subjects that are of vital importance to practitioners students and their educators Judging Passions Roger Giner-Sorolla, 2013-03-01 Shortlisted for the British Psychological Society Book Award Academic Monograph category 2014 A CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title 2013 Psychological research shows that our emotions and feelings often guide the moral decisions we make about our own lives and the social groups to which we belong But should we be concerned that our important moral judgments can be swayed by hot passions such as anger disgust guilt shame and sympathy Aren t these feelings irrational and counterproductive Using a functional conflict theory of emotions FCT Giner Sorolla proposes that each emotion serves a number of different functions sometimes inappropriately and that moral emotions in particular are intimately tied to problems faced by the individuals in a group and by groups interacting with each other Specifically the author suggests that these emotions help us as individuals and group members to Appraise developments in the environment Learn through association Regulate our own behavior Communicate convincingly with others Drawing on extensive research including many studies from the author s own lab this book shows why emotions work to encourage reasonable moral behaviour and why they sometimes fail This is the first single authored volume in the field of psychology dedicated to a separate examination of the major moral and positive emotions As such the book is ideal reading for researchers postgraduates and undergraduates of social psychology sociology philosophy and politics Savage Economy Walter Wadiak, 2016-12-15 In Savage Economy The Returns of Middle English Romance Walter Wadiak traces the evolution of the medieval English romance from its thirteenth century origins to 1500 and from a genre that affirmed aristocratic identity to one that appealed more broadly to an array of late medieval communities Essential to this literary evolution is the concept and practice of noble gift giving which binds together knights and commoners in ways that both echo and displace the notorious violence of many of these stories Wadiak begins with the assumption that romance names a particular kind of chivalric fantasy to which violence is central just as violence was instrumental to the formation and identity of the medieval warrior aristocracy A traditional view is that the violence of romance stories is an expression of aristocratic privilege wielded by a military caste in its relations with one another as well as with those lower on the social scale In this sense violence is the aristocratic gift that underwrites and reaffirms the feudal power of a privileged group with the noble gift performing the symbolic violence on which romance depends in order to present itself as both a coded threat and an expression of chivalric values Well known examples of romance in Middle English such as Sir Gawain and the Green Knight and Chaucer s Knight s Tale are considered alongside more popular examples of the genre to demonstrate a surprising continuity of function across a range of social contexts Wadiak charts a trajectory from violence aimed directly at securing feudal domination to the subtler and more diffuse modes of coercion that later English romances explore Ultimately this is a book about the ways in which romance lives on as an idea even as the genre itself begins to lose ground at the close of the Middle Ages Core Processes in Brief Psychodynamic Psychotherapy Denise P.
