A pictorial history of horror movies Denis Gifford, 1974 A Pictorial History of the Movies Mary Davies, Janice Anderson, Peter Arnold, 1976 Now a Terrifying Motion Picture! James F. Broderick, 2014-01-10 This work explores the relationship between twenty five enduring works of horror literature and the classic films that have been adapted from them Each chapter delves into the historical and cultural background of a particular type of horror hauntings zombies aliens and more and provides an overview of a specific work s critical and popular reception Among the print to film titles discussed are Frankenstein Dracula Doctor Jekyll and Mr Hyde The Masque of the Red Death The Hound of the Baskervilles The Phantom of the Opera Psycho The Exorcist and The Shining Eerie Archives Volume 15 Various, 2014-01-21 Bizarre science fiction luminous fantasy dark psychological drama and wild western adventure in the pages of Eerie these genres were brought together twisted and given thrilling touches of the macabre This volume in the acclaimed Eerie Archives hardcover series collects all stories and bonus features from issues 70 to 74 The continued adventures of Coffin undead in the wild west Thrill at the eye popping artwork Painted covers by Ken Kelly and Sanjulian plus all text features and fan pages Eerie Archives Volume 18 Various, 2015-02-10 Richard Corben Eerie Archives Volume 18 celebrates the unique horror work of Richard Corben In addition to running some of the best Corben shorts from the seventies this volume also includes a new interview between Corben and longtime collaborator Jos Villarrubia Horror masters Bruce Jones Bernie Wrightson and Alex Nino also contribute Collects Eerie 86 89 The Shifting Definitions of Genre Lincoln Geraghty, Mark Jancovich, 2008-04-07 Histories of science fiction often discuss Fritz Lang s Metropolis as a classic work within the genre yet the term science fiction had not been invented at the time of the film s release If the genre did not have a name did it exist Does retroactive assignment to a genre change our understanding of a film Do films shift in meaning and status as the name of a genre changes meaning over time These provocative questions are at the heart of this book whose thirteen essays examine the varying constructions of genre within film television and other entertainment media Collectively the authors argue that generic labels are largely irrelevant or even detrimental to the works to which they are applied Part One examines the meanings of genre and reveals how the media is involved in the production and dissemination of generic definitions Part Two considers specific films or groups of films and their relationships within various categorizations Part Three focuses on the closely tied concepts of history and memory as they relate to the perceptions of genre Horror Film Directors, 1931-1990 Dennis Fischer, 2024-10-17 This is an exhaustive study of the major directors of horror films in the six decade period For each director there is a complete filmography including television work a career summary critical assessment and behind the scenes production information Fifty directors are covered in depth but there is an additional section on the hopeless the obscure the promising and the up and coming The Horror Film Peter Hutchings, 2014-09-11 The Horror Film is an in depth exploration of one of the most consistently popular but also most disreputable of all the mainstream film genres Since the early 1930s there has never been a time when horror films were not being produced in substantial numbers somewhere in the world and never a time when they were not being criticised censored or banned The Horror Film engages with the key issues raised by this most contentious of genres It considers the reasons for horror's disreputability and seeks to explain why despite this horror has been so successful Where precisely does the appeal of horror lie An extended introductory chapter identifies what it is about horror that makes the genre so difficult to define The chapter then maps out the historical development of the horror genre paying particular attention to the international breadth and variety of horror production with reference to films made in the United States Britain Italy Spain and elsewhere Subsequent chapters explore The role of monsters focusing on the vampire and the serial killer The usefulness and limitations of psychological approaches to horror The horror audience what kind of people like horror and what do other people think of them Gender race and class in horror how do horror films such as Bride of Frankenstein The Texas Chainsaw Massacre and Blade relate to the social and political realities within which they are produced Sound and horror in what ways has sound contributed to the development of horror Performance in horror how have performers conveyed fear and terror throughout horror's history 1970s horror was this the golden age of horror production Slashers and post slashers from Halloween to Scream and beyond The Horror Film throws new light on some well known horror films but also introduces the reader to examples of noteworthy but more obscure horror work A final section provides a guide to further reading and an extensive bibliography Accessibly written The Horror Film is a lively and informative account of the genre that will appeal to students of cinema film teachers and researchers and horror lovers everywhere

The New Historical Dictionary of the American Film Industry Anthony Slide,2014-02-25 The New Historical Dictionary of the American Film Industry is a completely revised and updated edition of Anthony Slide's The American Film Industry originally published in 1986 and recipient of the American Library Association's Outstanding Reference Book award for that year. More than 200 new entries have been added and all original entries have been updated; each entry is followed by a short bibliography. As its predecessor, the new dictionary is unique in that it is not a who's who of the industry but rather a what's what: a dictionary of producing and releasing companies, technical innovations, industry terms, studios, genres, color systems, institutions, and organizations, etc. More than 800 entries include everything from Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences to Zoom Lens, from Astoria Studios to Zoetrope. Outstanding Reference Source, American Library Association.

British Film Institute Film Classics Rob White, Edward Buscombe, 2003. British Film Catalogue Denis Gifford, 2016-04-01. First published in 2001, the standard work on its subject, this resource includes every traceable British entertainment film from the inception of the silent cinema to the present day. Now this new edition includes a wholly original second volume devoted to non-fiction and documentary film, an area in which the British film industry has particularly excelled. All entries throughout this third edition have been revised, and coverage has been extended through 1994. Together, these two volumes provide a unique authoritative source of information for historians, archivists, librarians, and film scholars.
