The Design, Experience and Practice of Networked Learning Vivien Hodgson,Maarten de Laat,David McConnell,Thomas Ryberg,2014-01-18 The Design Experience and Practice of Networked Learning Edited by Vivien Hodgson Maarten de Laat David McConnell and Thomas Ryberg This book brings together a wealth of new research that opens up the meaning of connectivity as embodied and promised in the term networked learning Chapters explore how contexts groups and environments can be connected rather than just learners how messy unexpected and emergent connections can be made rather than structured and predefined ones and how technology connects us to learning and each other but also shapes our identity These exciting new perspectives ask us to look again at what we are connecting and to revel in new and emergent possibilities arising from the interplay of social actors contexts technologies and learning Caroline Haythornthwaite University of British Columbia Despite creating fundamentally new educational economics and greatly increasing access teaching and learning in networks is a tricky business These chapters illuminate the complex interactions amongst tools pedagogy educational institutions and personal net presences helping us design and redesign our own networks In the process they take or extract network theory from the practice of real teaching and learning contexts making this collection an important contribution to Networked Learning Terry Anderson Athabasca University What kinds of learning can social networking platforms really enable Digging well beneath the hype this book provides a timely incisive analysis of why and how learning emerges or fails to in networked spaces The editors do a fine job in guiding the reader through the rich array of theories and methods for tackling this question and the diverse contexts in which networked learning is now being studied This is a book for reflective practitioners as well as academics the book s close attention to the political pedagogical and organisational complexity of effective practice and the lived experience of educators and learners helps explain why networked learning has such disruptive potential but equally why it draws resistance from the establishment Simon Buckingham Shum The Open University The networked learning conference a biannual institution since 1998 celebrates its 14th year in this volume Here a range of studies reflecting networked learning experiments across Europe and other global contexts show important shifts away from a conservative tradition of e learning¹ research and unpeel dilemmas of promoting learning as an elusive practice in virtual environments The authors point towards important futures in online learning research where notions of knowledge connectivity and community¹ become increasingly elastic and engagements slide across material and virtual domains in new practices whose emergence is increasingly difficult to apprehend p Tara Fenwick University of Stirling The chapters in this volume explore new and innovative ways of thinking about the nature of networked learning and its pedagogical values and beliefs They pose a challenge to us to reflect on what we thought networked learning was 15 year ago where it is today and where it is likely to be headed Each chapter brings a particular perspective to the themes of design experience and practice of networked learning the chosen focus of the book The chapters in the book embrace a wide field of educational areas including those of higher education informal learning work based learning continuing professional development academic staff development and management learning The Design Experience and Practice of Networked Learning will prove indispensable reading for researchers teachers consultants and instructional designers in higher and continuing education for those involved in staff and educational development and for those studying post graduate qualifications in learning and teaching This the second volume in the Springer Book Series on Researching Networked Learning is based on a selection of papers presented at the 2012 Networked Learning Conference held in

The Carpetbaggers of Kabul and Other American-Afghan Entanglements Jennifer L. Fluri, Rachel Lehr, 2017 The 2001 invasion of Afghanistan by United States and coalition forces was followed by a flood of aid and development dollars and experts representing well over two thousand organizations each with separate policy initiatives geopolitical agendas and socioeconomic interests This book examines the everyday actions of people associated with this international effort with a special emphasis on small players individuals and groups who charted alternative paths outside the existing networks of aid and development This focus highlights the complexities complications and contradictions at the intersection of the everyday and the geopolitical showing how dominant geopolitical narratives influence daily life in places like Afghanistan and what happens when the goals of aid workers or the needs of aid recipients do not fit the narrative Specifically this book examines the use of gender need and grief as drivers for both common and exceptional responses to geopolitical interventions Throughout this work Jennifer L. Fluri and Rachel Lehr describe intimate encounters at a microscale to complicate and dispute the ways in which Afghans and their country have been imagined described fetishized politicized vilified and rescued The authors identify the ways in which Afghan men and women have been narrowly categorized as perpetrators and victims respectively They discuss several projects to show how gender and grief became forms of currency that were exchanged for different social economic and political opportunities Such entanglements suggest the power and influence of the United States while illustrating the ways in which individuals and groups have attempted to chart alternative avenues of interaction intervention and interpretation

Educational Directory, 1969 Human-Centred Technology Management for a Sustainable Future Ricardo Zimmermann, José Coelho Rodrigues, Ana Simoes, Gustavo Dalmarco, 2024-12-30 This proceedings volume contains selected papers from the 33rd International Association for Management of Technology IAMOT Conference held from July 8-11, 2024 in Porto, Portugal It is the second volume of a three volume set of conference proceedings focused on technologies for a sustainable future The book explores the challenges and opportunities in today's social and business landscapes delving into innovative and disruptive concepts With a special emphasis on the role of technologies it sheds light on how they enable novel approaches to address current issues The volume demonstrates that following the principles of Industry 5.0 technologies can go far beyond productivity and economic gains contributing to the benefit and comfort of human workers. It also elucidates the necessity of adopting a human-centered approach in utilizing technology to adapt production processes to workers' needs while ensuring that the implementation of new technologies does not infringe upon the fundamental rights of workers.

Integrating Simulation Tools Into Entrepreneurship Education Masouras, Andreas N., Anastasiadou, Sofia, Deirmentzoglou, Georgios A., Sophocleous, Harry Ph., Anastasopoulou, Eleni E., 2025-04-08 The integration of simulation tools into entrepreneurship education transforms how entrepreneurs learn, experiment and develop critical business skills. These digital and virtual tools offer students immersive, hands-on experiences that replicate real-world challenges, enabling them to test business ideas, make decisions and navigate complex market dynamics in a risk-free environment. As entrepreneurship education continues to evolve, the adoption of simulation tools plays a key role in preparing students to succeed in the increasingly fast-paced, uncertain and competitive business landscape. Further exploration of successful implementations highlights the potential of these technologies to shape the next generation of entrepreneurs. Integrating Simulation Tools Into Entrepreneurship Education explores the integration of simulation technologies and methodologies in entrepreneurship education. It examines the theoretical underpinnings, practical applications, benefits, challenges and future directions of using simulations to teach entrepreneurship. This book covers topics such as digital technology, gamification and online learning and is a useful resource for educators, academicians, business owners, entrepreneurs and researchers.

The Evolutionary Leap to Flourishing Individuals and Organizations Center for Evolutionary Learning, 2017-09-19

The last thing the world needs is yet another book delineating business induced dangers and damages such as environmental disasters social inequalities and unethical conduct And yet success in achieving sustainable growth whether for the individual organization or the social community has mostly eluded us Just as a compass needle moves to magnetic north our deeply seated behaviours push us back to practices that are familiar and comfortable even when we have sought to make a change to act in ways that are more sustainable How can we generate this deep and durable change in our values and beliefs and thus both in our individual and collective decisions and behaviour at work How can we unveil the best of our human qualities by learning to raise our consciousness to a more profound perception of ourselves and our relationship with the whole And what if such a change could lead to an evolutionary leap to a lasting flourishing state for us and for our organizations This book describes how this shift in mindset and consciousness level can and has indeed taken place in organizations using meditative practice not only for individual wellbeing which is now well understood but also for deep transformational change Through this shift we can move past a definition of sustainability as mere resource efficiency and long term survival to one of sustainability as flourishing This book challenges many pre conceived ideas about what a sustainably successful organization is and how it should be run Based on a growing body of evidence from neuroscience to business research it maps out a path to empower all who wish to undertake this journey towards the realization of the highest potential in ourselves our organizations and our social and natural world
