Regional Environmental Policy Summary:

Regional Environmental Policy Vladimir M. Zakharov, 2001 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis, 1980 Inventory of Federal Energy-related Environment and Safety Research for FY 1978: Project listings and indexes, 1979 Regional Environmental Politics in Northeast Asia Jeongwon Bourdais Park, 2018-11-12 The share of global CO2 emissions from the core Northeast Asian NEA countries in 2015 was estimated to be as high as 33.63 percent. Representing 28.21, 3.67 and 1.75 percent of total global emissions China, Japan and South Korea were ranked the first, fifth and seventh largest contributors respectively. Some parts of China, the Republic of Mongolia, the Russian Far East and Southeast Asia have long been on serious alert due to accelerated deforestation. With their rapid population growth and economic development, the core countries of Northeast Asia are responsible both directly and indirectly for numerous environmental problems. Urgent individual and collective action is required from the region's governments. Against the backdrop of debate on how to understand Northeast Asia as a region, Park focuses on the major regional economies of China, Japan and South Korea along with Russia, North Korea and the Republic of Mongolia due to both their geopolitical proximity and their significance to the region. The author attempts to answer the questions: How far has regional environmental cooperation progressed in Northeast Asia and Why are Northeast Asian countries reluctant to cooperate further on urgent transboundary and regional environmental issues.

Interactive Decision Analysis M. Grauer, A.P. Wierzbicki, 2013-03-14. During the week of September 20-23, 1983, an International Workshop on Interactive Decision Analysis and Interpretative Computer Intelligence was held at the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis (IIASA) in Laxenburg, Austria. More than fifty scientists representing seventeen countries participated. The aim of the Workshop was to review existing approaches to problems involving multiple conflicting objectives, to look at methods and techniques for interactive decision analysis and to demonstrate the use of existing interactive decision support systems. The Workshop was motivated firstly by the realization that the rapid development of computers especially microcomputers will greatly increase the scope and capabilities of computerized decision support systems It is important to explore the potential of these systems for use in handling the complex technological environmental economic and social problems that face the world today Research in decision support systems also has another less tangible but possibly more important motivation The development of efficient systems for decision support requires a thorough understanding of the differences between the decision making processes in different nations and cultures An understanding of the different rationales underlying decision making is not only necessary for the development of efficient decision support systems but is also an important factor in encouraging international understanding and cooperation Pacific Region Environmental Strategy, 2005-2009 Asian Development Bank, 2004 This series provides critical perspectives on the contemporary environmental issues of Pacific nations and identifies interventions required to address key concerns at the local subnational national regional and global levels Case studies commissioned to provide field level research document such issues as the integration of traditional and modern systems of environmental management and the application of traditional environmental practices to solid waste management in this volume Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations for 2005: pt. 1A.
