Krashen, 2011-05-18 An eye opening look at the latest research findings about the success of free voluntary reading in developing high levels of literacy Free voluntary reading looks better and more powerful than ever Stephen D Krashen PhD is an advocate for free voluntary reading in schools and has published many journal articles on the subject Free Voluntary Reading Power 2010 collects the last ten years of his extensive work and reconsiders all aspects of this important debate in light of the latest findings The book provides an accessible examination of topics such as free voluntary reading s value in language and literary acquisition domestically and worldwide recent developments in support of free voluntary reading whether rewards based programs benefit the development of lifelong reading the value of phonics in reading instruction and trends in literacy in the United States When Grit Isn't Enough Linda F.

Nathan, 2017-10-17 Examines major myths informing American education and explores how educators can better serve students increase college retention rates and develop alternatives to college that don t disadvantage students on the basis of race or income Each year as the founding headmaster of the Boston Arts Academy BAA an urban high school that boasts a 94 percent college acceptance rate Linda Nathan made a promise to the incoming freshmen All of you will graduate from high school and go on to college or a career After fourteen years at the helm Nathan stepped down and took stock of her alumni of those who went to college a third dropped out Feeling like she failed to fulfill her promise Nathan reflected on ideas she and others have perpetuated about education that college is for all that hard work and determination are enough to get you through that America is a land of equality In When Grit Isn t Enough Nathan investigates five assumptions that inform our ideas about education today revealing how these beliefs mask systemic inequity Seeing a rift between these false promises and the lived experiences of her students she argues that it is time for educators to face these uncomfortable issues head on and explores how educators can better serve all students increase college retention rates and develop alternatives to college that don t disadvantage students on the basis of race or income Drawing on the voices of BAA alumni whose stories provide a window through which to view urban education today When Grit Isn't Enough helps imagine greater purposes for schooling

On-Site Drug Testing Amanda J. Jenkins, Bruce A. Goldberger, 2002-01-28 It is at least a decade since scientists turned their imaginations to creating new compact portable test instruments and self-contained test kits that could be used to analyze urine and saliva for alcohol drugs and their metabolites Although the potential applications for such tests at the site of specimen collection now called on-site or point-of-care testing range far beyond hospital emergency rooms and law enforcement needs it was catalyzed by the requirements of workplace drug testing and other drugs of abuse testing programs These programs are now a minor national industry in the United States and in some western European countries and cover populations as diverse as the military incarcerated criminals people suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol and other drugs all athletes from college to professional ranks and of course the general employed population which is monitored for illegal drug use and numbers in the millions It is not surprising then that the need for rapid and precise tests conducted economically by trained professionals has become a major goal Current government approved and peer reviewed laboratory methods for urine analysis serve present needs very well and have become remarkably robust over the past twenty years but the logistics of testing some moving populations such as the military the Coast Guard workers on off shore oil platforms and athletes perhaps the most mobile of these groups are unacceptably cumbersome The Public Response
