Possibility and Actuality Nicolai Hartmann, 2013-03-22 Nicolai Hartmann's Possibility and Actuality is the second volume of a four part investigation of ontology It deals with such questions as How do we know that something is really possible Is the possible only the actual Is the actual only the possible What is the difference between ideal and real possibility This groundbreaking work of modal analysis describes the logical relations between possibility actuality and necessity and it provides insight into the relations between modes of knowledge and modes of being Hartmann reviews the history of philosophical concepts of possibility and necessity from ancient Megarian philosophy to Aristotle to Medieval Scholasticism to Leibniz Kant and Hegel He explains the importance of modal analysis as a basic investigative tool and he proposes an approach to understanding the nature of human existence that unifies the fields of ontology modal logic metaphysics and epistemology This brilliant and fascinating work is relevant to many topics of debate in contemporary philosophy including the ontology of possible worlds the metaphysics of modality the logic of counterfactual conditionals and modal epistemology It illuminates the nature of real ideal logical and epistemic possibility

Arts of Connection Karen S. Feldman, 2019-08-05 At the intersection of literary theory philosophy of history and phenomenology Arts of Connection Poetry History Epochality explores the representation of connections between events in literary historical and philosophical narratives Events in a story can be seen as ordered according to proximate causation which leads diachronically from one event to the next and they can also be understood in view of the structure of the narrative as a whole for instance in terms of the unity of plot Feldman argues that there exists an essential narrative tension between these two kinds of connection i.e. between the overarching arrangement or plot that holds together events from outside as it were in order to produce an intelligible whole and the portrayal of one by one interstitial connections between events within the narrative. Arts of Connection demonstrates by means of exemplary moments in Aristotle and classical German poetics, eighteenth century philosophy of history and twentieth century phenomenology that the task of connection is a fraught one insofar as the formal unity of narrative competes or interferes with the representation of one by one connections between events and vice versa.

CONNECTING & DISCONNECTING

Adrian Gabriel Dumitru, Analyzing in Freudian style my own life: I've finally understood why I am an idiot. I was mad and also sad. I could say that I was actually an emotional cocktail of madness and sadness but I just could not accept it even if I knew it by a few days already. But like all the ones that studied psychology into a very deep way, I knew to hide all so damn good. On the real scene of life, I was always wearing a very nice emotional mask and no one really knew what is going on inside my soul. But well, randomly there were situations when I was becoming so furious, actually acting like a devil. It was a total nonsense but I was keeping doing that, letting those demons from inside of me to dominate all I was doing. And that happened on and on and on. Today I was OK and one day later all those strong emotions from inside of me were taking the control over my soul. I was actually connected to beautiful vibes then again to negativity. It was all an emotional balance. I was connecting then disconnecting then connecting again. I've tried to understand myself but more I was going deeper and deeper, I've felt that I could not accept that I dislike so much something specific from my reality. This connecting/disconnecting story was actually a chain reaction. Not being happy of some of the elements of my life, I was randomly losing control on myself, allowing to explode as a nuclear bomb, destroying all around myself. I was basically a person that could be defined as a good guy but randomly allowing those little devils from inside my soul to dominate the energies beyond the scene of my life, I proved myself to actually be on and on and on an idiot. Only the deep analyzes done in a Freudian style made me see the fact that not practicing the honesty in front of myself, carrying all the time emotional masks that were actually hiding my real emotions, I was always ending up balancing between beautiful and ugly energies. I had to accept my emotions even to accept that I act like a great idiot but I preferred to hide the truth. To hide my emotions. So I simply continued life connecting and disconnecting to beautiful but also ugly energies.
