Advising Upwards Lynda Bourne, 2016-03-03. Much has been written about leadership and team building but there are still major gaps in thinking and research about how to engage senior stakeholders in support of an organisation's projects. The central role of stakeholders in the successful delivery of organisational strategy is becoming increasingly recognised as is the importance of developing a sponsor culture to support more collaborative practices within the organisation. Building and managing relationships with senior upwards stakeholders is essential for success. Advising Upwards brings together the ideas of experts in fields related to engaging senior stakeholders such as risk management, decision making, understanding cultural considerations, effective communication and other disciplines that may enhance the sustainable engagement of senior stakeholders. The starting point is an examination of the difficulties that senior managers face as they move through the ranks of an organisation from middle management to executive levels. Senior managers usually move up through the organisation on the basis of command and control management. Once in the executive ranks they must develop a more collaborative approach and adopt the principles of emotional intelligence (EQ) to succeed. Awareness of difficulties that senior stakeholders may face drives effective approaches for communication between the team and sponsors. Case studies and stories from experts illustrate practical structured approaches that enable the teams to develop robust relationships with senior stakeholders will result in teams being heard and support their being extraordinary through innovative approaches to advising upwards.

Decolonizing Applied Linguistics Research in Latin America Harold Castañeda-Peña, Paola Gamboa, Claire Kramsch, 2023-09-29 This collection explores the critical decolonial practices of applied linguistics researchers from Latin America and the Latin American diaspora, shedding light on the processes of epistemological decolonization and moving from a monolingual to a multilingual stance. The volume brings together participants from an AILA 2021 symposium in which researchers reflected on applied linguistics in Latin America and on the ways in which it brought concerns around social justice, the legacy of coloniality and the role of monolingual English in education to the fore. Each chapter is composed of four parts: an autobiographical section written both in Spanish or Portuguese and in English, followed by a reflection on the epistemological differences between versions, a discussion in English of the research project, a critical reflection on the epistemic practices and critical pedagogies enacted in the project, and the author's understanding of the concept of decolonization and recommendations for further decolonizing the monolingual mindset of language teachers and learners. At once linguistic, epistemological and political, the collection aims to diversify the concept of decoloniality itself and showcase other ways in which decolonial thought can be implemented in language education. This book will be of interest to scholars in applied linguistics, sociolinguistics and language education.
