Readings In Gerontology:

Readings in Gerontology Virginia M. Brantl, Mollie Brown, 1973      Gerontology Clyde B. Vedder, Belle Boone Beard, 1963      Readings in Gerontology Mollie Brown, 1978      Aging in America 2020 Robert L. Scardamalia, 2020-08-05

Today concerns about the financial stability of Social Security trends in disability health care costs and the supply of caregivers are all driven by the coming explosion in the number of people over the age of 65. Aging in America focuses on the economic and demographic portrait of the senior population and can provide a context for analysis of broader population issues. It provides a wide range of characteristics of the older population including age composition, race, and Hispanic origin, educational attainment, living arrangements, veteran status, employment, and income, health insurance, disability, and housing characteristics. Extracting comparative information from the Census Bureau's databases can be difficult and time consuming. Aging in America provides comparative data on a variety of topics in a single, easy-to-use volume. Some of the benefits of Aging in America include: It provides a cross section of socio-economic characteristics focused on the aging population for commonly researched geographic areas: states, counties, cities, metropolitan and micropolitan areas, and congressional districts. The tables are structured to allow easy comparisons across geographic areas and easy profiling of characteristics.

Gerontology Clyde Bennett Vedder, 1963      Readings in Gerontology University of Oregon. School of Community Service and Public Affairs, University of Oregon. Center for Gerontology, 1969*      Readings in Aging and Death Steven H. Zarit, 1977

A major purpose of the book is to explore the processes of development in the later years and their impact on people's lives. This search is not without pain or disappointment; however, involvement with older persons will bring students into contact with people who often long for human contact, who can be wise or sad or funny or foolish but who give us a sense of our past and a view of the present that otherwise would be lost to us. There is a special delight in bridging over age differences with warmth and understanding. In addition to our personal enrichment, a balanced view of aging, emphasizing both the continuing strengths and abilities as well as the difficulties that may confront the old, is of value to the student who may enter a profession that directly serves older persons or who may work as a volunteer or for relating to one's parents when they are old. Ultimately too, we should gain some perspective on our own aging. In this book, there has been an attempt to present aging from a variety of perspectives in articles that are free from excessive professional jargon. They have been chosen as reflective of the major issues in the field of gerontology. Basic concepts of the aging process are presented in the initial two sections.

Readings in Gerontology Seong S. Han, Marlana J. Geha, 1976      Gerontology, 1971      Let's Learn about Aging John Reagan Barry, C. Ray Wingrove, 1977      Readings in the Political Economy of Aging Meredith Minkler, Carroll Estes, 2019-03-19

Includes 16 essays which address many issues from a different perspective suggested by the experience of aging in America. This study explores the political, social, and economic realities which have an impact on Americans as they grow older.      Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 28, 2008 Harvey L.
