Patterns That Connect Social Symbolism In Ancient And Tribal Art:

Patterns That Connect Carl Schuster, Edmund Carpenter, 1996-09 Travelers scholars have long been puzzled by similarities in the arts of diverse ancient tribal cultures It remained for the American art historian Carl Schuster 1904 1969 to discover a set of patterns designed by ancient peoples to illustrate their ideas about kinship Schuster succeeded in decoding this iconography which lasted over ten thousand years crossed continents outlived most of the cultures that sheltered it *Materials for the Study of Social Symbolism in Ancient & Tribal Art: Genealogical patterns. bk. 1-2. 1948 Arnhem Land Expedition Martin Thomas,Margo Neale,2011-06-01 In 1948 a collection of scientists anthropologists and photographers journeyed to northern Australia for a seven month tour of research and discovery now regarded as the last of the big expeditions The American Australian Scientific Expedition to Arnhem Land was front page news at the time but 60 years later it is virtually unknown This lapse into obscurity was due partly to the fraught politics of Australian anthropology and animus towards its leader the Adelaide based writer photographer Charles Mountford Promoted as a friendly mission that would foster good relations between Australia and its most powerful wartime ally the Expedition was sponsored by National Geographic the Smithsonian Institution and the Australian Government An unlikely cocktail of science diplomacy and popular geography the Arnhem Land Expedition put the Aboriginal cultures of the vast Arnhem Land reserve on an international stage Publisher s website Lines That Connect Graeme Were,2010-08-31 Building on historical and contemporary literature in anthropology and art theory Lines That Connect treats pattern as a material form of thought that provokes connections between disparate things through processes of resemblance memory and transformation Pattern is constantly in a state of motion as it traverses spatial and temporal divides and acts as an endless source for innovation through its inherent transformability Graeme Were argues that it is the ideas carried by pattern s relational capacity that allows Pacific islanders to express their links to land genealogy and resources in the most economic ways In doing so his book is a timely and unique contribution to the analysis of pattern and decorative art in the Pacific amid growing debates in anthropology and art history This striking and original study brings together objects and photographs historical literature and contemporary ethnographic case studies to explore pattern in its logical workings It presents the first ever analysis of the well known patterned shell valuable called kapkap as revealed in New Ireland mortuary feasts Innovative research in the study of Christianity and the Baha'i faithful in the region shows how pattern has been appropriated in new religious communities. We argue that pattern is used in various guises in performances, church architecture and funerary images to contrasting effect. He explores the conditions under which pattern facilitates a connecting of old and new ideas and how missionary processes are implicated in this flow. He then considers the mechanisms under which pattern is internalized, paying particular attention to its embeddedness in spatial and numerical thinking. Finally, he examines how pattern carries new materials and technologies which in turn provide new resources for sustaining old beliefs. Drawing on a multitude of fields: anthropology, art history, Pacific museum and religious studies, education, ethnomathematics, Lines That Connect raises key questions about the capacity of pattern across the Pacific to bind and sustain ideas about place, body and genealogy in the most logical of ways.

Genealogical Patterns Carl Schuster, Edmund Carpenter, 2015-09-11 Vol 1 Book 1 Genealogical Patterns Form Meaning The first book of this three volume twelve book series Genealogical Patterns Form Meaning introduces the work of anthropologist Carl Schuster and his comparative method as edited and written by Edmund Carpenter. This first book looks into the arts of women, primarily weaving, as passed down from mother to daughter from the Paleolithic period to modern times and examines the embedded iconographies of pattern making through Schuster's comparative method. The book outlines the premise of seeing decorative patterns in their multiple forms as descriptions of tribal genealogy. Includes a preface, general introduction and biographies of Schuster by Carpenter and by art historian Schuyler Camman.

