Prosthesis Ian Hatcher, 2016 Poetry Ian Hatcher s PROSTHESIS is a poetry collection infused with the syntax of source code and the cadences of machinic speech concerned with the question of where the apparatus ends and the body begins Published by Poor Claudia along with a parallel set of recordings of performances by the author Flooded with voices not its own with flows of information and code both seductive and alienating the multitudinous I speaking from within PROSTHESIS addresses us tenderly beseechingly grappling with felt loss with immersive gain both of which overwhelm as wave after wave of irreversible feedback expand the entrapping and enabling network itself a prosthesis for us all Stephanie Strickland Ian Hatcher has always understood that there is no life or language without prosthesis and he is wonderful in his ability to make prosthetic beauty in language for us his listening readers Every day our language is being transfigured by processes and devices enjoined to us and running in our bodies minds and memories Hatcher knows feels and makes these processes his writing John Cayley These test pattern text pattern works perform their constructions deconstructions of the communicative structures of contemporary poetic practice in acts of un making that are sensually rich and intellectually provocative Be sure to look at these works and listen to Hatcher s performances to sense their timings and shaped rhythms their staccato repetitions combinatoric sequences algorithmic arrays and their elegant dissections of traditional poetic forms Johanna Drucker

Selected Poems Hélène Aji, Jennifer Kilgore-Caradec, 2013-01-16 Complete poems are bulky and too heavy to carry around Collected poems pretend to be complete but usually are not Selected poems are altogether unpretentious and reader friendly But they can be problematic Who decides what poems are important for inclusion in a volume of selected poems When the selection occurs during the author s lifetime may one assume that the author was involved What motivates the choice of one poem over another How do readers preferences influence this choice How do new readers and familiar readers of a poet negotiate the poems that are left out of the selection The essays in this volume address these questions in a variety of ways and also provide an overview of poetic writing from modernist poets to the present day using selections from the 1940s until now They offer new insight into the uses both pedagogical and critical of selection Because Selected Poems usually address a large general public these essays have also been written for all those who wish to know more about how these slimmer more attractive volumes are produced

Prosthetic Memories Hyaesin Yoon, 2025-01-03 In Prosthetic Memories Hyaesin Yoon examines the entanglements of humans animals and technologies across South Korea and the United States at the turn of the twenty first century Interrogating a variety of body technology interfaces Yoon outlines an emergent mode of prosthetic memory in which human memory is extended into both machines and animals Prosthetic memory overflows and provides an alternative to familiar human perception Western scientific reason and other senses of knowledge in ways that can foster networks of solidarity care and empathy between human and nonhuman subjects Among other sites and subjects Yoon examines tongue surgery to correct English pronunciation in Korea Asian American poetry that engages the human machine divide transnational dog cloning and stem cell research each of which activates potent postcolonial feminist mnemonics and alliances In so doing Yoon narrates the counter memories of racialized gendered diasporic queer and marginalized human and nonhuman others that work against the violent and isolating biopolitical and neoliberal forces in contemporary society

Blindness and Therapy in Late Medieval French and Italian Poetry Julie Singer, 2011 This book argues that late medieval love poets from Petrarch to Machaut and Charles d Orlans exploit scientific models as a broad framework within which to redefine the limits of the lyric subject and his body Just as humoral theory depends upon principles of likes and contraries in order to heal poetry makes possible a parallel therapeutic system in which verbal oppositions and substitutions counter or rewrite received medical wisdom The specific case of blindness a disability that according to the theories of love that predominated in the late medieval West foreclosed the possibility of love serves as a laboratory in which to explore poets circumvention of the logical limits of contemporary medical theory Reclaiming the power of remedy from physicians these late medieval French and Italian poets prompt us to rethink not only the relationship between scientific and literary authority at the close of the middle ages but more broadly speaking the very notion of therapy
