Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution, 2004

Adapting Institutions to Climate Change Great Britain. Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution, 2010 The overwhelming scientific consensus is that the earth is warming because of human activities Adaptation will be necessary even if mitigation efforts are markedly increased because we are already locked in to climate change as a result of historic greenhouse gas emissions Projections show that it is likely that global average temperatures will rise by 2 degrees C and there is the potential for a 4 degree C rise by the end of the century UK projections suggest warmer drier summers and warmer wetter winters The consequences are likely to be profound even devastating with more extreme events floods drought and heat waves coupled with sea level rises Policies and practice on water management coast protection and nature conservation will need to change This report explores how institutions should adapt their policies to a changing climate and offers a ten point check list to be followed by all organisations The Commission found many institutions are poorly prepared to adapt to climate change and many have simply not started to consider it The Commission makes recommendations designed to help institutions develop their capacity to respond to this challenge In contrast to climate change mitigation where local actions have global benefits adaptation is primarily about local action with local consequences that may differ markedly in different parts of the UK

Town and Country Planning in the UK J. B. Cullingworth, Vincent Nadin, 2002 This thirteenth edition has been completely revised to take into account all the changes that have occurred in British planning including the policies introduced by the Labour government devolution innovations and the European Union

Managing and Minimizing Construction Waste J. Ferguson, Institution of Civil Engineers (Great Britain), 1995 Over two billion tonnes of waste are generated in the European Union every year approximately half of which comes from the construction industry Increasing pressure on landfill sites accompanied by escalating prices and a growing awareness of environmental concerns has made the minimization of this waste and its responsible disposal an absolute necessity The Environment Protection Act 1990 placed a Duty of Care on every individual involved in the creation storage transportation or disposal of waste This practical guide for everyone involved with the construction industry outlines how to manage waste from construction economically and in accordance with the legal requirements of the Duty of Care It explains in detail all actions required of the responsible person and offers extremely practical advice on how to minimize the amount of waste produced thus saving costs and reducing the environmental impact
