

A close-up, low-angle shot of a person's legs as they step over a large, flat rock in a shallow stream. The person is wearing dark blue jeans and tan, lace-up boots. The water is clear, reflecting the surrounding greenery and the person's legs. The background is a soft-focus forest scene with trees and foliage. The overall tone is natural and serene.

Pseudoshenoute On Christian Behaviour:

Pseudo-Shenoute on Christian behavior Saint Shenute, 1960 Non-Verbal Predication in Ancient Egyptian Antonio Loprieno, Matthias Müller, Sami Uljas, 2017-10-23 The Egyptian language with its written documentation spreading from the Early Bronze Age Ancient Egyptian to Christian times Coptic has rarely been the object of typological studies grammatical analysis mainly serving philological purposes This volume offers now a detailed analysis and a diachronic discussion of the non verbal patterns of the Egyptian language from the Pyramid Texts Earlier Egyptian to Coptic Later Egyptian based on an extensive use of data especially for later phases By providing a narrative contextualisation and a linguistic glossing of all examples it addresses the needs not only of students of Egyptian and Coptic but also of a linguistic readership After an introduction into the basic typological features of Egyptian the main book chapters address morphology syntax semantics and pragmatics of the three non verbal sentence types documented throughout the history of this language the adverbial sentence the nominal sentence and the adjectival sentence These patterns also appear in a variety of clausal environments and can be embedded in verbal constructions This book provides an ideal introduction into the study of Egyptian historical grammar and an indispensable companion for philological reading An Archaeology of the Immaterial Victor Buchli, 2015-08-27 An Archaeology of the Immaterial examines a highly significant but poorly understood aspect of material culture studies the active rejection of the material world Buchli argues that this is evident in a number of cultural projects including anti consumerism and asceticism as well as other attempts to transcend material circumstances Exploring the cultural work which can be achieved when the material is rejected and the social effects of these dematerialisations this book situates the way some people disengage from the world as a specific kind of physical engagement which has profound implications for our understanding of personhood and materiality Using case studies which range widely in time over Western societies and the technologies of materialising the immaterial from icons to the scanning tunnelling microscope and 3 D printing Buchli addresses the significance of immateriality for our own economics cultural perceptions and emerging forms of social inclusion and exclusion An Archaeology of the Immaterial is thus an important and innovative contribution to material cultural studies which demonstrates that the making of the immaterial is like the making of the material a profoundly powerful operation which works to exert social control and delineate the borders of the imaginable and the enfranchised The Memory of the Eyes Georgia Frank, 2000-05-11 Pilgrims in the deserts of Egypt and the holy land during the fourth and fifth centuries A D often reported visiting holy people as part of their tours of holy places This is the first comprehensive study of pilgrimage to these famous ascetics of late antique Christianity Through an original analysis of pilgrim writings of this period Georgia Frank discovers a literary imagination at work one that both recorded and shaped the experience of pilgrimage to living saints Taking an important new approach to these texts Frank finds in them a record of the writers and readers spiritual expectations and uses these fresh insights to add substantially to our understanding of the purposes and practices of pilgrimage Frank focuses in particular on two important and well known early texts The History of the Monks in Egypt ca 400 and Palladius's The Lausiac History ca 420 situating these narratives in their literary historical and spiritual contexts She compares these narratives to exotic travel writing and to tales of otherworldly journeys Bringing in contemporary theory she demonstrates the importance of sight as a means of spiritual progress and explores the relation between the function of sight in these narratives and in other expressions of visual piety in late antiquity Christianity such as the veneration of relics and eventually icons With its unique focus on the sensory dimensions of pilgrimage especially visuality this absorbing book widens our understanding of early Christian pilgrims and those who read their accounts At the same time it also sheds new light on the relation between religious experience and the senses on literary representations of visual experience and on the literature of pious travel

Conjunction, Contiguity, Contingency Leo Depuydt, 1993-05-06
Language is in large part about the description of events occurring in the world around us Relationships of different sorts may be perceived between those events And some of these relationships can be expressed by specific verb forms or by syntactic constructions involving specific verb forms The present study examines this facet of the Egyptian and Coptic verbal systems in isolation singling out three types of relationships between events and the linguistic means by which they are expressed The first essay studies the verb form called conjunctive arguing that the function of the conjunctive is to conjoin a chain of two or more events into a single though compound notion The second essay shows how a certain syntactic construction can be used to refer to events that are contiguous that is events that succeed one another rapidly in time The third essay examines verb forms that refer to events whose occurrence is contingent on the occurrence of other events implied or explicitly mentioned in the context The respective grammatical phenomena are labeled conjunction contiguity and contingency This study constitutes a significant advancement in our understanding of the ancient language of Egypt and will be of interest to scholars in the fields of Egyptology Coptology and the Ancient Near East as well as linguists Byzantinists and Classicists

Corpus Scriptorum Christianorum Orientalium. Scriptores Armeniaci, 1961

Mother of God Miri Rubin, 2009-04-21 A sweeping ambitious study of the Virgin Mary's emergence and role throughout Western history How did the Virgin Mary about whom very little is said in the Gospels become one of the most powerful and complex religious figures in the world To arrive at the answers to this far reaching question one of our foremost medieval historians Miri Rubin investigates the ideas practices and images that have developed around the figure of Mary from the earliest decades of Christianity to around the year 1600 Drawing on an extraordinarily wide range of sources including music poetry theology art scripture and miracle tales Rubin reveals how Mary became so embedded in our culture that it is impossible to conceive of Western history without her In her rise to global prominence Mary was continually remade and reimagined by wave after wave of devotees Rubin shows how early Christians endowed Mary with a fine ancestry why in early medieval Europe her roles as mother bride and companion came to the fore and how the focus later shifted to her humanity and unparalleled purity She also explores how indigenous people in Central America Africa and Asia remade Mary and so fit her into their own cultures Beautifully written and finely illustrated this book is a triumph of sympathy and intelligence It demonstrates Mary s endless capacity to inspire and her profound presence in Christian cultures and beyond
