The Concept of Self in Hinduism, Buddhism, and Christianity and Its Implication for Interfaith Relations Kiseong Shin, 2017-05-05 This is the first comparative study of the self and no self in Hinduism Buddhism and Christianity In spite of doctrinal differences within these three belief systems they agree that human beings are in a predicament from which they need to be liberated Indian religions including Hinduism and Buddhism share the belief that human nature is inherently perfectible while the epistemological and psychological limitation of the human being is integral to Christian belief Regarding the immortality of the human being Hinduism and Christianity traditionally and generally agree that human beings as atman or soul possess intrinsic immortality On the contrary Buddhism teaches the doctrine of no self anatta Further in their quest to analyze the human predicament and attempt a way out of it they employ different concepts such as sin and salvation in Christianity attachment tanka and enlightenment nirvana in Buddhism and ignorance avidya and liberation moksha in Hinduism This volume seeks to show that that behind these concepts are deep concerns related to human existence and its relationship with the whole creation These common concerns can be a basis for a greater understanding and dialogue between Christians Hindus and Buddhists

Overcoming Our Evil Aaron Stalnaker, 2006-07-26 Can people ever really change Do they ever become more ethical and if so how Overcoming Our Evil focuses on the way ethical and religious commitments are conceived and nurtured through the methodical practices that Pierre Hadot has called spiritual exercises These practices engage thought imagination and sensibility and have a significant ethical component yet aim for a broader transformation of the whole personality Going beyond recent philosophical and historical work that has focused on ancient Greco Roman philosophy Stalnaker broadens ethical inquiry into spiritual exercises by examining East Asian as well as classical Christian sources and taking religious and seemingly aesthetic practices such as prayer ritual and music more seriously as objects of study More specifically Overcoming Our Evil examines and compares the thought and practice of the early Christian Augustine of Hippo and the early Confucian Xunzi Both have sophisticated and insightful accounts of spiritual exercises and both make such ethical work central to their religious thought and practice Yet to understand the two thinkers recommendations for cultivating virtue we must first understand some important differences Here Stalnaker disentangles the competing aspects of Augustine and Xunzi s ideas of human nature His groundbreaking comparison of their ethical vocabularies also drives a substantive analysis of fundamental issues in moral psychology especially regarding emotion and the complex idea of the will to examine how our dispositions to feel think and act might be slowly transformed over time The comparison meticulously constructs vivid portraits of both thinkers demonstrating where they connect and where they diverge making the case that both have been misunderstood and misinterpreted In throwing light on these seemingly disparate ancient figures in unexpected ways Stalnaker redirects recent debate regarding practices of personal formation and more clearly exposes the intellectual and political issues involved in the retrieval of classic ethical sources in diverse contemporary societies illuminating a path toward a contemporary understanding of difference

Redescribing Paul and the Corinthians Society of Biblical Literature,2011 This second volume of studies by members of the SBL Seminar on Ancient Myths and Modern Theories of Christian Origins reassesses the agenda of modern scholarship on Paul and the Corinthians The contributors challenge the theory of religion assumed in most New Testament scholarship and adopt a different set of theoretical and historical terms for redescribing the beginnings of the Christian religion They propose explanations of the relationship between Paul and the recipients of 1 Corinthians the place of Paul s Christ myth for his gospel the reasons for a disinterest in and rejection of Paul s gospel and or for the reception and attraction of it and the disjunction between Paul s collective representation of the Corinthians in 1 Corinthians and the Corinthians own engagement with Paul in mythmaking and social formation including mutual mis translation and mis appropriation of the other s discourse and practices

Freedom and Tradition in Hegel Thomas A. Lewis, 2005-05-12 Freedom and Tradition in Hegel stands at the intersection of three vital currents in contemporary ethics debates over philosophical anthropology and its significance for ethics reevaluations of tradition and modernity and a resurgence of interest in Hegel Thomas A. Lewis engages these three streams of thought in light of Hegel's recently published Vorlesungen über die Philosophie des Geistes Drawing extensively on these lectures Lewis addresses an important lacuna in Hegelian scholarship by first providing a systematic analysis of Hegel's philosophical anthropology and then examining its fundamental role in Hegel's ethical and religious thought Lewis contends that Hegel's anthropology seeks to account for both the ongoing significance of the religious and philosophical traditions in which we are raised and our ability to transcend these traditions Pursuing the implications of the integral role of practice in Hegel's anthropology Lewis argues for a more progressive interpretation of Hegel's ethics and a Hegelian critique of Hegel's most problematic statements on political and social issues Lewis concludes that Hegel offers a powerful strategy for reconciling freedom and tradition This fresh interpretation of Hegel's work provides a challenging new perspective on his ethical and religious thought It will be of significant value to students and scholars in religious studies philosophy and political theory
