Hu, Yiwei Huang, Miranda Luong, Anuprita Ranade, Gordon Robertson, Elizabeth Wang, Lisa (Yip Yan) Yeung, Catherine Yochum, 2021-08-31 Spooky Technology explores our understanding of the invisible technologies in our everyday lives from objects with intelligence to systems in our homes that talk to us and each other. The book is an inventory of spooky technologies compiled by Carnegie Mellon students reviewing work across art design HCI psychology human factors research and other fields that has been done in this field or adjacent to it both historically and more recently with commentary essays and interviews with creators and artists. We often hear that the technologies in our everyday lives would appear to be magic and potentially terrifying to people in the past instantaneous communication with people all over the world access to a vast ever growing resource of human knowledge right there in the palm of our hand objects with intelligence that can sense and talk to us and each other. But rarely are these otherworldly dimensions of technologies explored in more detail. There is an often unspoken presumption that the march of progress will inevitably mean we all adopt new practices and incorporate new products and new ways of doing things into our lives all cities will become smart cities all homes will become smart homes. But these systems have become omnipresent without our necessarily understanding them. They are not just black boxes but invisible entities in our homes and everyday lives which work through hidden flows of data unknown agendas imaginary clouds mysterious sets of rules which we perhaps dismiss as algorithms or even AI without really understanding what that means. On some level the superstitions and sense of wonder and ways of relating to the unknown and the supernatural deities spirits ghosts which humanity has felt in every culture throughout history have not gone away but started to become transferred and transmuted into new forms.

Conspicuous and Inconspicuous Discriminations in Everyday Life Victor N. Shaw, 2013-06-19 In everyday life people negotiate on issues entertain offers and counteroffers and gain or lose in terms of economic capital political power communal status and social influence. Although life goes on in the form of compromise feelings of discrimination or misfortune haunt consciously or unconsciously in the minds of living individuals. History continues in the spirit of forgiveness but residues of exploitation or injustice remain conspicuously or inconspicuously on the records of progressing civilizations. This study follows an average everyday life to compare individuals with individuals individuals with organizations and organizations with organizations in their everyday interactions. Through the eyes of the person conspicuous and inconspicuous discriminations by one against another whether individual or organizational are identified in different occasions on a typical day at home in the workplace in the community within the country around the world and throughout the course of life. In the style of Socrates Plato Wittgenstein and other classical scholarship this study uses ordinary typical situations to demonstrate critical points reveal subtle connections and present important arguments. It offers vivid examples for what social scientists strive to find the extraordinary from the ordinary the unfamiliar from the familiar the different from the similar and the significant from the trivial. This study offers an opportunity for readers to reflect upon their social experiences and rethink and reshape their everyday acts and actions.

Lent and Easter Reflections for the Younger Crowd John Behnke, 2010 Meditations using ordinary language and every day experience to assist young people in developing a pattern of prayer reflection and daily meditation Personal Storytelling: Discovering the Extraordinary in the Ordinary Sam Thiara, 2014-04-20 What's the last story you heard what's the last story you wrote and what's the last story you lived We all have stories within us however at times we are not aware that they exist or hold on to them because we fear that others might not be interested If something is important to you it is worth sharing This book is about helping you build and tell your stories Through personal experiences and practical exercises you too will be able to discover the extraordinary in the ordinary In a world where there is so much visual noise the world values and remembers stories and appreciates a good storyteller Whether you want to be more reflective or take pleasure in the personal experiences shared there is something for everyone in this book
