Protein Conformation As An Immunological Signal:

Protein Conformation as an Immunological Signal Franco Celada, Verne N. Schumaker, Eli E. Sercarz, 2012-12-06

This volume is the collection of papers presented during a four day meeting the EMBO workshop Protein Conformation as an Immunological Signal that took place at Portovenere La Spezia Italy October 1-4 1981 The motivation that drove us to organize this meeting was the feeling that distinct groups of researchers active in key areas of modern immunology sometimes fail to communicate with each other simply because of different traditional affiliations Yet it is urgent that molecular and cellular people cooperate more if immunology is to continue the exportation of new concepts to other disciplines In fact the deep meaning of molecule molecule and cell cell interaction the generation of signals and their effective transmission which results in elicitation control or suppression of responses cannot be unraveled without the experts on antibody structure or complement activation sharing their views with the experts on T cell B cell and macrophage membrane receptors as well as the experts on factors that carry the information released by these cells Whether the meeting was scientifically fruitful the reader can judge after having digested these pages We the organizers are not sure whether the optimal amount of interaction had taken place especially considering how hard it is to overcome the scientist's catch 22 You have to know something quite well before you get really interested in it In any event we are convinced that Portovenere was one of the most successful attempts we have witnessed

Cellular, Molecular and Genetic Approaches to Immunodiagnosis and Immunotherapy K. Kano, S. Mori, T. Sugisaki, M. Torisu, 1987-11-24 Cytolytic Lymphocytes and Complement Effectors of the Immune System Eckhard R. Podack, 2018-01-18 These volumes Cytolytic Lymphocytes and Complement Effectors of the Immune System originate from the realization that pathways of recognition and killings of foreign targets follow similar routes in the humoral and cellular part of the immune system In particular the homology of immunoglobins with the T cell MHC antigen receptor at the beginning of the recognition sequence and the homology of complement component C9 with lymphocyte perforin 1 P1 as pore formers at the end of the effector sequence are striking examples

Molecular Dynamics at the Immunological Synapse Pedro

Roda-Navarro,Andrés Alcover,Vincenzo Di Bartolo,2017-03-21 The immunological synapse IS is a specialised cell cell adhesion that mediates antigen acquisition and regulates the activation of lymphocytes Initial studies of the IS showed a structure composed of stable supra molecular activation clusters SMAC organised during the interaction of helper T lymphocytes with B lymphocytes working as antigen presenting cells A central SMAC of coalesced T cell receptors TCRs and a peripheral SMAC for cell cell adhesion were observed IS with similar structure was later described during antigen acquisition by B cells and during the interaction of NK cells with target and healthy cells More recent research developed with microscopy systems that improve the spatial and temporal resolution has showed the complex molecular dynamics at the IS that governs lymphocyte activation Currently the IS is seen as a three dimensional structure where signalling networks for lymphocyte activation and endosomal and cytoskeleton machinery are polarised A view has emerged in which dynamic microclusters of signalling complexes are composed of molecular components attached to the plasma membrane and other components conveyed on sub synaptic vesicles transported to the membrane by cytoskeletal fibers and motor proteins Much information is nonetheless missing about how the dynamics of the endosomal compartment the cytoskeleton and signalling complexes are reciprocally regulated to achieve the function of lymphocytes Experimental evidence also suggests that the environment surrounding lymphocytes exposed to different antigenic challenge regulates IS assembly and functional output making an even more complex scenario still far from being completely understood Also although some signalling molecular components for lymphocyte activation have been identified and thoroughly studied the function of other molecules has not been yet uncovered or deeply characterised This research topic aims to provide the reader with the latest information about the molecular dynamics governing lymphocyte activation These molecular dynamics dictate cell decisions Thus we expect that understanding them will provide new avenues for cell manipulation in therapies to treat different immune related pathologies
