve as well as of hope that individuals can make a difference that violent criminals and uncaring bureaucrats need not carry the day He calls them streetfighters a fitting tribute to their efforts to take back their neighborhoods block by block and street by street

Van Nostrand's Eclectic Engineering Magazine, 1888 Strategy and Tactics for Initial Company Operations, Fire Control Notes, 1936

From Down Canyon to the Mountaintop Jim Desmond, 2011-10-28 Jim Desmond spent thirty three years managing and protecting our nation's natural resources As a forest ranger campground supervisor wildland firefighter and natural resources manager Jim reveals this firsthand account of events he witnessed during his career He shares personal observations and experiences providing insight into the career of a public servant Jim intertwines the events of his early years of searching for direction the highlights of his early career his eventual life changing spiritual experience and his subsequent rise to a successful career in management His life and personal experiences are a human interest story of spiritual and professional growth

The Country of the Blind and other Selected Stories H. G. Wells, 2007-05-31 Herbert George Wells was perhaps best known as the author of such classic works of science fiction as The Time Machine and War of the Worlds But it was in his short stories written when he was a young man embarking on a literary career that he first explored the enormous potential of the scientific discoveries of the day He described his stories as a miscellany of inventions yet his enthusiasm for science was tempered by an awareness of its horrifying destructive powers and the threat it could pose to the human race A consummate storyteller he made fantastic creatures and machines entirely believable and by placing ordinary men and women in extraordinary situations he explored with humor what it means to be alive in a century of rapid scientific progress