Focality and Extension in Kinship Warren Shapiro, 2018-04-20 When we think of kinship we usually think of ties between people based upon blood or marriage. But we also have other ways nowadays called performative of establishing kinship or hinting at kinship. Many Christians have in addition to parents, godparents, members of a trade union may refer to each other as brother or sister. Similar performative ties are even more common among the so-called tribal peoples that anthropologists have studied and especially in recent years they have received considerable attention from scholars in this field. However, these scholars tend to argue that performative kinship in the Tribal World is semantically on a par with kinship established through procreation and marriage. Harold Scheffler, long-time Professor of Anthropology at Yale University, has argued by contrast that procreative ties are everywhere semantically central, i.e. focal, that they provide bases from which other kinship ties are extended. Most of the essays in this volume illustrate the validity of Scheffler's position, though two contest it and one exemplifies the soundness of a similarly universalistic stance in gender behaviour. This book will be of interest to everyone concerned with current controversy in kinship and gender studies as well as those who would know what anthropologists have to say about human nature. The study of kinship once ruled the discipline of anthropology and Hal Scheffler was one of its magisterial figures. This volume reminds us why Scheffler's powerful analyses of kinship systems often conflicted with the views of his more relativist contemporaries. He cut through the fog of theory to emphasise the human essentials, namely the importance of the social bonds rooted in motherhood and fatherhood. Anthropology in its decades long retreat from the serious study of kinship has lost a great deal. This volume points the way to a restoration. Peter Wood National Association of Scholars Martin Puryear John Elderfield, 2007. Over the last 30 years Martin Puryear has created a body of work that defies categorization, creating sculpture that looks at identity, culture, history. This book accompanies an exhibition at The Museum of Modern Art that follows Puryear's development from his first solo show to works being presented for the first time. Continuum Encyclopedia of Native Art Hope B. Werness, 2003-01-01. This lavishly produced volume is the first reference work to focus on the symbols, meaning, and significance of art in native or indigenous cultures. Res: Anthropology and Aesthetics, 57/58 Jaś Elsner, 2011-02. This double volume of the renowned international journal of anthropology and comparative aesthetics includes: Aesthetics on recyclable ground by Félix Duque; Seeing through dead eyes by Jonathan Hay; The hidden aesthetic of red in the painted tombs of Oaxaca by Diana Magaloni; A consideration of the quatrefoil motif in Preclassic Mesoamerica by Julia Guernsey; Hunters, Sufis, soldiers, and minstrels by Cynthia Becker; Figures fidjiennes by Marc Rochette; A sacred landscape by Rachel Kousser; Military architecture as a political tool in the Renaissance by Francesco Benelli; The icon as performer and as performative utterance by Marie Gasper; Hulvat Image and site by Jas Elsner; Untimely objects by Ara H. Luke, Francesco Paolo Adorno, and Remo Guidieri. Etruria and Anatolia Elizabeth P. Baughan, Lisa C. Pieraccini, 2023-03-09. Explores trans-Mediterranean connections between peoples, cultures, and artistic traditions traditionally marginalized by Graeco-Roman bias. The Ancestress Hypothesis Kathryn Coe, 2003. In our society it has long been believed that art serves very little social purpose. Evolutionary anthropologists, however, are examining a potential role for art in human evolution. Kathryn Coe looks to the visual arts of traditional societies for clues. Because they are passed down from previous generations, traditional art forms such as body decoration, funeral ornaments, and ancestral paintings offer ways to promote social relationships among kin and codescendants of a common ancestor. Mothers used art forms to anchor themselves and their kin to the father and his kin and to promote the survival and reproductive success of kin and descendants. Individuals who abided by this strategy, accompanied by its strict codes of cooperation, left more descendants than did individuals who did not. Over time, given this reproductive success, large numbers of individuals would be identified as codescendants of a common ancestor and would cooperate as if they were close kin. These cooperative codescendants were more likely to survive and leave descendants. With each new generation, these clans propagated not only their genes but also their behavioral strategy, the replication or presence of art. The book concludes by examining the changing characteristics of visual art, including a higher value on creativity, competition, and cost when traditional constraints on social behavior disappear. The Foragers of Point Hope Charles E. Hilton, Benjamin M. Auerbach, Libby W. Cowgill, 2014-07-24.

On the edge of the Arctic Ocean above the Arctic Circle the prehistoric settlements at Point Hope Alaska represent a truly remarkable accomplishment in human biological and cultural adaptations Presenting a set of anthropological analyses on the human skeletal remains and cultural material from the Ipiutak and Tigara archaeological sites The Foragers of Point Hope sheds new light on the excavations from 1939 41 which provided one of the largest sets of combined biological and cultural materials of northern latitude peoples in the world A range of material items indicated successful human foraging strategies in this harsh Arctic environment They also yielded enigmatic artifacts indicative of complex human cultural life filled with dense ritual and artistic expression These remnants of past human activity contribute to a crucial understanding of past foraging lifeways and offer important insights into the human condition at the extreme edges of the globe

Media and Identity in Africa Kimani Njogu, 2009-04-09 Studies of the media in Africa incorporating both African and international perspectives are few The thirty papers collected here were presented at a seminar organised and hosted by the Kenya based Twaweza Communications and the International African Institute in Nairobi in 2004 They demonstrate how media outlets are used to perpetuate question or modify the unequal power relations between the North and the South Focusing on east Africa the papers include discussions of the construction of old and new social entities as defined by class gender ethnicity political and economic differences wealth poverty cultural behaviour language and religion The authors illustrate how there is increasing control by local people of traditional and modern forms of media Globalization is being countered by local responses within the context of social and cultural identities Essentially the book describes the tensions between the global and the local tensions not often discussed in media studies thus pioneering new debates

Archaeology Barry W. Cunliffe, Wendy Davies, Colin Renfrew, 2002 Twenty six leading scholars from around the world have come together to celebrate the strengths the energies and the sheer intellectual excitement of their discipline They unashamedly proclaim that over the last hundred years archaeology has transformed itself from a genteel antiquarian pursuit deeply rooted in the classical tradition to a rigorous and demanding discipline spanning the humanities and the sciences yet at the same time one widely accessible to the public at large The contributors show how our understanding of the past has changed reveal the exciting ideas under current debate and offer their visions of the future The result is a remarkable overview of world archaeology focusing on new and unexpected themes at the cutting edge of the discipline
