Research Methods For Nurses And The Caring Professions
 Pamela Abbott, Roger Sapsford, 1998-05-16 Praise for the first edition of Research into Practice and Research Methods for Nurses and the Caring Professions These books provide a good introduction for the uninitiated to reading and doing research Abbott and Sapsford provide a clearly written and accessible introduction to social research One of their aims is to demystify research and in this they succeed admirably After reading the text and the articles in the reader and working through the various research exercises readers should have a clear appreciation of how to evaluate other people's research and how to begin their own David Field Journal of Palliative Medicine This book now substantially revised in its second edition is about the appreciation evaluation and conduct of social research Aimed at nurses social workers community workers and others in the caring professions the book is particularly focused on research which evaluates and contributes to professional practice The authors have provided many short practical exercises in the text and the examples are drawn mostly from projects carried out by one or two people rather than large research teams The clear accessible style will make this the ideal introductory text for those undertaking or studying research for the first time The book may be used in conjunction with Research into Practice Open University Press a reader of useful examples selected by the same authors

Feminist Research in Theory and Practice Gayle Letherby, 2003-02-16 an extremely welcome addition to the field of feminist research British Journal of Educational Studies This is a clear and accessible exploration of feminist method methodology and epistemology After situating herself and her work Gayle Letherby charts the debates concerned with the epistemological political and practical issues involved in doing feminist research and places the debates within a wider consideration of the status of knowledge The main focus of the book is then the particular and practical issues for feminist researchers It examines how the process of research affects the results of that research and explores the relation between politics and practice in terms of research and knowledge production Throughout the book there is a practical emphasis on specific examples of feminist research in action and as well as summarizing current theoretical debates Gayle Letherby adds to them Feminist Research in Theory and Practice is designed and written as a textbook for students at advanced undergraduate and postgraduate level but will be a valuable resource for any researcher or individual interested in women's studies feminism and in researching in the social sciences      Issues in Deaf Education Susan Gregory, 1998 First Published in 1998 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      Reflections On Research: The Realities Of Doing Research In The Social Sciences Hallowell, Nina, Lawton, Julia, Gregory, Susan, 2004-10-01 By focusing upon the real life experiences of social science researchers Reflections on Research provides insight into the day to day realities of conducting research the pleasures and the pitfalls As such it is essential reading for all students and researchers in the social sciences as well as academics and professionals interested in research and research ethics      The Silent Experiences of Young Bilingual Learners Caroline Bligh, 2014-09-11 Many teachers are increasingly concerned with how to best support the learning of the rising numbers of bilingual learners in schools particularly those children who are new to English and therefore cannot yet communicate with the teacher or their peers in their first language during the silent period This book offers an alternative insight to that which is most commonly available to teachers and researchers as instead of examining language acquisition purely from a linguistic approach it explores the learning that is occurring through a sociocultural lens and even more significantly from the young child s perspective the worm s eye view Investigated through the experiences of young bilingual learners allows the reader to make sense of the making meaning that occurs when the child cannot make sense of his her new world nor communicate verbally in the language of instruction in the classroom Remarkably learning through the silent period is revealed as both complex and messy as the bilingual child mediates his or her own learning through a synthesis of alternative learning pathways The silent period is presented as a crucial time for learning distributed through a synthesis of close observation intense listening and most significantly copying the practices of others Throughout the silent period the children are not only seen to be learning but also contributing to the classroom practices The book not only initiates new understandings of second language learning but also offers creative ideas on how to raise the achievement of children who are learning English as an additional language      Children's Reflections On Family Life Michele Moore, 2012-11-12 How important is the family for children How do children cope when parents have to juggle child care employment and other responsibilities In this volume these questions and others are raised and reflected upon by children themselves providing insights for parents and professionals      Deinstitutionalising Women Kelley Johnson, 1998-10-13 An ethnographic study of deinstitutionalisation explores the lives of women with intellectual disabilities      Practice Research in the Human Services Michael J. Austin, Sarah Carnochan, 2020-03-12 This book offers a practical approach to conducting practice research in the field of human services This evolving form of applied research seeks to understand practice in the context of the relationships between service providers and service users between service providers and their managers between agency based service providers and community advocacy and support groups and between agency managers and policy makers Practice research represents a form of evidence informed practice that involves a wide array of research designs and methods in contrast to the narrower emphasis on experimental designs that characterizes evidence based practice The emerging principles and practices associated with practice research highlight 1 including multiple diverse stakeholders 2 maximizing and negotiating participation 3 promoting practitioner engagement in all phases of the research process and 4 developing new identities for participants as research minded practitioners and practice minded researchers The book is designed for researchers practitioners service users and students and focuses on concrete experiences that illustrate the processes and activities involved in a specific locally negotiated model of practice research The book describes multiple practice research studies across an array of fields of practice in the human services focusing on the research questions designs roles and relationships that have been developed in the context of a university agency practice research partnership These descriptions and stories are used to construct a comprehensive detailed picture of the research process Based upon these descriptions the book synthesizes a set of broader principles and guidelines for practice researchers

Mental Health Service Users in Research Patsy Staddon, 2015-01-14 This book aims to show the value but also the difficulties encountered in the application of insider knowledge in service user research Mental health service users in research considers ways of doing research which bring multiple understandings together effectively and explains the sociological use of autobiography and its relevance It examines how our identity shapes the knowledge we produce and asks why voices which challenge contemporary beliefs about health and the role of treatment are often silenced An imbalance of power and opportunity for service users and the stigmatising nature of services are considered as human rights issues Most of the contributors to the book are service users survivors as well as academics Their fields of expertise include LGB issues racial tensions and recovering from the shame and stigma of alcoholism They stress the importance of research approaches which involve mutualities of respect and understanding within the worlds of researcher clinician and service user survivor

Issues in Deaf Education Ruth Swanwick, 2012-12-06 The way in which education is provided for deaf children is changing as are the demands made on teachers both in special settings and in mainstream schools This book offers a comprehensive account of recent research and current issues in educational policy psychology linguistics and audiology as they relate to the education of the deaf and includes detailed information about further reading It should be of interest to student teachers and teachers of the deaf teachers in mainstream schools academics working in the area of deafness and disability audiologists and cochlear implant teams parents of deaf children and members of the deaf community

An Auto/Biographical Approach to Learning Disability Research Dorothy Atkinson, 2018-12-07 First published in 1997 Dorothy Atkinson collects testimonies of the personal perspectives of people with learning disability in order to rediscover the histories of people with learning disabilities Calling on the importance of auto biographical research as a mode to encourage social historical awareness and potential understanding of the commonalities as well the differences between people with learning difficulties

Fieldwork, Participation and Practice Marlene de Laine, 2000-12-19 This timely and topical look at the role of ethics in fieldwork takes into account some of the major issues confronting qualitative researchers

The main purposes of this book are twofold to promote an understanding of the harmful possibilities of fieldwork and to provide ways of dealing with ethical problems and dilemmas To these ends examples of actual fieldwork are provided that address ethical problems and dilemmas and posit ways of dealing with them
