Seeing and Consciousness Gen Doy,1995-04-06 Through its provocative examination of feminist and Marxist approaches to women's art and female representations this book challenges the widespread belief that Marxism has nothing valuable to contribute to women's studies The author argues that from the French Revolution through to the present gender and class have shaped visual imagery She shows how Marxist theory can function to question some of the premises of feminist art histories and to provide a more accurate understanding of the meanings of visual imagery

Gender, Space, and the Gaze in Post-Haussmann Visual Culture Temma Balducci,2017-03-27 Relying on a range of visual and written sources Gender Space and the Gaze offers fresh ways of considering how masculinity and femininity were lived in late nineteenth century Paris The book moves beyond shopworn dichotomies rooted in Baudelaire's The Painter of Modern Life 1863 that have shaped scholarship on this period

Art and the Academy in the Nineteenth Century Rafael Cardoso Denis, Colin Trodd, 2000 Throughout the nineteenth century academies functioned as the main venues for the teaching promotion and display of art Contemporary scholars have for the most part denigrated academic art calling it formulaic unoriginal and repetitious The contributors to Art and the Academy in the Nineteenth Century challenge this entrenched notion and consider how academies worldwide have represented an important system of artistic preservation and transmission Their essays eschew easy binaries that have reigned in academia for more than half a century and that simply oppose the avant garde to academicism

The Gender of Photography Nicole Hudgins, 2020-09-02 It would be unthinkable now to omit early female pioneers from any survey of photography's history in the Western world Yet for many years the gendered language of American British and French photographic literature made it appear that women's interactions with early photography did not count as significant contributions Using French and English photo journals cartoons art criticism novels and early career guides aimed at women this volume will show why and how early photographic clubs journals exhibitions and studios insisted on masculine values and authority and how Victorian women engaged with photography despite that dominant trend Focusing on the period before 1890 when women were yet to develop the self-assurance that would lead to broader recognition of the value of their work this study probes the mechanisms by which exclusion took place and explores how women practiced photography anyway both as amateurs and professionals Challenging the marginalization of women's work in the early history of photography this is essential reading for students and scholars of photography history and gender studies

Women and Visual Culture in Nineteenth-century France, 1800-1852 Gen Doy, 1998 This book examines the relationship of class gender and race to visual culture in early nineteenth century France Drawing extensively on contemporary sources the author looks at the work of women artists women art critics and writers to demonstrate that many of the assumptions about female invisibility and objectification in bourgeois culture and society need serious reconsideration The first half of the nineteenth century was a complex and contradictory period in the formation and contestation of bourgeois ideologies of the feminine Women though at a serious disadvantage became visible as artists critics and patrons and were not merely invisible domesticated or constructed by forces outside their control Women artists such as Angelique Mongez painted heroic neo classical nudes while many named and anonymous women wrote art criticism articulating their views as female spectators Doy also examines notions of appropriate work for women in relation to landscape genre sculpture and the emergence of Realism Of particular interest is the discussion of the representation of black women during this period when Fren

The Neoliberal Undead Marc James Léger, 2013-05-31 The Neoliberal Undead describes the frightening world of class restoration neoliberal austerity ecological meltdown and neo imperialism a disaster capitalism that breeds mutant ideological justifications for itself and the inevitability of disorder poverty and suffering What role does culture play in this world of markets and how do new contestatory forms enable a leftist solidarity that can move cultural radicalism beyond the postmodern obsession with new subjectivities Rather than become the symptoms of democratic materialism signing up for endless culture wars The Neoliberal Undead argues for a rethinking of radical cultural leftism against the terms of the dominant global situation The relentless reduction of art criticism and art production under capitalist relations requires that the living separate themselves from the abstractions of globalization and reconnect with revolutionary theory New Literature on Women ,1995 Dickens's Class Consciousness: A Marginal View P. Morris,2016-06-08 Dickens's social concern has always been recognized as important to his fiction but this is the first study to focus specifically upon the representation of class consciousness in his novels Dr Morris's detailed research on influential Victorian journals demonstrates the inherently dialogic quality of Dickens's writing the continuous interaction between the language of his texts and the language of class articulated in the era This re-articulation of the political contemporaneity of the novels reveals the marginal perspective they contain and offers new insight into the developing rhetorics of competitive individualism class interpellation and control of urban discontent Women and the People Helen Rogers,2017-05-15 Based on extensive new research investigating the range of women's involvement in early nineteenth century popular politics mid Victorian reform and the women's movements of the late century Women and the People makes an original intervention in the historiography of the radical tradition by exploring the interconnections of populism liberalism and feminism Attending to authorship the study argues that the representational forms adopted by radicals were as important as the content of what they said in shaping their self-perception their construction of others and the reception of their ideas In fiction poetry and autobiography as well as in political writing speeches and journalism women reworked radical conventions and imagined new models of political identity participation and authority Though in general radicals appealed to the people women were often positioned as the suffering objects of reform rather than as the agents of change By showing how they challenged or reinforced these conceptions of women and the people the book contends that radical women invoked alternative communities of sex class and nation and helped to remake and discipline the political sphere as they strove to make it their own Formations of Class & Gender Beverley Skeggs,1997-07-21 Explanations of how identities are constructed are fundamental to contemporary debates in feminism and in cultural and social theory Formations of Class Gender demonstrates why class should be featured more prominently in theoretical accounts of gender identity and power Beverley Skeggs identifies the neglect of class and shows how class and gender must be fused together to produce an accurate representation of power relations in modern society The book questions how theoretical frameworks are generated for understanding how women live and produce themselves through social and cultural relations It uses detailed ethnographic research to explain how real women inhabit and occupy the social and cultural position Women in Asia Louise Edwards,Mina Roces,2020-07-25 Women in Asia Tradition Modernity and Globalisation surveys the transformation in the status of women since 1970 in a diverse range of nations Malaysia China Indonesia Singapore the Philippines India Taiwan Vietnam Hong Kong Korea Japan and Burma Within these 13 national case studies the book presents new arguments about being women being Asian and being modern in contemporary Asia Recent social changes in women s place in society are untangled in recognition that not all change is progress and that not all modernity enhances women s status The authors suggest that the improvements in women s status within the Asian region vary dramatically according to the manner in which women interact with the particular economic and ideological forces in each nation Each contributor has focussed on a particular country in their area of expertise They present innovative arguments relating to the problem of being women in Asia during a period of dramatic social and political changes Each national case study explores key social and economic markers of women s status such as employment rates wage differentials literacy rates and participation in politics or business The effects of population control programs legislation on domestic violence and female infanticide and women s role in the family and the workforce are also discussed The book poses questions as to how women have negotiated these shifts and in the process created a modern Asian woman Specialists from a variety of disciplines including history anthropology sociology demography gender studies and psychology grapple with the complexities and ambivalences presented by the multiple faces of the modern Asian woman Complete with a list of recommended readings and a web site with links to electronic resources the book will be of particular interest to undergraduate students of Asian studies and women s studies as well as scholars and postgraduate students interested in comparative women s studies

It is about how and why women come to be in jobs typically regarded as semi or unskilled, about the causes of low pay and about women workers' consciousness as workers and as women. The nine closely researched contributions examine the development of women's and men's work in clothing and other manufacturing industries, clerical work in local government, microelectronics in the office, the position of Asian and West Indian women in the labour market, women's role in the family and part-time work and women's involvement and influence in trade unions.
