Stress physiology and forest productivity T.C. Hennessey, P.M. Dougherty, S.V. Kossuth, J.D. Johnson, 2012-12-06 Maintaining or increasing stand productivity is the concern of forest land managers worldwide Consequently there is increasing interest in understanding the impact of environmental stress on productivity and the development of management strategies that ameliorate or reduce the deleterious effects Invited scientists gathered in Fort Collins Colorado on July 30 1985 to present the current state of knowledge regarding the impact of environmental stress on forest stand productivity Particular attention was given to elucidating the mode of action by which individual stress elements reduce productivity Environmental factors and the levels that constitute stressed suboptimal conditions in forest stands were identified and the effects of stress intensity and duration on key stand parameters including photosynthesis respiration assimilate partitioning senescence and mortality were emphasized The role of genetics and silvicultural treatments in lessening the stress impact on stand productivity was presented particularly in regards to alternative methods for environmental stress management Modeling of stand dynamics in response to environmental stress was explored as an effective research and management tool VIII Improved forest management practices will develop as we improve our understanding of the nature of important environmental stresses and as we comprehend their impact on tree and stand performance manifested through physiological processes and genetic potential This book is dedicated to such an understanding and comprehension General Technical Report RM., 1990 Proceedings Intermountain Nurseryman's Association. Meeting, 1986 Proceedings, Combined Western Forest Nursery Council and Intermountain Nursery Association Meeting Thomas D. Landis, 1987

Regenerating British Columbia's Forests R. Parish, C. M. Johnson, G. Montgomery, A. Vyse, R. A. Willis, D. Winston, D.P. Lavender, 2011-11-01 Reforestation is a subject vital to the economy of British Columbia which depends heavily on its forests a valuable but expendable resource This book provides silviculturalists with a broad reference to the science and technology of reforestation in the Canadian province that forms the single most diverse forest region in North America The work combines for the first time both experiences recorded from practical reforestation projects and the results of scientific investigations The chapters of Regenerating British Columbia's Forests were compiled and reviewed by experts in each field of discussion Topics include the physiological bases for seedling vigour and the interaction of reforestation with seedling physiology the ecology of British Columbia's bioclimatic zones and the role of ecological site classification the application of financial analyses to reforestation decisions current technology in manual mechanical and chemical site preparation and in the use of fire to prepare planting sites recent progress in tree genetics and breeding and its relevance to the production of tree propagules nursery technology methodology in planting evaluation techniques of plantation release and the role of insects disease and small mammals and birds in the reforestation process Regenerating British Columbia's Forests will assist those responsible for planning reforestation projects to reach informed decisions and will challenge them to consider primarily the biological factors basic to reforestation success rather than short term costs and production technology Although its main audience is practising foresters and forestry students of British Columbia the text will be of considerable interest to foresters in other parts of Canada the United States and Europe who manage reforestation Site Species Matching and Planting Techniques for Arid Zone Forestry in Namibia Joachim Krug, 2004

The Physiological Ecology of Woody Plants Theodore T. Kozlowski, Paul J. Kramer, Stephen G. Pallardy, 2012-12-02 The efficient management of trees and other woody plants can be improved given an understanding of the physiological processes that control growth the complex environmental factors that influence those processes and our ability to regulate and maintain environmental conditions that facilitate growth Emphasizes genetic and environmental interactions that influence woody plant growth Outlines responses of individual trees and tree communities to environmental stress Explores cultural practices useful for efficient management of shade forest and fruit trees woody vines and shrubs Proceedings, 1973

The Container Tree Nursery Manual: Seedling nutrition and irrigation, 1990 Conifer Cold Hardiness F.J. Bigras, Stephen J. Colombo, 2013-03-14 Conifer Cold Hardiness provides an up to date synthesis by leading scientists in the study of the major physiological and environmental factors regulating cold hardiness of conifer tree species This state of the art reference comprehensively explains current understanding of conifer cold hardiness ranging from the gene to the globe and from the highly applied to the very basic Topics addressed encompass cold hardiness from the perspectives of ecology ecophysiology acclimation and deacclimation seedling production and reforestation the impacts of biotic and abiotic factors and methods for studying and analyzing cold hardiness The content is relevant to geneticists ecologists stress physiologists environmental and global change scientists pathologists advanced nursery and silvicultural practitioners and graduate students involved in plant biology plant physiology horticulture and forestry with an interest in cold hardiness Planters' Notes, 1988 Some no include reports compiled from information furnished by State Foresters and others Tree Planters' Notes, 1989 Some no include reports compiled from information furnished by State Foresters and others

Oaks Physiological Ecology. Exploring the Functional Diversity of Genus Quercus L. Eustaquio Gil-Pelegrín, José Javier Peguero-Pina, Domingo Sancho-Knapik, 2017-12-12 With more than 500 species distributed all around the Northern Hemisphere the genus Quercus L is a dominant element of a wide variety of habitats including temperate tropical subtropical and mediterranean forests and woodlands As the fossil record reflects oaks were usual from the Oligocene onwards showing the high ability of the genus to colonize new and different habitats Such diversity and ecological amplitude makes genus Quercus an excellent framework for comparative ecophysiological studies allowing the analysis of many mechanisms that are found in different oaks at different level leaf or stem The combination of several morphological and physiological attributes defines the existence of different functional types within the genus which are characteristic of specific phytoclimates From a landscape perspective oak forests and woodlands are threatened by many factors that can compromise their future a limited regeneration massive decline processes mostly triggered by adverse climatic events or the competence with other broad leaved trees and conifer species The knowledge of all these facts can allow for a better management of the oak forests in the future

Silviculture Ralph D. Nyland, 2016-05-13 Silviculture Concepts and Applications reflects a belief that all the tools of silviculture have a useful role in modern forestry Through careful analysis and creative planning foresters can address a wide array of commodity and nonmarket interests and opportunities while maintaining dynamic and resilient forests A landowner's needs circumstances and site conditions guide a silviculturist's judgment and decision making in finding the best ways to integrate the biologic ecologic economic financial and managerial administrative requirements at hand The Third Edition of this influential text provides a foundational basis for rigorous discussion of techniques The inclusion of numerous real world examples and balanced coverage of past and current practices broadens the concept of silviculture and the ways that managers can use it to address both traditional and emerging interests in forests A thorough discussion of new and proven interpretations increasingly directs the attention of foresters toward the role silviculture plays in creating maintaining rehabilitating and restoring forests that can sustain an expanding variety of ecosystem services
